Wants Authority to Issue Ten Billion More Bonds and Ten Billion in Notes.

TO RAISE INTEREST RATE

FINANCING OF EXPORTS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Asserting that with the cessation of hostilities the forthcoming Victory Liberty Loan in April cannot be successfully floated within the limitations imposed by existing laws, and pointing out what he called the imperative necessity of remedial legislation, Carter Glass, the new Secretary of the Treasury, today appealed to Congress for legislation granting him greater latitude in the exercise of discretion as to the terms of the new Victory Loan than Congress had conferred respecting previous loans.

In a letter to Claude Kitchin, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, Secretary Glass asks for legislation to make possible by a victory loan, in the coming Spring, the funding of the floating debt incurred up to that time, and for other appropriate legislation. He submitted to Chairman Kitchin the draft of a bill setting forth the desired legislation.

Secretary Glass asks authority to increase the authorized issue of bonds from $20,000,000,000 to $25,000,000,000, which would increase the amount of liberty bonds authorized but not issued to $10,000,000,000; removal of the limitation as to interest rate so far as regards bonds maturing not more than ten years from date of issue, authority for an issue not exceeding $10,000,000,000 of interest-bearing, noncirculating notes maturing in from one to five years, authority to issue notes and bonds payable at a premium, the creation of a 2½ per cent. cumulative sinking fund for the retirement of the war debt, continuation of the existing authority for the purchase of obligations of foreign Governments and other important legislation.

Letter from Secretary Glass.

Secretary Glass's letter to Chairman Kitchin reads:

"Washington, D. C., Feb. 10, 1919.

"Dear Mr. Kitchin: Now that the Revenue bill has passed the House, I desire, in accordance with the intimation contained in my letter of Jan. 15 to you and my talk with you and Mr. Fordney, to ask the attention of the Ways and Means Committee to the necessity of the immediate enactment of legislation amending the Liberty bond acts so as to make possible the funding by a Victory Liberty Loan in the Spring of the floating debt which has been incurred and will be incurred up to that time. The Victory Liberty Loan could not be issued successfully, now that hostilities have ceased, within the limitations imposed by existing laws.

"After most careful consideration of the matter and after receiving and considering the views of bankers, Liberty Loan workers and others whose views are most entitled to consideration, very reluctantly I am constrained to say that I cannot wisely determine now in February the terms of the bonds or other obligations which it would be wise to offer for subscription in April, when the Liberty Loan campaign should probably begin.

"At the moment we are in a period of readjustment. To the slackening of industry and commercial activity incident to the termination of active warfare has been added the usual dullness of the Winter season. The necessary and desirable contraction of our credit structure has begun and will be greatly facilitated by the enactment of appropriate legislation to permit the liquidation of claims arising under informal army contracts. Steps have been taken to break the deadlock which had arisen, growing out of the maintenance, nominally at least, of war prices in certain basic industries. Upon the enactment of appropriate legislation to enable the Food Administration to protect the guarantees given by the United States, I am hopeful that it will prove possible to restore the operation of the law of supply and demand with respect to foodstuffs with, as I believe, a consequent reduction in the cost of living.

"A period of rising prices and of intense industrial activity, such as we have experienced during the past four years, is always a period of great apparent prosperity, and a period of falling prices and of the contraction of credits is always a period of depression. The retardation of the process of re-

American Tank Steamer Sends Out Call for Help

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 10.—Calls for help from the American tank steamer Communipaw were picked up here today. The messages gave the vessel's position as latitude 38.18 north, longitude 55.15 west, but did not explain the nature of her trouble. The American coast guard steamer Tallapoosa was dispatched to her assistance. The Communipaw sailed from New York Feb. 2 for Genoa.

SENATE AGAIN BEATS SUFFRAGE

Amendment Fails of Adoption by One Vote, Tally Being 55 For, 29 Against.

SOUTHERNERS STAND FIRM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—To the bitter disappointment of anxious suffragists who thronged the galleries, the Senate today, by a vote of 55 to 29, again defeated the resolution for the woman suffrage amendment to the Constitution. Despite the urgent cabled appeals of President Wilson, the bulk of Southern Democrats declined to support the measure.

The vote means that all hope of adopting the suffrage resolution in this Congress is gone. Senator Jones of New Mexico, in charge of the resolution, admitted that there was no further chance of putting it through, adding that without doubt the next Republican Congress would adopt it.

After the defeat of the resolution Democrats who had supported it did not hesitate to express their keen disappointment. The refusal of the Southern Democrats to comply with the desire of the President, they felt, would mean that the Democratic Party's hopes at the 1920 election were appreciably hurt. Some went so far as to say that the party could not hope to retrieve itself.

"It means the certain defeat of the Democrats in 1920," said one Democratic leader. "The Republicans will adopt the resolution, and the women of the country will give them full credit for it. The Democrats have perpetrated a stupid trick in defeating the resolution."

The vote came after half an hour of debate. Up to the time of the roll call the suffrage proponents held to the hope that at the last minute enough votes would be won over to adopt it. But on roll call it was found that the Senate stood exactly where it did two months ago, one vote short of the necessary two-thirds of those voting. The vote last December stood 63 to 33.

The Vote in Detail.

FIGHT ON TO RESTORE IT

Special Rule Will Be Asked Today — Small Navy Men Attack Wilson's Plea.

IS IT FOR THREAT OR NAVY?

Text of President's Message Not Made Public—Strong Opposition to Acting Now.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The group of "Small Navy Men" and opponents to enlargement of the navy until peace is concluded had a temporary victory in the House today when the three-year naval building program in the form advocated by President Wilson was eliminated from the bill by a point of order raised by Representative James R. Mann, Republican leader.

Mr. Mann, a few minutes before final action was expected on this controversial subject, made his point that the paragraph, together with the limitation, authorizing the President to prosecute the building program or abandon in accordance with final action of the Peace Conference, was new legislation, and as such had no place under the House rules in an appropriation bill. His position was sustained by Representative F. J. Garrett, who was in the chair, while the House was sitting in Committee of the Whole.

This sudden and unexpected development, apparently well thought out by the opposition and the small navy adherents, complicated the situation and forced Chairman Padgett into a position where he had to abandon the program advocated by President Wilson, with the modifying clause, or resort to a demand for a radical rule. This he decided to do after the Chair ruled out an amendment offered by him, saying that it fell within the same lines as the original ruling.

After offering a second amendment which eliminated the objectionable clause Mr. Padgett forced the adjournment with the intention of asking the Rules Committee tomorrow for a rule declaring the three-year program and the limitation proviso in order. The bitterest fight of the session undoubtedly will be waged tomorrow either on the rule or on an amendment framed to overcome the objections raised.

For more than two hours the House was regaled with a brilliant parliamentary debate. In brief, Mr. Mann cited precedent after precedent to sustain his contention that the three-year program read in connection with the following paragraphs which authorized the President to prosecute the program or abandon it, in accordance with the final action of the Peace Conference on armament, was new legislation.

An amendment offered by Mr. Padgett to defeat the ruling, provided for an appropriation of $5,000,000 for the building of ten battleships and ten scout cruisers. This contained the limiting clause, and a point of order was sustained against it. Finally, in order to keep the para-

Railroads Surveying Labor Conditions With a View to Economic Operation

Following a report yesterday that the department heads of the Pennsylvania Railroad had been ordered to make a survey with a view to determining how many employes could be dismissed without crippling the service, inquiry was made at the office of A. H. Smith, the Regional Director for the Eastern District, to ascertain whether similar action had been taken with regard to the railroads of the East. Mr. Smith's assistant said that such a survey as the Pennsylvania is making would ge made in the normal course of business, for the roads had to "cut their garment according to their cloth"; that, if traffic conditions demanded a cut of the operating force, the public would not want the waste and inefficiency incident upon the use of men who were not needed.

P. E. Crowley, Federal Manager of the New York Central Railroad, would not make a formal statement, when asked whether he had ordered such a survey, but he did authorize the following information:

"The New York Central is not making a sweeping survey with a view to wholesale reductions in its force, but it is true that a reorganization is taking place with the object of adjusting the working force to the marked changes that have taken place since the signing of the armistice. This readjustment is not an extraordinary procedure, but is the normal reaction to changes in traffic conditions, and is necessarily made frequently by railroads in the interest of economy and efficiency. Just what the result of the investigation will be is not known. However, although it is certain that some employes will be dropped, it is not likely that there will be many. The situation is complicated by the return of soldiers and sailors, who are being placed in their old positions, thereby making it unnecessary to retain some of those who have been hired in their places. While the pressure on freight has been relieved by the cessation of the war, some of the labor slack caused thereby has been taken up by augmenting the passenger service."

Inquiry at the offices of the Lehigh Valley and other Eastern railroads brought out the fact that "reorganization" is taking place on all the Eastern roads in the interests of economy and efficiency, but it was said in all cases that it was simply being carried out in the normal course of business, and that it was not expected that anything drastic would be done, although there had undoubtedly been a big reduction in business since the end of the war. It was pointed out that on some railroads committees are continually traveling about looking for chances to economize, and, further, that one of the methods being used to secure such economy was to institute in so far as possible the actual eight-hour day and thus eliminate pay for overtime.

Prince Henry Urges Return to Kaiser and Pre-War Plans

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Feb. 10, (via Copenhagen.)—The Hamburger Nachrichten addressed a circular letter to prominent persons connected with the old régime asking certain questions pertaining to the task of the National Convention. Prince Henry of Prussia, who received the letter, replied as follows:

"The National Convention's principal task must be the restoration of the power and dignity of the German Empire as at the beginning of the war.

"Secondly, the restoration and extension of German economic interests as before the war.

"Thirdly, the speedy return of law and order.

"These aims may be reached, firstly, by the restoration of monarchical Kaiserdom under the old dynasty and Prussia's leadership based on the Federal Constitution as historically developed.

"Secondly, by granting extensive parliamentary rights throughout the empire and individual States.

"Fourthly, by the speedy elimination of all costly, parasitic Governments, such as the Soldiers' and Workers' Councils which only impede the Government machine, and are subject to mere arbitrariness.

"Fifthly, by the creation of adequate land, sea, and air power by tried and well-known methods and in accordance with geographical position."

Prince Henry stands alone with his hope for the return of the Hohenzollerns or any other dynasties. Other persons, among whom are Admiral von Scheer, General Litzmann, Director General Heinecken, Helfferich, &c., merely advise incessant work, conscientiousness, a strong Government, and the like.

ROUND UP TO OUST ALIEN AGITATORS

RIGOROUS NEW ACT APPLIED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The two carloads of foreign labor agitators now on the way from the West to New York are to be passed through the immigration clearing house at Ellis Island for deportation to Russia and other countries as soon as ship transportation can be provided for them.

Most of this particular group, it was said here today, were rounded up in Seattle and the immediate vicinity, and more than fifty of them are in the party. There are also some odds and ends of agitators from other parts of the country who are being sent to Ellis Island for deportation.

The orders for their deportation have been signed by Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, who has had a number of anarchist cases under consideration for some time. He is acting both under the authority of Section 19 of the immigration law of Feb. 5, 1917, and under the special enactment against anarchists passed by Congress in response to Mr. Caminetti's appeal on Oct. 16, 1918, which vests him with authority to expel from the United States aliens who are members of the anarchistic and similar classes.

More Cases Are Pending.

The movement of these agitators to New York and their deportation will continue for the next five or six weeks. A number of cases are pending for final action, and as soon as the order has been signed in their cases the men involved will be sent to Ellis Island for safe keeping, pending their deportation. Most of those now being sent to New York from Seattle are Russians, but there are some from Scandinavian and Mediterranean countries and several from England.

Some of these cases have been accumulating for several years. While the Government has had clear cases in many instances, the men could not be deported because shipping was not available, or because they came from Austria, Bulgaria, or enemy regions to which they could not be sent during the war.

One of the subjects that gave the officials of the Immigration Bureau great concern during the period preceding the signing of the armistice in November involved the activity of alien anarchists and persons affiliated with organizations, which, while they may not be avowedly anarchistic, spread the propa-

France Wants Sternest Measures to Render Germany Powerless

SEES HER GROWING BOLDER

DIFFERENT AMERICAN PLAN

Would Restore Germany to Normal Industry to Enable Her to Pay Her Bills.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—Despite Marshal Foch's recent warning of Germany's potential military strength in April and the comparative weakness of the Allies at that time because of the present demobilization, France neither fears nor expects a resumption of hostilities in the near future. Such a resumption is admitted to be a remote possibility, but so remote as to be practically negligible.

The best proof of this is the fact that, contrary to a wide impression, France has not checked her demobilization in the slightest degree and has no intention of doing so. This does not mean, however, that Foch's warnings are not taken very seriously as something that should find tangible response from the Supreme War Council and the Armistice Commission, fixing terms for renewal of the armistice a week from today.

What France does fear is that what the French call the too easygoing methods of dealing with Germany will embolden that country to come to the Peace Conference later, not as a conquered nation but as an unbeaten country, making vociferous claims for "rights" and "immunities" which France is determined she is not to have.

It is feared, furthermore, that if Germany can have her own way during the armistice period, evading the terms and getting stronger and more confident every day, she will be able to take the next step and get what she demands in the peace treaty. Then, say the French, fighting would be resumed, not in a few weeks or months but in a few years.

Still Claiming Alsace-Lorraine.

Already the Germans are claiming Alsace-Lorraine as their own, which they will never permanently relinquish. Such a claim, said a French Foreign Office member to me today, is one of a thousand signs that Germany must still be considered as an enemy nation, not yet conquered and still full of menace for the future of France.

But the French do not wish to risk serious discontent at home by ceasing to demobilize because of danger across the Rhine. They prefer to get the same results by reversing the process and putting into the new terms of the armistice a rigid provision that Germany shall demobilize.

When fighting ceased, on Nov. 11, Germany had 121 divisions fighting. She is now supposed to have about a hundred under arms. The French would feel safe if Germany could be compelled to reduce these to twenty-five divisions.

There is no objection on the part of America or Great Britain to a large reduction of troops by Germany, but it is not thought sufficient merely to ask or tell her to demobilize. France would enforce the demand, if necessary, by restoring the blockade with all the wartime rigidity, preventing all food or raw materials going in so long as the old and the proposed new terms of the armistice are not complied with to the last letter.

But there is a difference of opinion in Paris as to the wisdom and expediency of such extreme measures. The American tendency is to restore Germany as fast as possible to normal industrial conditions, to enable her to pay her bills. The French fear of future German military activity is not shared by America or England.

France, on the other hand, is in the awkward position of wanting to achieve two big things which in the opinion of the other allies seem to be diametrically opposed, the accomplish-

League of Nations Plan Virtually Complete; Will Go to Full Peace Congress This Week

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The plan for the League of Nations was virtually completed today by the special commission, headed by President Wilson, which has the matter in charge.

This result was made possible by the report of a special committee clarifying certain passages in ambiguous language in the plan.

The plan is understood to leave the formation of the permanent international court of justice to the Society of Nations after its organization.

The constitution of the society itself will be written by the representatives of the greater powers now here. Credit for the plan of the organization will be given to the United States.

To President Wilson has been accorded the honor of being designated as the one who shall issue the formal call to the nations of the world to join the Society of Nations after its machinery has been set up by the Peace Conference.

The League Commission is understood to have approved the plan providing that the President shall perform this function, it being considered that the distinction was due him.

This communiqué was issued tonight:

> The seventh meeting of the Commission of the League of Nations was held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Hotel de Crillon.
> At this meeting the commission finished its first reading of the draft under discussion. In addition the Drafting Commission, to whom the commission had intrusted the revision of certain articles of the draft, made its report. The meeting adjourned at 1:15 P. M. to resume work at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.
>
> Though certain of the earlier articles may be subjected to re-examination at tomorrow's session, it is confidently expected that the commission will be able to proceed with the second reading of the draft.

President Hsu Chih Chang Refuses to Let Mikado's Envoys Control Paris Delegation.

VLADIVOSTOK, Feb. 8, (Canadian Press.)—Reports from Omsk state that the Russian Government there has accepted an offer from Japan of men, money, and arms to settle the Bolshevist difficulty.

This step, it is stated, is due to reports that the Allies are to withdraw their forces from Siberia and also to a fear that the conference at the Princes' Islands will result in recognition of the Bolsheviki.

In return for the aid she is to give, the reports state, Japan will secure an iron and coal concession in the Priamur district.

A Vladivostok report under date of Jan. 27, received by the Canadian Press, said that all parties in Siberia were alarmed over rumors that the allied forces in Siberia would withdaw in the Spring or Summer.

PEKING, Feb. 10.—Although the Cabinet and Diplomatic Commission have advised acceding to the Japanese wishes that the Chinese peace delegates shall act in consonance with those of Japan, President Hsu Chih Chang has not yielded. Instead, he has cabled to Paris an expression of confidence in the Chinese delegates

The Japanese attempt at dominance has caused the delegates of the North and South, who are in conference endeavoring to reach an agreement that will end the civil war, to unite in telegrams of encouragement to the President.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Japan has notified China that China must work in harmony with Japan at the Peace Conference and must undertake not to reveal to the Conference secret Chino-Japanese agreements, according to a Reuter dispatch from Peking dated Feb. 3.

The correspondent says this information comes from Chinese sources, and Reuters says it should be regarded with some reserve.

According to the dispatch, Japan stipulated that failure by China to give such assurances would result in effective Japanese financial pressure on China.

TOKIO, Feb. 9, (Associated Press.)—The Hochi Shimbun and the Nichi Shimbun, in apparently inspired articles, both announce today that the Government has instructed Baron Makino, Foreign Minister and member of the Japanese Peace Mission, to reveal privately to the five great powers the contents of the Chino-Japanese treaties.

BERLIN, Feb. 9, (via Copenhagen.)—Six persons were killed and fourteen wounded in shooting affrays in the Schönhauser district yesterday. The Government forces' losses were a few slightly wounded.

Besides a number of secret arms depots and large stores of goods of all kinds stolen from army depots, the Government forces discovered and seized a counterfeiting establishment. Some Secret Service men accompanying the troops noticed four suspicious-looking men leaving a certain house and made them prisoners. Searching the house, they discovered plates, presses, and colors for producing counterfeit fifty-mark notes.

According to the police report, papers were also found proving that the four prisoners were of Polish nationality, and had some connection with General Pilsudski.

Toward evening the rioters tried to shift to the housetops again, but the troops followed them so rapidly and made so many prisoners that this method of guerilla warfare was soon ended.

When retiring through Münzstrasse, the troops were followed by perhaps a thousand desperate persons, who were only kept in check by an occasional threat to use the bayonet. Hardly had the soldiers turned the corner when a window opened and an old man appeared there and chided the mob for creating a disturbance.

"He is not an officer. Let's seize the churl," cried the crowd, and some young fellows fetched the offender from the house. He said he was very ill and annoyed at the disturbances. Nevertheless, he had to apologize to the mob.

On Brunnenstrasse, which resembles the Bowery in New York, some sailors and civilians, having sneaked past the marching columns of Government troops, suddenly turned against a detachment of machine gunners and with revolvers and hand grenades sought to compel the surprised soldiers to disarm. When the latter refused, they fired their revolvers and threw their grenades.

One of the rioting sailors was literally torn to pieces by grenades thrown by his own companions, whom the soldiers soon dispersed with their rifle butts.

ZURICH, Feb. 10.—Grave Spartacide disorders broke out in Berlin Saturday evening, according to advices received here.

Soldiers and sailors, commanded by former Chief of Police Eichhorn, are reported to have occupied Alexander Platz, and Government troops opened fire upon them, eight persons being killed and forty wounded, it is said. German censorship is withholding details of the trouble.

MUCH HINGES ON ARMISTICE

Satisfactory Agreement on Drastic Proposals May Allay the Present Tension.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

By Cable and Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The situation in the Peace Conference has reached a pass where some of the plenipotentiaries believe that drastic action is necessary to relieve it.

I am able to say that the American delegation intends to propose that the conference be moved out of France on account of the intensive propaganda here, which is construed as designed to delay the making of peace and obstruct generally the efforts to obtain a settlement that will restore normal conditions throughout the world. The dissatisfaction is such that concealment is no longer thought wise.

It was reported early that the British delegation also held this view, but later it became known that they would not be a party to the proposal to move the conference elsewhere.

The acute cause of this decision on the part of the American delegation, which, of course, means President Wilson, is supposed to be the Clemenceau interview with The Associated Press. The text of this interview was published in the Paris newspapers today.

In addition, the tone of the French press has impressed the American delegation with the idea that a concerted campaign is in progress to hamper action by the Peace Conference that will bring war officially to an end. For this reason, it is held, the conference cannot proceed in a manner free from influences of this character while the sessions take place in France unless there is a radical change in the methods that are being pursued.

No other place has yet been suggested so far as I know for the meeting of the conference.

Whether the proposal to move the place of meeting has been made formally I am not informed, but it would not be surprising if it was brought to the attention of the Supreme Council before this dispatch reaches New York.

Out of the discussions now in progress is likely to arise an agreement which will give the armistice terms the status of a preliminary peace treaty with Germany.

The armistice expires on Feb. 17. The confident belief is expressed that if certain proposals are accepted by the Supreme War Council the existing differences between the Allies will be straightened out. One difficulty arises over proposals for neutralizing both sides of the Rhine and giving Essen over to the Allies' control. There is some objection to this on the ground that subjects settled in the first armistice cannot be included in the new arrangements.

The American delegates do not oppose reducing the German Army to a fixed figure which is under discussion by the War Council or originating other measures to make Germany impotent in a military way, but contend that the terms in this connection should be definite. There is a growing belief that matters will be arranged satisfactorily, thus ending the French war scare and laying a foundation for lifting the German blockade and restoring the world to a normal condition.

These developments late today may allay American indignation over the French press propaganda and cause the abandonment of the proposal to hold sessions of the Peace Conference outside of France.

One difficulty is still unsettled. This is the proposal from the Armistice Commission that unless Germany complies immediately with the allied armistice terms the German Army shall be reduced to a negligible strength and additional territory shall be occupied.

"Certain French Officials" Blamed.

PARIS, Feb. 10, (Associated Press.)—The question of moving the Peace Conference from Paris to a neutral country may be considered by the conference if what is characterized as the obstructive policy of the French press and certain French officials continues, it developed today.

Representatives of various other powers taking part in the Peace Conference, it is stated, believe that the work of the body is being greatly hampered through unfriendly criticism by the French press of various leaders in the conference. They are represented, therefore, as inclined to consider the removal of the conference if the hostile attitude of the French press is maintained.

Should it be deemed necessary to take up the matter, it would be considered at a full meeting of the Peace Conference.

Just what is meant in the dispatch by the "obstructive policy of the French press and certain French officials" is not clear, possibly because there has been difficulty in obtaining full reports of developments in Paris in connection with the Peace Conference.

During the war there was seldom difficulty, despite the serious handicap of the censorship, in getting through news matter from France in reasonable time and plentiful volume, largely over the direct French cable lines. Since the delegates began assembling for the Peace Conference, however, and especially since the real work of the conference started, communication with France has been most uncertain.

Virtually no news has been received over the French cable line; the quickest means of communication, since the conference began. All the cable and wireless services have been greatly congested, but the chief difficulty has been that, although the French cable was nominally in service, there has been complete inability to transmit news matter over it, and that all the cable communication for weeks has been by roundabout routes.

COMMISSIONS TO KEEP BUSY.

Minor Subjects Will Be Taken Up While Wilson Is Away.

PARIS, Feb. 10, (Associated Press.)—Such headway has been made by some of the lesser commissions of the Peace Conference with the plans before them that it is expected that these commissions will be ready to report several important projects to the conference for its action almost immediately after the report of the Commission on the Society of Nations is disposed of.

The conference itself, while it appears likely to drop into a more leisurely pace after the departure of President Wilson and Premier Orlando of Italy and in the absence of Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, who has already left Paris, plans to undertake the discussion of some of these topics. Interesting debates are expected to follow, occupying the time of the conference profitably during the comparatively brief absence of those leaders.

The Committee on Reparation held a session today, and this bulletin was issued tonight regarding it:

> The Committee on Reparation met this morning at the Ministry of Finance, with M. Klotz in the chair. After naming the members of the different sub-committees, the committee began the discussion of the principles upon which rest the right to reparation, and the examining of the memoranda submitted by the different delegations.
>
> William H. Hughes (Premier of Australia) set forth the considerations upon which the British memorandum was based.

The Commission on Ports, Waterways, and Railways also met today. This bulletin was issued:

> The Commission on the International Régime of Ports, Waterways, and Railways held its second meeting at the Ministry of Public Works today at 3 o'clock, under the Chairmanship of M. Crespi.
> Two proposals were presented to the commission. The first, presented by the British delegation, relates to the freedom of interior transit, and the second, presented by the French delegation, relates to a study of the questions involved in the international régime of ports, waterways, and railways, as well as the rivers and railroads to which this régime should be applied.
>
> After an exchange of views among the members of the commission, it was decided to appoint two small committees, one consisting of nine members, of which five should represent the great powers and four the minor powers, to study questions relative to the application of the international régime of ports, waterways, and railways; the second, consisting of ten members, five from the great powers and five from the minor powers, to study the relation of general questions.
>
> The second of these committees will hold its first meetings on Thursday, Feb. 13, at 3 o'clock.

If the Commission on Credentials ever begins to function some stirring developments are expected to follow.

The commission has not met thus far, even to organize, the conference having got along entirely without the right of any of the delegates to their seats being challenged, which is probably without precedent in the history of such international gatherings, it being recalled that the famous Westphalian Congress of 1647 spent the better part of a year in verifying the credentials of its members.

The usual course at these assemblages is for the delegates to present credentials as soon as they gather, any one of them being privileged to make objection to the credentials of another if he find ground to do so. It was stated, however, that the Committee on Credentials of the present conference would conduct any investigation found necessary of the sufficiency of the papers brought by each delegate, and that it would await the arrival of all the delegates before undertaking the work.

The delegates have been coming along in single file ever since the opening of the conference, and it has not been thought proper to begin the examination of the documents. Rumors, however, have been current recently that there was another reason for the delay—the apprehension on the part of the directing forces of the conference that objections would be immediately lodged against the presence of some persons who have already occupied seats in the conference and who, it is said, are not proper representatives of their Governments or are accredited by organizations that have no existence as Governments.

Leading members of the conference, who express confidence that these persons have a proper status in the body, have sanctioned their presence and have even admitted some of them to membership in the principal commissions, and it is understood that the conference leaders do not wish to have an issue raised now in this connection that might result in bad feeling and interfere with the smooth progress of the peace-making work.

"TIGER'S" FRANKNESS PLEASES

Figaro Praises Clemenceau's "Vigorous and Hardy Pessimism."

PARIS, Feb. 10.—Commenting on the interview given by Premier Clemenceau to The Associated Press, which occupies the place of honor in all the Paris newspapers today, Alfred Capus in the Figaro says:

> "With its vigorous and hardy pessimism, it is an act of ardent patriotism. It is just the plain language which it is fitting to talk to France and her allies at the present moment. France should be made to recall that her enemy wished for fifty years to cripple her, and has not given up that design. The Allies must be told that the victory bought with so much blood and sacrifice will remain a precarious one if they do not know how to complete it. Finally, Germany must be shown that she can no longer deceive us and that it is our firm intention to make peace, also, 'to the finish.'
>
> "Premier Clemenceau has never been more lucid or stronger than in these declarations, which will have a considerable effect."

CLEMENCEAU AIMING AT US?

London Paper Thinks He May Be Warning Against Generosity to Foe.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Feb. 11. — The Chronicle, commenting on The Associated Press interview with Clemenceau, says:

> "It shows how absolutely the octogenarian statesman has realized the danger of relying upon the Hun's broken word, but some people will regard the utterance as a winged arrow intended for America.
> "It is popularly supposed that Mr. Wilson is on the side of moderation, as against any seeming demonstration of an imperialistic spirit. On the other hand, Clemenceau is a most strenuous advocate of the fortiter in re, or the strong hand, in dealing with the enemy. Hence it may be assumed that the French Premier was anxious to inform public opinion in America before the arrival of the President of the dangers of too generous treatment of the foe."

ENGLAND MODIFIES EMBARGO ON SHOES

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The British Import Restriction Control Board has modified the proposed embargo be re-imposed on March 1, to allow the importation of American boots and shoes to the extent of 25 per cent. of the number imported in 1913.

This announcement virtually nullifies the efforts of the joint conference of importers and British manufacturers, which has been attempting to agree upon some modified plan of the import restrictions which would prove agreeable to both sides and which the British Government would accept.

TAFT BESPEAKS BACKING FOR WILSON

League of Nations Necessary, He Says, to Bring Permanent Peace.

PUTS WORLD COURT FIRST

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—An appeal to American citizens to unite in support of President Wilson in his fight for a League of Nations was made today by prominent speakers at the opening session of the Great Lakes Congress of the League to Enforce Peace. The opinion was expressed that the proposed league should be based upon a constructive peace, justice, and sound principles.

William H. Taft, the principal speaker at the evening session, said that the defeat of Germany would not bring permanent peace without a League of Nations treaty, and that the many questions and disputes that would grow out of enforcing this treaty would have to be interpreted by an impartial international court.

First, we will have the international court; second, the council of conciliation; third, the agreement for organizing economic powers and military force if need be, and, fourth and finally, the congress of powers.

"All that this league proposes is that every nation shall enjoy complete sovereignty within the limitations of international law.

"Let us support any real League of Nations that is brought back, even if it does not give us all we desire, so that it will have fair consideration on its merits, so that we can discuss its provisions, not in a nagging, critical, unfair way, but with a constructive spirit, with team work for all to go on and realize what should be the glorious fruits of this war."

Dr. Henry van Dyke, former American Minister to the Netherlands, said that the League of Nations plan, far from abandoning the Monroe Doctrine, proposed to extend its application, not only to America, but everywhere.

Before Germany could become a member, Dr. van Dyke said, she must first repent and prove her repentance by works of restitution and reparation, and must tinstitute a Government directly responsible to the people, and "free alike from convicted liars and bloody Bolsheviki."

Other speakers were Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University; Dr. George Grafton Wilson of Harvard University; Oliver Wilson, Master of the National Grange, and Edward A. Filene, Director of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The congress will close tomorrow.

POLES TAKE 3 TOWNS FROM GERMAN TROOPS

Chief Railroad Route From Fortress of Thorn to Berlin Reported to be Threatened.

BERLIN, Feb. 9, (Associated Press.)—The situation at Bromberg is rapidly growing worse, the correspondent of the Täglische Rundschau telegraphs from the German-Polish front. The German troops there are said to be engaging in politics instead of in warfare.

The Poles have won new successes, the correspondent reports, having captured within one day the towns of Schubin, Netzwalde, and Gruenthal station. The town of Nakel was being bombarded by the Poles when the correspondent's dispatch was filed.

He declares that unless reinforcements for the Germans arrive promptly the chief railroad route from Thorn to Berlin will be interrupted. The border defenses, he reports, are proving wholly inadequate.

PADEREWSKI HARD WORKER.

WARSAW, Feb. 9, (Associated Press.)—Poland has reached the first rung in the ladder of freedom and her prosperity is much nearer than her enemies would have the world believe, Ignace Jan Paderewski, the Premier and Foreign Minister, said in a statement today. He pointed to the result of the elections and the fact that the elections were conducted peaceably as proof of the union of all parties and added:

"One of the first of our needs is the opening of the Port of Danzig so that we will be able to bring in products to lower the terrific cost of living. To bring in products would automatically decrease the cost in local markets."

Premier Paderewski is bearing up well under the tremendous strain of the last two months. He lives at the Hotel Bristol, of which he is part owner, with Mme. Paderewski. There is always a guard of soldiers at the door, but the Paderewski suite is besieged daily by delegations wishing to express their admiration for M. Paderewski.

The Premier spends very little time at the Ministry of Foregn Affars, but works eghteen to twenty hours a day at the Hotel Bristol. He seldom gets to bed much before 5 o'clock in the morning. M. Paderewski reads and signs virtually every document of importance relating to the Polish Government, but he carries the burden cheerfully, saying: "The work has got to be done."

EISNER FLAYS BOLSHEVISM.

Proletarian Dictatorship Worse Than Capitalism, He Says.

BERNE, Feb. 10.—Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian Premier, who has been charged in several quarters with sympathizing with the Bolsheviki, made plain his position on this question yesterday by declaring himself strongly against Bolshevism.

"Bolshevism is the most terrible insanity of our time," said Herr Eisner in addressing a meeting of Berne students. "The Bolshevist idea is to replace the present régime by the dictatorship of the proletariat, which is much worse than capitalism."

SEES CRUSHING TAX FACING GERMANY

TELLS OF FEAR AT WEIMAR

BERLIN, Feb. 9, (Associated Press.)—The Weimar correspondent of the Lokal-Anzeiger reports that Prussian Minister of Finance Suedekum, in a discussion with the financial Ministers of the Federated States, painted an extremely gloomy economic future for Germany.

Herr Suedekum is reported to have said that Germany would be obliged to have assistance, that a state of bankruptcy was imminent, and that affairs might reach the stage where each individual would be compelled to give up the major share of his income to the State, being permitted to retain only enough to cover most urgent needs.

WEIMAR, Feb. 9, (Associated Press.)—At a meeting of representatives of all the political factions here yesterday Minister of War Reinhardt discussed the problem of sending troops to the German eastern frontier. He said that voluntary recruiting was not efficient for the purpose and predicted that conscription would be necessary in order to raise adequate forces.

Herr Reinhardt said that it was necessary to impress upon the youth of Germany the fact that the whole future of the nation was unsettled so long as insecure conditions prevailed on the frontier, and that for the moment the young men of the Fatherland were under obligation to fight for it.

The Poles, he argued, were assuming a grave responsibility, "in preventing the Germans from devoting their effort to beating off the Bolsheviki," and Poland would be better employed, if she were guarding her Eastern frontier against the Russian menace rather than invading German territory.

The political factions here are said to be a unit in favor of authorizing the Government to adopt such measures as are necessary to safeguard the inviolability of German territory.

HINDENBURG FACED SURRENDER OR TRUCE

BERLIN, Feb. 9, (Associated Press.)—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in urging last November that the armistice terms of the Allies be accepted, admitted that the German Army would otherwise be forced to surrender, according to a statement made by Konstantin Fehrenbach, Vice President of the National Assembly at Weimar.

Herr Fehrenbach said that he was present on Nov. 10 at a meeting in the Chancellery at which, after Dr. Solf, the Foreign Secretary, had read the terms of the armistice, a telegram from Field Marshal von Hindenburg was read, in which the German commander requested that the armistice conditions be accepted forthwith, as he could not hold his army together any longer. The army was already deserting him, the Field Marshal declared, and if the allied conditions were not accepted he would be forced to capitulate with his entire forces.

Dr. Theobald von Bethmann Hollweg, German Imperial Chancellor at the outbreak of the war, reiterates his willingness to go before an impartial tribunal for the purpose of accounting for his stewardship of Germany's foreign policy, in a communication to the Kreuz-Zeitung.

The former Chancellor's letter, which repeats utterances made by him last November, makes the condition that both parties submit complete records. He also takes it for granted that a neutral tribunal should hear his case and base its decision on his constitutional responsibility for the political acts of the former Emperor.

TELL OF RUIN OF LENS MINES

American Engineers Say Germans Wrecked Collieries Systematically.

At a meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, held last night at the Engineering Societies Building, delegates from these societies made their preliminary report upon conditions in France. A description of the condition in which the Germans left the Lens coal mines was given by E. G. Spillsbury. The requirements of the French for agricultural rehabilitation were outlined by George W. Fuller, and the need of improved technical education was emphasized by Dr. George F. Swayne. George W. Tillson spoke on the condition of the highways and L. B. Stilwell on hydroelectric power.

After giving a general idea of the sixty mines at Lens before the war, Mr. Spillsbury said that nothing remained of them but twisted masses of steel. He added that the Germans were exceedingly thorough in their method of destruction.

"They cut through the steel supports with the oxyacetylene torch, and then pulled down the whole structure. Of the electric motors and generators there is no trace. The shafts they flooded by ditches leading from the Somme Canal.

"The companies owning the works have already made their plans and specifications for rebuilding. The orders for material are being filled in Switzerland and Southern France, and the first deliveries are expected to be made in March or April. It is estimated that it will take 30,000 horse power for a year and a half to pump the water out of the mines, and they will begin to take coal out of the upper seams in about a year. The task of clearing away the wreckage is perilous, because the Germans connected the débris with unexploded bombs and hand grenades.

"One thing evident is that the French are not waiting, but are active in reconstruction work. They are not using foreign engineers, but are doing all the work themselves."

Mr. Fuller said that nothing was being done to rehabilitate the land, and pointed out that there were many obstacles such as the stress upon transportation facilities, the delay in demobilization, the difficulty in borrowing funds, and the peculiar political conditions.

Dr. Swayne explained that the delegates were invited to come to France by the Congress of French Engineers, which was convened in Paris last March. He said the French wanted whatever help they could get from America in rehabilitating their country, and the problems considered by the American engineers were those affecting ports, navigable waterways, roads, agriculture, water power, and technical education.

CECIL DISINCLINED TO BE ENVOY HERE

PARIS, Feb. 10.—Lord Robert Cecil, British representative on the League of Nations Commission, is still considering the question whether he will accept the appointment as British Ambassador at Washington, which has been offered him.

It is understood that he is not inclined to take the post. Personal reasons, it is said, stand in the way of his absenting himself from England.

Lord Robert Cecil, the third son of the late Marquis of Salisbury and for several years that famous statesman's private secretary, was made Minister of Blockade in 1916 at a time when the differences between the neutrals, led by the United States, and the British Empire in regard to blockade, contraband, search, confiscation, &c., had reached an acute stage. His administration, good-humoredly fortified by precedents which this country itself had created, served to clear the air.

Nor was this the first time that he had poured oil on the rising waters between England and America. In the Cleveland Administration, when the Venezuelan affair threatened strained relations between Washington and London, Lord Robert, fully cognizant of the American point of view as imparted to him by Henry Norman, had advised his father to "go slowly and make a merit of necessity by yielding with grace," advice which the old peer studiously observed.

During the war Lord Robert's interpretation of the American policy—both officially and unofficially expressed—almost caused him to be regarded as an unaccredited American representative at 10 Downing Street.

Early in 1917 he adroitly paved the way for Europe to understand just why the United States should break with Germany. He praised the work of Hoover and his associates, often took issue with the German Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Bethmann Hollweg, when the latter complained of the moral support this country was giving the Entente, clarified the notes and messages of President Wilson, and, when Congress declared war, he became an out-and-out advocate of the President's idealism and an expounder of the practical machinery he saw working behind it. The Allies, he said in August, 1917, stood by the President's reply to the Pope—"It could not be improved."

In regard to the League of Nations Lord Robert has followed the lead of the President rather than those of British statesmen—rather than the definite proposals of General Smuts. He differs from the President in regard to the latter's views, as so far put into action, in regard to intervention in Russia—he believes in disinterested internvention in force—and, he has faith in Japan.

ARMISTICE VIEWS CLASH

On one side is the French insistence that Germany shall pay the last franc that can be got out of her for the damage she has caused. The other desire is to make Germany impotent industrially and in every other way that is necessary to keep her impotent for all future time in a military way.

France seems to think it is necessary, and hence desires to prevent all supplies going to Germany and compel her to disband her armies.

These differences are to be thrashed out by the Allies within the next seven days. The outlook now is that France will adopt the view that her enemy must be kept going, to pay the bills if for no other reason.

WAR COUNCIL DEBATES ARMISTICE CHANGES

PARIS, Feb. 10. (Associated Press.)—The Supreme War Council, in which Marshal Foch and other military commanders sit with the council of the great powers, continued today the discussion of the conditions for the renewing of the German armistice, but reached no decision.

Discussion of the armistice took a wide range, including the German failure to execute some clauses of the previous armistice, the blockade, and the use of enemy merchant shipping. But the main issue turned on a series of proposals of a rather drastic nature, designed to place the enemy beyond the possibility of rearming and renewing the conflict.

From the French standpoint the menace of such a renewal is not past, and it is urged as a matter of foresight that suitable safeguards should be established. What these safeguards are has not been disclosed, but it is generally understood that they include the limitation of the production of field and heavy guns, and an exact accounting of heavy guns now on hand, also some limitation of the military organization which is to be of police service.

While some of the military commanders take the view that radical measures are needed to assure the Allies, particularly France, against a possibility of renewed peril, other views tend to place reliance on economic measures as the best means of averting any renewal of enemy activity.

Besides the discussion of the armistice terms, M. Klotz, French Minister of Finance, presented documents of the German General Staff, showing a systematic plan to destroy French industry, not only as a military measure, but as a means to promote German industrial interests. These documents were referred to the new Economic Council. Discussion of the armistice terms will be continued tomorrow.

This communiqué was issued after the council session today:

> A meeting of the Supreme War Council was held this afternoon from 3 to 5:30 o'clock at the Quai d'Orsay.
>
> The conditions of the renewal of the armistice were first discussed. M. Klotz, French Minister of Finance, then described the work, published in 1916, of the German great General Staff, proving the premeditated and systematic character of the destruction of French industry. He gave a detailed analysis of this work, which it was decided to refer to the Economic Committee.
>
> The next meeting will take place tomorrow at 3 o'clock. The Belgian delegates will first be heard.

TAKE SERIOUS VIEW OF GERMAN DESIGNS

Military Men in Paris Say She Is Not Demobilizing and Still Has Great War Power.

LONDON, Feb. 10, (British Wireless Service.)—British newspapers of all shades of opinion are devoting serious attention to the attitude adopted by the German Government toward the armistice conditions.

The Paris correspondent of The Daily News sends a dispatch from an "authoritative source," in which he says that his informant told him that he had the best reason to believe that Germany was not continuing to demobilize.

"She has now concentrated more than eighteen divisions under von Hindenburg on the western front," the correspondent quotes his informant as saying. "We also have the best reasons to believe that Germany is keeping her troops under arms on the pretext of economic necessity. Some of the military authorities think that Germany has sought more material to give necessary armament to 3,000,000 men. German demobilization is a condition to our demobilization, and, therefore, disbandment is impossible so long as Germany does not continue to demobilize.

"Allied military authorities consider that the time has now arrived for Germany to give up her military strength—that she be brought to such a condition that she cannot resist later the conditions of peace now being prepared. The Allied theory always has been that we shall frame conditions which Germany will have to accept, and that there is nothing to discuss, except as regards details.

"For this reason, Germany is trying to keep up her military strength so that she can send a delegate to the Peace Congress for a thorough military discussion of the peace conditions imposed. On this point the French National Socialist Party and its extreme left wing is strongly opposed to anything being done to save Germany from the consequences of defeat. In this matter the French Government will be supported by the entire nation."

The correspondent says that he has been informed by a competent British authority that Marshal Foch "made a declaration of a somewhat serious character at a meeting of the Supreme War Council."

"He feels," this authority is quoted as saying, "that the Germans are beginning to forget that they are beaten. They are apt to forget that we are in a state of war. They have been slow in handing over transport and other things. They are causing a great deal of difficulty.

"We are demobilizing fast; they are not continuing to demobilize. There is danger of Germany saying, 'We do not care anything about your League of Nations, and we have got our troops.' Unless a change takes place, we might be faced with a situation in which Germany, as regards the number of men in the field, will have three men as against the Allies two.

"The question of demobilization has been taken up by the Supreme War Council. All the technical advisers have certainly been in favor of taking what additional measures may be necessary to prevent any danger to the Allies or their positions or any danger of their being able to dictate what peace terms they please."

The Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail credits Marshal Foch as having said to the Supreme War Council that there were many instances of Germany's failure to comply with the armistice terms, notably in the handing over of artillery, submarines, and agricultural machinery.

"As evidence of the German spirit," the correspondent continued, "Marshal Foch mentioned an occasion when he summoned a German commission to meet him and they failed to appear at the time and place indicated. It was only after strong pressure on his part that the meeting eventually took place.

"According to Marshal Foch's estimate the Germans are now capable of placing an army of 3,000,000 in the field in two months' time."

The correspondent adds:

"It is desired to make a renewal of the war impossible under the conditions laid down on Feb. 17. The terms suggested include the handing over of the whole of the German artillery, compulsory reduction of the German Army to twenty-five divisions, with machine guns for the internal policing of the empire, and occupation by the Allies of the Ruhr district, which includes Essen.

"During an important debate on these proposals the further suggestion was made that in view of Germany's attitude the Allies should also revert to the initial demand for the handing over of the transport, which was modified on account of Germany's plea of impossibility."

Under the terms of the armistice as amended in December the allied high command reserved the right, if it thought wise, to occupy the neutral zone on the right bank of the Rhine from north of the bridgehead of Cologne to the Dutch frontier. Occupation of this zone by the allied forces would give them control of a strip of territory about 43 miles long, running roughly in a northwesterly direction, and 6.2 miles wide. The eastern border of this zone is barely five miles from Essen, the great steel centre.

An extension of the occupation area to include Essen and the Valley of the Ruhr River would give the Allies a strangle grip on German industry, since it would give them a large measure of control over the Westphalian coal region, which produces 90 per cent. of the fuel of Germany, being one of the greatest coal areas in the world.

FOR JEWISH COMMONWEALTH.

Definite Proposal Is Presented to Conference by Zionists.

PARIS, Feb. 10, (Associated Press.)—A definite proposal was filed before the Peace Conference today favoring the eventual formation of a Jewish Commonwealth in Palestine on the lines already suggested by the American Jewish congress.

The document was signed by representatives of the World Zionist organization, the Zionist organization of America, and the Zionist organization of Russia on behalf of the Jews in Palestine.

In Pairs now and on their way to Palestine for work with the Zionist Commission are Dr. Harry Friedenwald of Baltimore, Robert H. Old of Washington, Louis Robinson of New York, Rudolph Sonnenborn of Baltimore, and Dr. Rubinow of New York. Dr. Rubinow is Director of the Zionist Medical Union.

The question of the disposition of Syria will probably come before the Supreme Council again tomorrow, when France's position will be more clearly outlined. France does not regard her treaty with England made at the beginning of the war with relation to Syria as effective until it has been definitely passed on by the Society of Nations. In fact, France does not regard any treaties entered into by the interested powers during the war as binding or void until the Society of Nations takes definite action thereon.

The suggestion that in consideration of being granted a mandatory over Togoland and Kamerun France would relinquish her claims in Syria has apparently been made without authority of the French Government.

CHINA UNITING AGAINST JAPAN

to bear on Peking with a view to silencing the Chinese Peace Delegates in Paris. The following cablegram, signed by Lee To, Chairman of the Chinese Association, was sent to President Wilson:

"We, Chinese citizens, residing in New York, in a meeting assembled today, pray that the Far Eastern question be settled in terms of American policy as expressed in your Fourteen Points. We further pray the fundamental revision of the Chino-Japanese treaties of 1915, so that China may be able to develop along proper national lines."

"We consider a settlement of the Far Eastern question in terms of American policy as expressed in President Wilson's Fourteen Points vital for the development of China along proper national lines. To secure this the fundamental revision of the Chino-Japanese treaties of 1915 is imperative."

A third message was addressed to the President Hsu Shih Chang of China. It read:

"We beg that you will support our Peace Delegates in Paris and not yield to Japanese demands."

A special cablegram to THE NEW YORK TIMES from Peking on Feb. 5 said that Tokio's efforts to control the Chinese peace delegation had been advanced another stage by Minister Obata, the Japanese Minister to China, who had informed the Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs that if China chose to regard Japan's wishes in the matter the unpaid balance of 17,000,000 taels of the loan of 20,000,000 signed by Tuan Chi-Jui last September for the War Participation Bureau would be handed over. On the other hand, if China continued recalcitrant Japan would cancel the loan and demand repayment of the 3,000,000 taels already advanced.

It was added that, the exchequer being empty, the Government would probably end by complying with Japan's demands, unless money could be procured from other sources.

GERMANS CONTINUE TO ROB.

WARSAW, Feb. 9, (Associated Press.)—Bolshevist leaders in Lithuania are attempting to make their men behave circumspectly, but, according to reports reaching here, they are not having an easy task.

A band of 500 Bolsheviki operating in Novgorod reported to the leaders that the inhabitants were hostile, and that difficulties were in sight. The leaders of the band in Novgorod have posted notices that there would be no pillaging if food was given to the Bolsheviki, though when they first arrived they stole money and other valuables from homes. The Bolsheviki went to the servants in the town and tried to persuade them to quit work. The servants are said to have replied that they had to work to eat, and, when the Bolsheviki laughed at them, said that it was stealing to get food as the Bolsheviki did.

BOLSHEVIKI DEFEATED ON TWO BATTLEFRONTS

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 10.—The Lithuanians have arrested the Bolshevist advance on the Lithuanian front, according to news received by the Lettish Bureau in Berlin. The town of Ponievsk, north of Kovno, has been taken by the Lithuanians.

Kiev, the capital of Ukraine, is again in the hands of Ukrainian forces, according to reports reaching here through Berlin.

Dispatches from Warsaw dated Jan. 31 announced that Kiev had been taken by the Bolshevist troops, a portion of the troops of General Petlura, the head of the Ukrainian peasant Government, having gone over to the Bolsheviki. The seat of the Ukrainian Government, the message added, had been moved from Kiev to Winnitza, to the southwest. Kiev has changed hands several times since the Germans withdrew from the Ukraine.

SEES FREE ELECTION RUSSIA'S FIRST NEED

APPEALS FOR WAR ORPHANS

As many Russian sympathizers as could crowd themselves into Carnegie Hall last night paid a tribute to Catherine Breshkovskaya, "Grandmother of the Russian Revolution." The meeting was held under the auspices of the Civic Forum and the Friends of Russian Freedom, and $10,939 was contributed for the Russian orphans in whose interest Mme. Breshkovskaya is now in America.

From the moment when Robert Erskine Ely, who presided, first mentioned her name the occasion was a series of triumphs for the white-haired woman whose half-century of struggle for the Russian people is so well known to Americans. When Count Ilya Tolstoi bent low over her hand, when George Kennan, writer on Russian topics, kissed her on the lips American fashion; when Alice Stone Blackwell, her biographer, spoke her praises, "Babushka" was time and again shown the love and respect in which the gathering held her.

She spoke in a quaint English, and in the advance text of her address, translated from her own Russian version, to the general theme of which she held, she painted a vivid and appealing picture of Russian sufferings, and continued:

"Our greatest, deepest, most immediate need is the creation of conditions under which the Russian people will be able to convoke an All-Russian Constituent Assembly. Russia will never be quiet and satisfied until her representatives, freely chosen by the entire population, will establish a Constitution for the State, will lay the foundation for a stable, democratic Government, insuring laws that accord with the will and desires of the Russian people. The demand for a Constituent Assembly was one of the main aspirations of the Russian revolution. It was on the eve of its realization when the Bolshevist revolt, in November, 1917, tore out of the hands of the people the beautiful possibility to make laws for themselves, to trace the path for their future, to construct a new life in accordance with the interests of the masses, to strengthen peace and insure the common welfare. The Constituent Assembly, elected by the entire Russian people on the basis of universal, direct, equal, and secret suffrage, was dispersed by the Bolsheviki with bayonets.

"A year ago our allies, together with the devoted and proved friends of the Russian people, could have created the conditions necessary for the convocation of a Constituent Assembly. The opportunity was lost, and our masses, simple-minded, naïve, and credulous, tired out by their past misfortunes, became a prey to the base and rapacious instincts of selfish, ambitious, and merciless people. Under the circumstances, Russia faces a long and cruel struggle with all the evil which has entered her life. She has to suffer all the pains inevitable in the conditions of a people clearing its way to a better future. Many opposing forces bar this way; they check the normal course of events and make the people suffer and suffer more in their struggle to get the right issue out of the insurmountable chaos.

"There is no doubt that Russia will be able to find the right path, but her pains, her bloody sufferings, will be known only to the millions of Russian mothers and the millions of our other innocent martyrs, our orphans. Flooded with tears and blood, Russia moans and cries out to the world. She is a living body, and her tortures cannot be looked upon cold-bloodedly as an extraordinary, never-before-witnessed experiment in social evolution. She is alive, and every pore of her body is shedding blood."

For two autographed copies of Alice Stone Blackwell's book, "The Life and Letters of Catherine Breshkovsky," William G. Willcox paid $1,000 each, and Paul M. Warburg bought a copy at $1,000, and Jacob Wertheim paid $500 for a copy, and Mrs. Stewart Hartshorn bought one for $1,000.

CHINESE SEIZED AS REDS.

"Emissaries" with 6,000,000 Rubles Prove to be Innocent Traders.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, Feb. 10.—The reports that Chinese Bolshevist emissaries supplied with enormous funds for use in Bolshevist propaganda in China had been arrested in Manchuria have now been elucidated.

It appears that these men were Chinese merchants from Irkutsk, Chita, and elsewhere who were proceeding homeward to Harbin carrying their profits for investment in new stocks. There were seventy-three of them and when they were arrested by Semenoff's troops 6,000,000 rubles were seized. Their bona fides having been established the merchants have been liberated and their money will be returned.

ALLIED AIRPLANES BOMB BOLSHEVIKI

Despite Extreme Cold in North Russia They Raid Towns and Marching Columns.

ARCHANGEL, Feb. 10, (Associated Press.)—British and Russian airplanes, flying low over the frozen timberland between the Vaga River and the Vologda Railway, are greatly harassing the Bolshevist forces. This is one branch of equipment in which the Allies are superior to the enemy, who has virtually no aerial defense, while the allied fliers are demonstrating their efficiency despite the extreme cold.

On Sunday allied planes bombed the enemy occupied towns of Taresevo and Shagovari, and, flying further south than the allied troops have yet penetrated, dropped bombs on enemy columns moving northward along the Winter trails.

There was considerable patrol and artillery activity yesterday in the Kadish and Sredmakrenga sectors. The enemy apparently was striving to regain the territory taken from him in the offensive raid south of Kadish last week. Other sectors are comparatively quiet.

The Russian Government is taking steps to bring its forces up to the largest number available. The Governor General has been authorized to mobilize all citizens up to 40 years of age, including officers up to 45 years. The previous mobilization order called out men under 26 years of age.

DOUBTS PEACE BY APRIL 1.

Balfour, However, Says It Need Not Wait on Formation of League.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—"The question of when peace will be signed is one that nobody can answer," said A. J. Balfour, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in discussing different peace problems with English and American correspondents today.

Asked if he thought it might be signed by April 1, he said the date was "rather sanguine." He added, however, that it was not necessary for peace to wait upon the formal establishment of a Society of Nations, because "it is not the society's business to determine the terms of peace."

In answer to an inquiry as to how Germany could pay indemnities if not allowed to recuperate her industries, Mr. Balfour replied:

"Germany's recuperation should not be at the expense of France and Belgium, but it is to nobody's interest that Germany should become a derelict nation."

ARMY BILL REPORTED; DOOMS SERVICE STRIPE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—In the annual Army Appropriation bill reported by the Military Affairs Committee to the House today, carrying an appropriation of $1,117,289,488.55, there is a provision that the Secretary of War shall not provide by regulations for a distinctive stripe or chevron to indicate overseas duty or service in the United States. This section, if passed by Congress, would abolish the distinction of wearing white chevrons by those who had served at home, while soldiers with overseas service would be prevented from wearing the gold chevrons.

The provision in the bill reads:

"That it shall be unlawful for the Secretary of War to provide, by regulation or otherwise, for any distinctive stripe or chevron of any kind, indicating service overseas or in the United States, to be worn upon the uniform of any officer or enlisted man in the service of the United States, and any regulation heretofore made on this subject is hereby invalidated."

The committee ignored the recommendations of the General Staff for an army of 500,000 and declined to fix a permanent military policy at this time. Instead it authorized the President to maintain the present units, or as many as necessary for the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1920.

The original estimates sent in by the Secretary of War called for an appropriation of $1,916,905,572. These were subsequently reduced to $1,184,721,466, and the committee scaled these down about $68,000,000.

WOULD-BE TOURISTS WARNED BY ITALY

Railroad Facilities Will Not Be Anything Like Normal Till End of 1920.

MILAN, Feb. 10.—The Government has assigned $360,000,000 to urgently needed reorganization of the State railways, $200,000,000 of this being devoted to purchase of new rolling stock, considerable orders for which have been placed with the United States at present mainly owing to the coal shortage.

The single Milan-Rome daily express takes up hours in making the journey, and the railway directorate warns intending foreign tourists that a return to anything like normal conditions cannot be expected until at least the end of next year.

Apart from the tremendous wastage of material consequent upon the conveyance of over 28,000,000 combatants, which involved running 800,000 trains during the war, in addition to the ordinary passenger service, Italy has lately undertaken to provide prompt facilities for demobilization of the allied armies from Macedonia and bases in the Orient. In the case of the British forces alone this work will necessitate the organization of twenty-one troop trains weekly from Taranto across Italy toward England.

To prevent misunderstanding it is officially stated that 70 out of its total of 116 locomotives with transport cars and car supplies which Britain is sending on from its bases in France will be reserved for these military needs together with another 200 engines to be supplied from the American command.

BERLIN, Feb. 9, (via Copenhagen.)—Isolde Beidler, daughter of Cosima Wagner's first marriage to Hans von Bülow, died in Munich last night, aged 54 years.

She was married to Royal Bavarian Court orchestra director Beidler, who for some years acted as conductor at Beyreuth, but in 1914 had a falling out with Siegfried Wagner.

Isolde sought to prove in court that she was Richard Wagner's natural daughter in order to claim part of the Wagner fortune, but failed.

NEW LABOR CLAIMS CONFRONT BRITISH

Railway Employes, Miners, and Transport Workers to Press for Changes.

UNIONS STARTING PARLEYS

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—With the subway system running again and the hotel waiters' strike over, a lull has fallen on the vexed industrial situation here, but it is fully realized that this is merely a breathing space.

The Government and the employers must face almost immediately definite and far-reaching demands from three important bodies of workers. The railway men on Wednesday will open formal negotiations for their national "charter," which includes an eight-hour day, equal pay for men and women, permanent retention of the war advances in wages, and two weeks annual holiday on full pay.

It is estimated that this will cost the companies £50,000,000 annually, and the men will urge nationalization of the roads if the plan is declared impracticable.

The miners are asking for the nationalization of the mines and claiming a six-hour day and a 30 per cent. increase in wages, while the transport workers are asking for a forty-four-hour week and a 20 per cent. increase for some classes of labor.

The electricians at a national conference at Manchester yesterday resolved to take a ballot on the question of the forty-four-hour week, the members of their union returning to work in the meantime. The ballot is to decide whether, in the event of the forty-four-hour week being refused, there will be a general strike.

Evidently these demands amount to an entire recasting of industrial conditions in Great Britain. There is general relief at an announcement that it is intended that representatives of the public at large shall be appointed to serve on the Government committees considering industrial controversies.

LONDON, Feb. 10, (Associated Press.)—On the Clyde 50 per cent. of the workers, it is estimated, resumed their tasks today. All the men are expected to be back at work Wednesday.

The shipyard strikers in the London district are also returning to work in large numbers.

Representatives of many London manufacturers met in conference yesterday delegates from more than twenty trade unions, in an effort to define the obstacles to more cordial relations. After a long discussion, in which Baron Balfour of Burleigh and W. A. Appleton, Secretary of the General Federation of Trade Unions, were the chief speakers, joint committees were elected with a view to arriving at an agreement on a program.

Large meetings of workers were held yesterday in most of the big cities in the country, and there were discussions of labor grievances, especially the question of working hours. At a mass meeting of locomotive engineers held in London, President Cooke of the Engineers' Union attacked the Government, accusing it of issuing "distorted statements" and "gross fabrications for the purpose of concealing from the public the true state of affairs."

He also asserted that a week ago a new understanding had been reached between the Government and the railway interests, by which Government control of railways should continue for two years after peace was signed, and that, therefore, nationalization would be long delayed.

DUBLIN, Feb. 10.—The All-Ireland Labor Conference, held here on Saturday, adopted a program calling for a forty-four-hour week, and an increase of 150 per cent. in wages over pre-war rates, with an absolute minimum of 50 shillings per week.

All the results of the conference have been passed on to the various labor unions for decision, it being stipulated that the unions' action on the program should be submitted to the National Executive Committee by March 1. The conference passed a resolution pledging support to the Belfast strikers.

PORTUGUESE REPUBLIC RELIES ON THE ALLIES

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—In response to a message addressed to Admiral Castro, President of the Portuguese Republic, The Daily Chronicle has received the following cablegram from Couceiro da Costa, Portuguese Minister of Foreign Affairs, dated at Lisbon, on Saturday:

"The people of Lisbon have very quickly triumphed over the criminal insurrection of the royalists. The green and red banner floats over every fortress, all State buildings, and all houses in the city.

"The south and centre of the country have rallied firmly to the cause of the republic. Only at Oporto and some other small localities in the north have the royalists, by employing force, been able to overwhelm the republican spirit of the population.

"The army of the republic is marching upon the revolutionaries and compelling them to retreat upon their first positions. Braganza and Vizeu have been retaken, and at Aveiro the enemy has been put to flight after suffering heavy losses.

"The war fleet is entirely loyal in making the royalists feel the effects of our rigorous blockade, and only awaits the moment for showing once more its traditional heroism and its profound love of the republic.

"All the powers and constitutional organizations of the State are working with perfect harmony and regularity. The life of the nation has not been troubled at all, except in those places which the royalists have occupied.

"Hope in the future of the country is absolute. The people, the houses of Parliament, and the legitimate Government of Portugal, closely bound together in the same thought and the same action against the enemy, look with the greatest confidence to victory. The Portuguese Republic knows well that it can count upon the moral support of the allied countries and on liberal opinion everywhere throughout the civilized world."

CALLS HENRY TO COURT.

Minister Who Owns Gerard Hotel Accuses Police Inspector.

The Rev. John R. Rankin, Presbyterian minister and owner of the Gerard Hotel at 123 West Forty-fourth Street, obtained a summons from Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan in the West Side Court yesterday for the appearance of Police Inspector Dominick Henry. Mr. Rankin charges Inspector Henry with oppression. The owner of the hotel said that Inspector Henry caused his arrest on Friday, charging him with a violation of the tenement house law, and placed a patrolman on guard at the door, preventing the hotel from doing business.

Mr. Rankin told Magistrate Corrigan that there was no reason for the action of the Inspector. Magistrate Corrigan, in issuing the summons, said:

"I don't know what things are coming to. Here we have prohibition on July 1, and before long we will probably be told to stop smoking. I will gladly issue the summons you apply for."

CLASHES AT BERNE OVER PRISONERS

Eisner, Bavarian Premier, Joins French Delegate in Rebuking German Demands.

BERNE, Feb. 10.—Pierre Renaudel, a French delegate to the International Socialist Conference, rebuked the German Majority Socialist delegates yesterday for their demand that German prisoners should be returned by the Allies.

"You continue to insult the Allies," he declared, "by pretending that French militarism is retaining the German prisoners. You forget the deportations from Lille and from Belgium. You try to influence our working classes by alleging that the use of your prisoners is unfair competition for our workingmen. This is our business, not yours. You continue your propaganda in favor of the former German Government, but if you desire to reach results, you must adopt an altogether different attitude."

M. Grumbach, delegate from Upper Alsace, protested against the speech made in the German National Assembly at Weimar by Dr. David, President of the Assembly, in which David declared that Alsace-Lorraine belonged to the German people. Grumbach's remarks were indorsed by Karl Kautsky, German Independent Socialist, who declared that the election of Dr. David as President of the National Assembly was a challenge to the Entente.

This discussion was in connection with a resolution favoring the release by the Allies of the German prisoners of war.

There was a sharp exchange between Oscar Wels, a German Majority Socialist, and Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian Premier, the latter accusing the German authorities of ill-treating French prisoners. Herr Eisner was warmly supported in this charge by M. Renaudel.

Wels introduced the subject of prisoners by arguing that German prisoners should be released because they would compete with French and Belgian workers in France and Belgium. Eisner said that Germany had no right to protest after what she had done to France and Belgium during the war, adding:

"When any one has seen, as I have seen, French prisoners near Munich crowded into low, dark sheds with corpses and men in the agony of death from disease, no right to protest remains."

Finally, on the motion of Camille Huysmans, a Belgian delegate, a resolution was adopted declaring that as allied prisoners were returned home from the Central Empires, German prisoners also should be returned, independently of legitimate complaints against Germany.

A proposal was made by the Russian delegates that a commission of the conference, representing all shades of Socialism, should be sent to inquire into the political and economic situation in Russia. The conference will pass upon this question later.

Demands for presentation to the Paris Peace Conference were agreed upon by the International Labor Conference here today. The demands include the establishment of an eight-hour day, with an uninterrupted rest period of thirty-six hours weekly, insurance against accidents and unemployment, the forbidding of night work in all countries for women workers, and of the employment of children under 15 years of age, and a six-hour day for youths between 15 and 18 years.

The demands will be recommended for incorporation into an international agreement by the Peace Conference.

There are special stipulations in the demands concerning seamen, and it is asked that these stipulations shall be made a part of international law, the carrying out of the provisions to be looked after by special commissions in which the trade unions of the nations shall have equal representation with the employing interests.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—After flying from Paris to Croydon yesterday, an airplane with fourteen French officers aboard made the return journey today, reaching Paris safely this afternoon. The machine covered the nonstop journey of 200 miles from Paris to Croydon in 155 minutes.

All fourteen officers, despite the cold weather, wore their ordinary uniform without being protected by flying "warm." When the Channel was reached in the flight a champagne luncheon was served aboard, and the officers smoked, played cards, and altogether had an enjoyable journey.

$5,000,000 Credit for Rumania.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—A credit of $5,000,000 has been established in favor of Rumania, the Treasury announced today. This makes total credits of $10,000,000 for Rumania, and $8,678,157,000 for all the Allies.

SEATTLE STRIKE OFF AT NOON TODAY

Union Committee Says That Leaders Were Stampeded to Return to Work.

"RANK AND FILE STOOD PAT"

All Are Asked to Remain Idle Till Today, Then to Declare the Strike a Success.

SEATTLE, Feb. 10.—Seattle's general strike, the first of its kind ever attempted in the United States, will end officially at noon tomorrow.

The general strike was virtually over this morning, as nearly every labor union of importance to industry or business was at work. Seventeen hundred teamsters and truck drivers, nearly the entire street car company's force, milk wagon drivers, barbers, automobile drivers, and garbage drivers were back at their tasks. Schools opened. Two shipping terminals resumed work with nonunion and union men, and other terminals were preparing to start business in the course of the day or Tuesday morning with nonunion men unless the regular forces returned. Police guards watched the docks where nonunion crews worked.

Police and Troops Kept on Duty.

Tuesday, according to the strikers' calendar, will register the sixth day of the general strike, which has involved approximately 55,000 men, and has passed off thus far without a single instance of disorder. Hundreds of police officers, however, it is announced, will be kept continually on duty until all danger of trouble is past. Federal troops will continue to guard Federal property.

The Newsboys' Union, which returned to work Saturday, today charged that the official labor organ, The Union Record, was the first to violate union regulations by using nonunion boys to sell its papers.

Employes represented in the Seattle Amusement Federation voted to resume work at 6 P. M. As a result the city's theatres were in full operation tonight.

Chief interest tonight centred on the question as to how many unions, if any, would heed the request of the General Strike Committtee to refrain from working until 12 o'clock tomorrow, when the strike will come to an official end, and what effect the finish of the sympathetic strike would have on the strike of the 25,000 metal trades workers in whose behalf it was called.

Mayor Hanson's Statement.

Mayor Ole Hanson made the following statement:

"The calling off of the general strike will not replace union labor in the high position it held in Seattle. Without reason, without cause, our city lay prostrate. Union labor must clean house. Seattle may forgive, but it cannot forget."

The Mayor also declared that he favored the passage of a law, if that should be found constitutional, forcing employes of essential industries to swear allegiance to the United States Government in preference to any union and to make it illegal for them to quit their positions or strike unless there were others to replace them.

The decision to call the strike off was reached at 1 o'clock today by the General Strike Committee, composed of delegates from the 130 local unions after a four-hour session. Of the unions represented on the committee, 110 had voted to participate in the general strike.

Members of the various unions were confused by this request, and it was considered uncertain whether it could be generally obeyed.

Following is the resolution by the General Strike Committee:

> Whereas, This Strike Committee now assembles in the midst of the general understanding of the true status of the general strike; and,
>
> Whereas, The Executive Committee is sufficiently satisfied that regardless of the ultimate action that the rank and file would take, the rank and file did stand pat, and the stampede to return to work was not on the part of the rank and file, but rather on the part of their leaders;
>
> However, Be it understood that this committee does not question the honesty of any of the representatives of the general movement; therefore, be it
>
>
> That this Strike Committee, advises all affiliated unions that have taken action to return their men to work, that said unions shall again call their men to respond immediately to the call of the rank and file until 12 noon, Feb. 11, 1919, and to then declare this strike at a successful determination, and if developments should then make it necessary that the strike be continued, that further action be referred to the rank and file exclusively.

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 10.—In accordance with the decision of the Central Labor Council last night the general strike is off in Tacoma today, and members of the unions who went out in the sympathetic strike went back to work at 8 o'clock this morning.

With the exception of shipyard workers all strikers returned to their jobs. The general strike was never really wholly effective here because some of the unions affiliated with the Central Labor Council refused to obey the council's order to strike.

The Longshoremen's Union last night killed all hopes of the council of continuing the strike when it voted to return to work.

PATROLS IN BUTTE USE THE BAYONET

Special to The New York Times.

BUTTE, Mont., Feb. 10.—Mining operations were again practically suspended in the Butte district today. The strike begun Friday under the leadership of local I. W. W. organizations has not become general, but the situation is becoming hourly more serious. Men who want to work in the mines are remaining home, because of threats made by the radical elements, and unions that were at first not disposed to pay attention to the movement may be drawn into the trouble. Agitation for a general strike is proceeding on systematic lines, and a campaign intended to bring about a complete shutdown is being waged by leaders who have engineered similar movements in Butte.

The mining companies are doing all they can to operate. Managers repeated today that they hoped to be able to keep their properties going, but they frankly said that if the miners couldn't or wouldn't work, a shutdown would be inevitable. No demands were made upon the companies by any unions, organizations, or individuals representing miners or other employes today. None has been made, although resolutions have been passed by the strikers demanding a six-hour day with a $6 wage scale.

The crews of the leading properties were so greatly reduced today that very little ore was hoisted. In some of the properties only enough men were on hand to conduct surface work and to keep the pumps going and the workings patrolled. The East Butte Company was forced to close down its smelter at 11:30 o'clock this morning through a lack of men, and the mill went down before the 3 o'clock shift was due to come on. The timber Butte mill was closed yesterday.

Major Jones, in command of the United States troops in this city, this morning administered a lecture to discharged soldiers for participating in disorders which he said had disgraced their uniform and stamped them as persons of an undesirable character in any community.

LAWYERS IN DISPUTE AT PACKING INQUIRY

Armour Attorney Denies That He Offered Corporation Employment to Heney.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Frank J. Heney, who conducted the Federal Trade Commission's meat packing investigation, today gave the Senate Committee on Agriculture details of offers of employment which he said were made to him by Levy Mayer, counsel for Armour & Co., before and in the course of the present hearing.

Mr. Mayer, who spent the day on the witness stand, emphatically denied that he had made the offers or any of the statements attributed to him by Mr. Heney. At the close of the day Mr. Mayer stood up with a book in his hand, and, he said, for the purpose of assisting the committee to determine to whom it should give credence, started to make a statement which he said dealt "with Mr. Heney and the 'fixing' of a jury."

Mr. Heney was immediately on his feet and announced that if any such statement was introduced he would bring in the Attorney General to prove that any such charge against him was false. At this point members of the committee interrupted to say that they regretted that the two lawyers had become involved in a dispute, as much of the time of the committee which should have been given to the hearing had been consumed.

Early in the day Mr. Mayer entered his first denial that he had offered business to Mr. Heney before the latter arrived at the hearing. He also read a telegram from Frank P. Walsh, who Mr. Heney said Mr. Mayer told him had received a similar offer, stating that he had heard nothing of the offer.

Later in the afternoon, after Mr. Mayer had been giving the committee his views regarding proposed legislation regulating the meat industry, Mr. Heney began questioning him about their first meeting in Chicago last year and about a meeting between Mr. Mayer, W. W. Chapin of The Oakland (Cal.) Gazette, and a Mr. Slesinger of San Francisco.

"I'll tell you what I said to them," said Mr. Mayer. "Chapin and Slesinger came to my office, and the latter asked if I knew any San Francisco lawyers. I said I knew of you, Mr. Heney, and Mr. Slesinger replied that he was a good friend of yours. I replied that, that being the case, I could speak freely with him, and I told him your methods were unprofessional and dishonest."

This statement resulted in a heated exchange between the two attorneys, but finally Mr. Mayer, in response to Mr. Heney's questioning, told of discussing with Mr. Heney a visit the latter made to New York.

"You discussed New York lawyers," said Mr. Mayer, "and said that they didn't know how to try cases, and that you thought you would go to New York and open an office."

"Did you then offer to send me business?" asked Mr. Heney.

"Neither then nor at any other time," replied Mr. Mayer.

In opposing the legislation before the committee for control of the meat industry, Mr. Mayer said the big packing companies would not oppose regulation by a commission to be appointed by the President, to be composed of representatives of the producers, packers, and consumers.

FEDERAL UNION URGED FOR IRELAND

WITH ONE FOR ALL IRELAND

But Irish Would Still Be Represented at Westminster — Freedom of Religion Stipulated.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—For the moment Ireland seems divided into two parties of extremists, one side demanding the overthrow of every vestige of British rule, and the other demanding the maintenance of the existing system of Government, to be varied, if at all, by an actual extension of Union principles and the treatment of Irish counties as if they were British shires. An attempt, however, is now being made to tackle the problem in a manner intended to reconcile conflicting interests by working out a plan for unity in diversity, such as obtains in America.

A moderate Centre Party is being formed in Ireland to advocate the solution of Irish Home Rule through the principle of federalism. Before Ireland swung over to Sinn Fein the most familiar demand of those Nationalists who were disassatisfied with Mr. Asquith's Home Rule act was for Dominion Home Rule. The new Irish Centre Party proposes to meet that demand. A scheme has been drafted which in the main follows the Canadian model of 1867. The political and religious differences between the provinces, the variety of their character and needs, it is argued, are no more acute in Ireland than they were in Canada, and the Canadian experiment has been a great success.

Ireland is declared by the sponsors for the plan to be large enough to provide for local divisions, while maintaining its national unity. There are in Canada Parliaments for provinces containing a much smaller population than the smallest of the Irish provinces, and in some cases a much smaller area. Moreover, of the States comprising the American Federal Union eighteen have a population smaller than that of Connaught, while eight others have a population smaller than that of Ulster.

The new Irish plan proposes a separate provincial single-chambered Parliament for each of the Irish provinces, though some suggest only three, with a grouping of Leinster and Connaught. Each provincial Parliament would have its own Executive and its own Exchequer, and have full control over all the purely internal affairs of the province. At the same time there would be established a Central Federal Parliament with its own Executive and Exchequer, controlling all affairs affecting Ireland as a whole. The plan differs from the Canadian model, however, in the proposal that Ireland as a constitutional unit of the British Empire shall be represented also in the Imperial Parliament.

The scheme of constitution for the Irish Federal Parliament is based on that of the Home Rule act of 1914, but it is suggested that both of the houses shall be elected by proportional representation. The whole scheme has been worked out in detail, and is presented as giving the amplest opportunity to the various provinces to work out their own destinies by their own methods. Belfast, it is pointed out, would be as free as Cork or Dublin from any interference with its local liberties. Powers of taxation, both Federal and provincial, are provided for, and a rearrangement of the judicial system has been devised.

The scheme prohibits both provincial and Federal Governments from any interference with religious equality. As to education, the proposal is made that the National Board of Education should be resolved into its constituent elements and two new boards be set up in lieu of it, one to consist exclusively of Roman Catholics and the other to represent the various Protestant denominations, each board to have its activities limited to its own denominational interests.

The plan was one of the many submitted to the Irish Convention last year; but it was not considered then, because the convention concentrated itself on an effort, which proved fruitless, to secure the consent of Ulster to the authority of a single Irish Parliament.

The men behind the new movement are from all the provinces and of all classes, mostly men of experience in affairs. The moving spirit is Captain Stephen Gwynn, who until the recent general election was member of Parliament for Galway City. He was John Redmond's right-hand man during the Irish Convention. Like Mr. Redmond, he was an enthusiastic supporter of the war and was a leader in the work of recruiting for the army in Ireland. He is now a member of a body charged with the work of providing for the demobilization and re-employment of Irish soldiers and sailors.

Leviathan Due Today with 9,295.

The United States transport Leviathan is due at Pier 4, Hoboken, at 5 o'clock today with 9,295 troops from Brest, but only seventy casual officers will be allowed to land. Her complement consists chiefly of negro troops and comprises the 371st and 372d Infantry Regiments complete, the 2d Battalion of the 369th Regiment, formerly the 15th Regiment of the National Guard, 2,132 sick and wounded and other units. Colonel William Hayward with the 1st Battalion of the 369th Regiment is expected to arrive tomorrow on the Swedish-American liner Stockholm.

ganda of destruction of property and the upsetting of the general doctrine of Government.

"Much evidence was obtained by Government agents as to the pernicious activities of this class of persons," said Commissioner Caminetti today. "It was hoped that the provisions incorporated in the immigration act of Feb. 5, 1917, would be sufficient to reach and deal effectively with them. While many of them were found, on investigation, to be subject to arrest and deportation under the immigration law and a large number of warrants were issued and served, there appeared to be a lack of conformity between the provisions of Sections 3 and 19 of the Immigration act, as a result of which some persons of the anarchistic class, while subject to exclusion upon their original arrival, might be able to frustrate deportation upon warrant procedure."

Finding that these two provisions of the law were not strong enough to enable the Government to deport certain of the most troublesome classes who had succeeded in gaining admission and who might be able to frustrate deportation by probable judicial interpretation of the law pursuant to habeas corpus proceedings, the Government, in October, enacted a special law for the deportation of anarchists.

"When this situation came to be realized," said Mr. Caminetti, "it was deemed advisable to defer action upon all but the clearest cases until Congress could enact amendatory legislation which would serve to eliminate the supposed weaknesses of the immigration statute of 1917, and the law of Oct. 16, 1918, was passed, providing for the exclusion or expulsion from the United States of members of anarchistic and similar classes.

"Under that law the Secretary of Labor has authority to issue warrants for the arrest and deportation, irrespective of the time of their entry into the United States, of aliens who are anarchists, who believe in or advocate the overthrow by force or violence of the Government of the United States or all forms of law, who disbelieve in or are opposed to all organized government, who advocate or teach assassination of public officials, or the unlawful destruction of property, or who are members of or affiliated with any organization that hold such beliefs.

"If after they have been deported any such persons try to re-enter the United States it will be considered a felony, and on conviction they may be imprisoned for not more than five years."

Commissioner Caminetti was careful to explain that the deportation of the present large group of agitators was not related to the labor or other present activities at Seattle, but that orders for the deportations had been signed before the Seattle situation had developed.

AWAIT AGITATORS HERE.

Will Probably Be Sent to Gothenburg with Others Rounded Up.

Officials at Ellis Island said last night that the train bearing the fifty-four foreigners ordered out of the United States would probably arrive at Hoboken early this morning. A cutter from Ellis Island will be at the army dock there and the arriving radicals will be escorted under heavy guard to the vessel and taken at once to the island.

It is likely, it was said, that the departing disturbers would be kept at the island until Feb. 18, when the steamship Stockholm is scheduled to sail for Gothenburg, the most direct route to Russia, whence most of the agitators came.

Several days ago twenty-nine foreigners, arrested in the East, were sent to Boston to await deportation from that port. Others are being held at Ellis Island, and still more at other places, the exact number not having been made public.

Several foreign-born anarchists and I. W. W. leaders who have been active in New York City may be deported on the same ship which carries the fifty-four men now on their way here. Assistant Immigration Commissioner Byron S. Uhl refused to give the names of any of those who are awaiting hearings at this port.

Superintendent W. M. Offley of the New York Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice said that there had been no general roundup of anarchists and Bolshevist leaders in this city for deportation under the revised and broadened immigration law of Oct. 16, 1918, although action had been taken under it in particular cases. As under this law an alien can be deported for belonging to the I. W. W., even though he has otherwise refrained from dangerous agitation, officials of the Department of Justice believe that it will be impossible for that organization to continue in existence.

Citizens by naturalization cannot safely preach Bolshevist doctrines or belong to organizations such as the I. W. W. under a construction of the naturalization law which has been urged by John Lord O'Brian, special counsel for the Department of Justice, and has been so far sustained by the courts. In the cases of naturalized citizens of German birth, who spoke against the United States, it was urged in the Federal courts that their naturalization should be revoked and that they should be put in internment camps with other dangerous enemy aliens. It was held that their anti-American remarks were proof that they were insincere in taking the oath of naturalization and that the oath was therefore void.

Under this ruling, naturalized citizens who become active in Bolshevist movements may hereafter be sent to the country of their origin, it was said yesterday.

Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, the anarchists who were sentenced to two years in prison each for seditious conspiracy, are to be deported at the expiration of their terms under the revised immigration law. Samuel Lipton, Mollie Steimer, Jacob Abrahams, Hyman Lachowsky, and Hyman Rozansky, Russians who were convicted recently of circulating anti-draft literature, are also subject to deportation when their terms have been served, the immigration law making compulsory the deportation of aliens guilty of crimes against the Government.

All of the aliens convicted at Sacramento, Cal., of participating in the conspiracy to blow up the Governor's mansion there, and those convicted in the I. W. W. conspiracies in various cities in the West, are due to return to their former countries as soon as their prison terms are over.

41 SENT FROM SEATTLE.

Deportations Planned Before the Strike Began There.

SEATTLE, Feb. 10.—The quiet departure of the forty-one Industrial Workers of the World and alien labor agitators, sent from Seattle last week by the immigration authorities, escaped publicity through the temporary suspension of newspapers during the first days of the sympathetic strike here.

"The departure was originally set for Jan. 27," said Federal Immigration Commissioner Henry M. White today. "Writs of habeas corpus and other legal proceedings instituted in behalf of some of the men delayed us in sending them east until last Thursday.

"It was purely a coincidence that they left here on the day that the general strike was called, as none of them had been arrested in connection with the strike. They were all foreigners whose activities during the war had led to their arrest."

GENERAL CLEANUP OF REDS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—A cleanup to rid the country of aliens with criminal records or who are regarded as a menace to the nation is under way. Within a few days another carload of undesirables will leave Chicago for "an Atlantic port" to be shipped back to the countries whence they came, immigration officials here said today.

"The cleanup will be thorough," said an official. "There are nearly a score in Chicago jails right now who will be deported within a few days. Aliens who get into the country under pretenses and then attempt to stir up discord here with their Bolshevist and I. W. W. propaganda will find it hard pickings from now on. If this country doesn't suit them the Government has an effective way of helping them into more congenial climes."

LIEUT. SELLERS DEFIES I. W. W.

Infantrymen Protect Arizona Jail Holding Arrested Men.

JEROME, Ariz., Feb. 10.—Lieutenant John Sellers, commanding a detachment of twenty-five men of the 3d Infantry, defied a strike committee, said to have been recruited from the I. W. W., when it called on him tonight and threatened to lead an attack on the jail to release more than a score of men held on a charge of obstructing the streets.

Lieutenant Sellers told the committee that he and his men would be ready for action if any attempt was made to carry out the threat. So far no violence has resulted.

Late tonight the number arrested as traffic obstructors had grown to twenty-nine.

Trouble in Jerome started early in the day when the copper companies put in effect a cut of 75 cents a day in the men's wages. About 4,000 men were affected. The union miners, affiliated with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, obeyed instructions from leaders to remain at work pending the arrival of Federal Mediator Hywell H. Davies, who, Secretary of Labor Wilson telegraphed, would start immediately.

A crowd of 250 men, said to have been recruited from I. W. W. ranks, met outside the town limits and voted for a general strike and to start picketing at 6 o'clock tonight. When a score of men were arrested charged with obstructing traffic, a mob besieged the jail demanding their release and threatening to tear down the building.

It was stated by police and mine officials that 90 per cent. of the strikers were unnaturalized foreigners, less than half of whom understood English.

PROHIBITION BILL APPEARS IN ALBANY

DRUGGISTS TO HAVE PERMITS

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 10.—The Anti-Saloon League's bill to provide for the enforcement in New York of the Federal prohibition amendment was submitted to the Legislature tonight by Senator George F. Thompson of Niagara County and Assemblyman Walter S. McNab of Schenectady. The bill is based upon the various enforcement measures of the entire country and contains all the provisions of the present liquor tax law of New York governing dry territory.

Intoxicating liquors are not defined by the bill. The measure, if passed, would be enforced by the "Commissioner of Public Welfare," a new name for the present Commissioner of Excise. The bill would make it unlawful to deal in liquor in one's possession except by permit or on a physician's prescription. This section of the bill provides for the issuing of commercial permits to wholesale and retail druggists, manufacturers of alcohol or compounds for medicinal and sacramental uses and to makers of non-drinkable preparations. Physicians would be bound under oath to give prescriptions for liquor only after thorough examination of the persons seeking them. Records of sales must be kept by retail and wholesale druggists.

One section of the bill prohibits advertising of the liquor traffic under any conditions, but allows manufacturers to send price lists to persons entitled to buy. It would be unlawful for any newspaper or periodical to print any statement concerning the liquor business, directly or indirectly, without giving the names of the persons who paid for the advertisement.

The seizure section of the new law provides that no warrants shall be issued to search a private dwelling unless part of it is used as a store or shop, unless it is a public resort or liquor is unlawfully sold there.

Transportation of liquor by any means of conveyance, including aircraft, is prohibited, and any person found intoxicated may be compelled to tell where he obtained his liquor.

Cider, after one month, is nondrinkable, according to the bill. The bill, contrary to expectation, contains no prohibition against the manufacture and sale of alcoholic toilet, antiseptic, and culinary preparations where these are nondrinkable.

On motion of J. Henry Walters, President pro tem. of the Senate, the Prohibition Enforcement bill was referred to the Judiciary Committee instead of the Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment, which heretofore has been the custodian of measures dealing with the liquor traffic. Senator Walters explained that the change of reference was made at the request of Senator Henry M. Davenport, Chairman of the Committee on Taxation, owing to the severe pressure of work on his committee.

The resentment expressed by the military forces overseas to the section of the Army Appropriation bill, now before Congress, which would abolish the wearing of service chevrons, led the Assembly tonight to adopt a resolution memorializing the national lawmaking body to eliminate the provision. The resolution was unanimously adopted as offered by Martin G. McCue of New York. In the Senate the resolution was laid over.

After some debate, the Steinberg resolution calling for the appointment of a committee of State officers to welcome the 27th Division on its return from France was committed to the Ways and Means Committee on motion of Majority Leader Adler. The resolution was aimed at the Hylan-Hearst committee.

Minority Leader Donohue objected to the language of the resolution, which referred to "dissension and acrimony existing in New York" over the Hylan appointments. Assemblyman Steinberg agreed to remove the reference, but the resolution was referred to committee, which kills it.

Another resolution introduced by Assemblyman Joseph V. McKee of the Bronx, which would name a joint legislative committee to encourage building operations in New York City with a view to bringing rents down, was sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

The Assembly adopted unanimously the proposal of Assemblyman Bertrand G. Burnett of Westchester to name Oct. 27 Roosevelt Day.

CALLS PROCLAMATION OF PROHIBITION VOID

Providence Journal Argues That Ratification in States with Referendums Was Not Complete.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 10.—The Providence Journal will print tomorrow morning a statement declaring that the action of Acting Secretary of State Polk in proclaiming the Prohibtion Amendment effective and adopted was illegal, and that the proclamation is entirely void, for the reason that when it was made thirty-six States had not ratified the amendment. The statement reads:

"The National Prohibition Amendment to the Constitution was promulgated by Mr. Frank Polk, Acting Secretary of State on the 29th of January, the proclamation stating that it was effective as of the 16th day of January. The proclmation recited thirty-six States which had ratified the amendment as of the latter date. This list of States included a number of States the Constitutions of which contain provisions for referendum of the acts and resolutions of their legislative assemblies. Among these States were Ohio and California.

"The Journal has consulted some of the best known constitutional lawyers in the United States regarding this question, and their opinion is unanimous that Mr. Polk's action was not warranted by the facts, and was illegal. The conclusions reached by these lawyers in agreeing with The Journal's contentions, are clear.

"The Constitution of the State of Ohio provides that any act of the Legislature may, upon the petition of a percentage of the voters filed within ninety days after the adjournment of the Assembly, be submitted to the vote of the people, either at the next general election held after the filing of the petition, or at a special election, if one be called by the Governor. This provision of the State Constitution has been before the courts of the State and the Supreme Court of the United States, and it has been held that the people of the State of Ohio under this provision, are a part of the Legislature of this State, and with the General Assembly constitute the Legislature of the State of Ohio. An amendment of this provision to the State Constitution was adopted at the general election in 1918 under the terms of which ratification by the Assembly of the State of a national constitutional amendment may be subjected to a referendum under the same terms as any other act or resolve of the Assembly.

"In the State of California the right of the people to subject the ratification of the national amendment to their acceptance or rejection is quite as clear as in the State of Ohio. In several of the other States listed as having ratified through their State Assembly, the propriety of a referendum is clear.

"The Journal's information is that referendum petitions are to be filed in all of these States within the prescribed period after the adjournment of the Assemblies, which have done their part in ratifying. Undoubtedly, the State of Ohio, for instance, has not ratified and ratification cannot be said to have occurred in the State of Ohio until the referendum proceedings have been completed, either by way of an approval of the Assembly's action or its disapproval.

"Therefore, Mr. Polk's proclamation declaring that thirty-six States had ratified as of Jan. 16, 1919, is void and without force. It assumed that the States listed as ratifying had completed their procedure when, in fact, their procedure was no more complete than it would have been if only one house of the General Assembly had acted, and the decision of the other house was still undetermined.

"In view of the fact that the revised statutes of the United States provide for report by the Secretary of State of national Constitutional amendments proposed by Congress to the several States, and for a return to him of their action thereon, and in view of the fact that the Secretary of State alone can furnish a definite statement of the time of ratification, so that the States of the Union and the people of the United States may know when an amendment has been duly placed in the Constitution, it is obvious that a proclamation containing within its own terms the evidence of its defects, is null and void.

"The situation, now, is that the Secretary of State has made and is now standing on the proclamation declaring the ratification of an amendment as of a stated date, when the list of States which he recites contains the names of States which not only had not compleetd ratification as of that date, but, on the contrary, were in the very process of going about the final ratification or rejection."

SMITH REAPPOINTS RICE.

Tammany Jolted Again by Civil Service Board Nomination.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 10.—There has been very little in the administration of Governor Alfred E. Smith so far to give comfort to Tammany Hall. Some time ago he named to the important position of State Superintendent of Prisons Charles F. Rattigan, erstwhile political lieutenant of Thomas Mott Osborne, who has raised the banner of revolt against Tammany more frequently than any other Democrat in the State. Today he set Tammany politicians thinking hard again by reappointing William Gorham Rice of this city as Civil Service Commissioner for a term of six years.

Commissioner Rice has been one of Mr. Osborne's stanchest allies in the latter's fight against Tammany and its up-State henchmen, and, under the leadership of David B. Hill, was identified with the anti-Tammany wing of the Democratic Party even before Mr. Osborne became conspicuous in anti-Tammany warfare.

The nomination was sent to the Senate by Governor Smith at the session tonight, and was confirmed without reference to committee. The salary is $5,000.

Corporal Alfred J. Glynn of Brooklyn, a nephew of Governor Smith, was jumped to the rank of Major today when his uncle named him as his Military Secretary. The salary is $4,000.

Major Glynn took up his new duties at once. He is the youngest man who ever served as military aid to a Governor in this State. He is one of eight sons of Governor Smith's only sister, and was born in New York City in 1898. In 1917 he enlisted in the 106th Infantry, and after training at Spartanburg, was sent overseas last May. He was in action with his regiment at Knoll, Guillemont Farm, Quennemont Farm, on the Hindenburg line, and at Laselle River, in the Cambrai region. In the last battle he was gassed slightly, on Oct. 20, and was sent home as a casual, after receiving treatment at a base hospital in Rouen.

Governor Smith sent to the Senate tonight the name of Dr. Pearce Bailey, whom he had appointed head of the State Commission for the Feeble-Minded, to succeed Dr. James, who resigned. Dr. Bailey is a specialist in mental and nervous diseases and professor of that branch in the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University. Since the country has been at war he has been at the head of the Division of Mental and Nervous Diseases in the Surgeon General's office of the War Department, with the rank of Colonel.

The nomination of J. Dupratt White of Nyack and Franklin W. Hopkins of Alpine, N. J., to succeed themselves as members of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission; that of Herbert F. Gunnison of Brooklyn to succeed George E. Brower as manager of the Brooklyn State Hospital for the Insane, and that of Philip H. Minshull of Middletown to succeed William H. Rogers, whose term has expired as manager of the Middletown State Hospital, were also received by the Senate tonight.

The nominations of Bailey, White, and Hopkins were confirmed immediately.

New York Likely to See 27th, Boston 26th, Washington 42d.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—It is probable that parades of complete divisions of the American Army returning from France can be held only in a few cities in the immediate vicinity of the debarkation ports. The response to the request of many other localities for divisional reviews of troops is likely to be permission for the parading of not more than a regiment. This, it was learned today, is the conviction of officers at the War Department, who have been studying home-coming parade proposals.

Cities in which it is perhaps practicable to hold divisional reviews, these officers say, are Boston, New York, and Washington. To hold such a parade in an inland city, it was said, would be almost impossible and quite impracticable.

Secretary Baker and General March have already said that the proposal to parade the 27th (New York National Guard) Division as a unit in New York on its way from Camps Mills and Merritt to Camp Upton, where it would be demobilized, is entirely practicable. No serious railroad congestion would result, as the main lines would not be involved. Similar special arrangements might be made, it has also been said, for a parade in Boston of the 26th (New England National Guard) Division. It is also believed possible that definite plans for a parade in Washington of the 42d (Rainbow) Division will be taken under consideration when it is assigned for return.

MADERO GOES FREE.

Sentence Suspended After Plea of Technical Guilt.

Ernesto Madero, head of Madero Brothers, Inc., who pleaded guilty to an irregular transaction in warehouse copper receipts deposited with the National Bank of Commerce, was released on a suspended sentence by Judge McIntyre in General Sessions yesterday. Similar charges against two of his employes, T. L. Milic and Nathan Lazarus were similarly disposed of.

Madero, who was Minister of Finance of Mexico during the administration of his nephew, said he had pleaded guilty, although he was only at fault technically. No loss had been sustained by the bank, he said, and before any legal proceedings had been taken against him he had sought to supply sufficient copper to meet the valuation mentioned in the receipts.

The banking officials corroborated this and expressed confidence in Mr. Madero's integrity and requested leniency.

"Dry" Nebraska Still Wet.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 10.—Governor Samuel R. McKelvie declared today he believed there was nearly as much intoxicating liquor in Nebraska when he assumed office recently as there was when the State had open saloons. He made this statement in connection with a request for an emergency appropriation by the Legislature to employ men to prevent the importation of alcoholic liquors. Nebraska has been a "dry" State for more than a year.

GLASS ASKS NEW LIBERTY LOAN ACT

adjustment by artificial means can only increase the evils inherent in the situation. Buying will not begin and activity will not set in until the community at large is satisfied that prices have reached bedrock. I am very hopeful that measures now under discussion may result in the rapid acceleration of the readjustment, and I am firmly convinced that if that be done America has before her a new period of great and growing prosperity. I am even sanguine enough to believe that it is within the range of the possible that so much may have been accomplished on the lines above indicated before the expiration of two months from now that the whole situation will have been changed and that we may look forward to the successful issue of the Victory Liberty Loan on terms which today would seem quite impossible.

"Furthermore, merely as a matter of the technique of bond selling, it would be a fatal mistake to fix the terms of the loan so long in advance of the offering. The issue would become stale and its attractions would have been discounted long before the loan campaign begins. It will be remembered that the Second Liberty Bond act was approved as late as Sep. 24, and the bonds were offered on Oct. 1, 1917; that the Third Liberty Bond act was approved April 4 and the bonds offered on April 6, 1918; and that the supplement to the Fourth Liberty Bond act was approved Sept. 24 and the bonds offered on Sept. 28, 1918.

"Therefore, and in view of the early expiration of the life of the present Congress and the apparent impossibility of convening and organizing the new Congress in time to enact further bond legislation before the Victory Liberty Loan campaign begins, I reluctantly ask greater latitude in the exercise of a sound discretion as to the terms of the Victory Liberty Loan than has been conferred by the Congress in respect to previous loans. I should be only too glad to have the Congress share with me the responsibility of this extraordinarily difficult determination, but, believing that it would be a grave mistake to reach a final determination at this time, I must ask authority to deal with the matter as the situation may develop.

"Holding these views, I have ventured to have prepared and I submit to you herewith a draft of a bill to amend the Liberty Bond acts and for other purposes. This bill would (1) increase the authorized issue of bonds from $20,000,000,000 to $25,000,000,000; (2) remove the limitation as to interest rate so far as regards bonds maturing not more than ten years from the date of issue; (3) authorize the issue of not to exceed $10,000,000,000 of interest-bearing, non-circulating notes having maturities from one to five years; (4) authorize the issue of bonds and notes payable at a premium; (5) exempt War Savings Certificates from income surtaxes; (6) confer authority upon the Secretary of the Treasury to determine the exemptions from taxation in respect to future issues of bonds and notes, and to enlarge the exemptions of existing Liberty bonds in the hands of subscribers for new bonds and notes; (7) exempt from income surtaxes and profits taxes all issues of Liberty bonds and bonds of the War Finance Corporation held abroad; (8) extend the period for conversion of 4 per cent. Liberty bonds on the lines suggested in my letter of Jan. 15 to you; (9) create a 2½ per cent. cumulative sinking fund for the retirement of the war debt; (10) continue the existing authority for the purchase of obligations of foreign Governments after the termination of the war, in accordance with the views expressed by Secretary McAdoo by letter and in his testimony before the Ways and Means Committee; and (11) extend the authority of the War Finance Corporation so as to permit it to make loans in aid of our commerce, thus supplementing the aid which may be given by the Treasury on direct loans to foreign Governments and in a measure relieving the Treasury of demands for such loans.

"I am sure that your committee will wish to discuss all of these matters fully with me, and I shall not burden you at this time with a fuller statement of my views concerning them.

"I am sending a copy of this letter to Senator Simmons. Very truly yours,

"CARTER GLASS."

Text of the Bill in Full.

The full text of the bill which Secretary Glass sent to Chairman Kitchin, with a request for its passage before March 4, follows:

"A bill to amend the Liberty Bond acts and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that Section 1 of the Second Liberty Bond act, as amended, is hereby further amended by striking out the figures $20,000,000,000 and inserting in lieu thereof the figures $25,000,000,000, and by adding the following clause:

"'Any bonds maturing not later than ten years from the date thereof may bear interest at such rate or rates, notwithstanding the limitation hereinbefore contained, and may be made payable at or before maturity at such premium or premiums as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe.'

"Section 2. That the Second Liberty Bond act is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

"'Section 18. That, in addition to the bonds and certificates of indebtedness and War Savings certificates authorized by the Second Liberty Bond act and amendments thereto, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow from time to time on the credit of the United States for the purposes of said act and amendments thereto and to meet public expenditures authorized by law such sum or sums as in his judgment may be necessary, and to issue therefor notes of the United States at not less than par in such form or forms and subject to such terms and conditions and at such rate or rates of interest as he may prescribe, and each note so issued shall be payable at such time not less than one year nor more than five years from the date of its issue, and may be redeemable before maturity upon such terms and conditions, and may be payable at or before maturity at such premium, and the interest accruing thereon shall be payable at such time or times as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe.

"'The sum of such notes outstanding hereunder shall not at any one time exceed in the aggregate $10,000,000,000. None of such notes shall bear the circulation privilege. The principal and interest thereof shall be payable in United States gold coin of the present standard of value. The word "bonds" where it appears in Sections 8, 9, 10, 14 and 15 of this act and Section 5,200 of the Revised Statutes, but in said sections only, shall be deemed to include notes issued hereunder.'

"Section 3. That, notwithstanding the provisions of the Second Liberty Bond act and of any other act

'(a) War Savings Certificates of the United States heretofore or hereafter issued shall be exempt from taxation as fully and to the same extent as bonds of the United States issued under Section 1 of the First Liberty Bond act.

"(b) Bonds, notes, and certificates of indebtedness of the United States of any series hereafter issued shall be exempt from taxation if and to the extent prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury in connection with the issue thereof.

"(c) Subscribers for any subsequent series of bonds or any series of notes of the United States shall be entitled to additional exemptions from taxation in respect to bonds of the First Liberty Loan, converted; the Second Liberty Loan, converted and unconverted; the Third Liberty Loan, and the Fourth Liberty Loan owned by them if, as, and to the extent prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury in connection with the issuance of such subsequent series of bonds or of such series of notes.

"'Section 3. That, notwithstanding the provisions of the Second Liberty Bond act and of the War Finance Corporation act and of any other act, bonds, notes, and certificates of indebtedness of the United States and bonds of the War Finance Corporation shall, while beneficially owned by a nonresident alien individual or by a foreign corporation, partnership, or association not engaged in business in the United States, be exempt both as to principal and interest from any and all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State or any of the possessions of the United States or by any local taxing authority.'

"Section 4. That the privilege of converting 4 per cent. bonds of the First Liberty Loan converted and 4 per cent. bonds of the Second Liberty Loan into 4¼ per cent. bonds, which privilege arose on May 9, 1918, and expired on Nov. 9, 1918, may be extended by the Secretary of the Treasury for such period upon such terms and conditions and subject to such rules and regulations as he may prescribe; provided, however, that, for the purpose of computing the amount of interest payable, bonds presented for conversion under any such extension shall be deemed to be converted on the dates for payment of the semiannual interest on the respective bonds so presented for conversion, next succeeding the date of such presentation.

"Section 5. That at the expiration of one year after the termination of the war, and annually thereafter until all bonds and notes hereinafter referred to shall be retired, the Secretary of the Treasury shall set aside, as a cumulative sinking fund for the retirement of the war debt, such amount as he shall deem necessary under the provisions of this section, and the amount so set aside by the Secretary of the Treasury in each such year is hereby appropriated for the purposes of this section to be available until all such bonds and notes are retired. Bonds and notes purchased, redeemed, or paid out of the sinking fund shall be cancelled and retired and shall not be reissued.

"The Secretary of the Treasury shall, from time to time, beginning one year after the termination of the war and continuing until the war debt is retired, purchase for the sinking fund bonds and notes issued under authority of the First Liberty Bond act, the Second Liberty Bond act, the Third Liberty Bond act, the Fourth Liberty Bond act, and this act, including converted bonds, at such prices and upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe. The aggregate par amount of all such bonds and notes purchased in any sinking fund year shall equal as nearly as may be, but shall not exceed 2½ per cent. of the aggregate amount of such bonds and notes outstanding at the expiration of one year after the termination of the war plus (in the case of any sinking fund year after the first) any amount herein authorized to be expended for such purchases not expended in any previous year or years, and an amount equal to the interest on all bonds and notes retired by means of the sinking fund. The sinking fund may be applied to the payment of bonds or notes at maturity, or to the redemption thereof before maturity, as well as to the purchase thereof. The average cost of the bonds and notes purchased shall not exceed par and accrued interest.

"Section 6. That the proviso at the end of Section 2 of the Second Liberty Bond act as amended by the Third Liberty Bond act and the Fourth Liberty Bond act is hereby amended to read as follows:

"'Provided, that the authority granted by this section to the Secretary of the Treasury to establish credits for foreign Governments, as aforesaid, shall cease one year after the termination of the war between the United States and the Imperial German Government; and, provided further, that, for the purpose of promoting commerce with foreign nations, such credits may, after Feb. 15, 1919, be established by the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, to provide for purchases in the United States for export therefrom and for expenditures in the United States in connection with such purchases and for the payment of interest to the United States; and, provided further, that after the termination of the war such credits may, with the approval of the President, be established in favor of the Governments of such foreign countries as were previously engaged in war with enemies of the United States.'

"Section 7. That the obligations of foreign Governments acquired by the Secretary of the Treasury by virtue of the provisions of the First Liberty Bond act and the Second Liberty Bond act and amendments and supplements thereto shall mature at such dates as shall be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury; provided that such obligations acquired by virtue of the provisions of the First Liberty Bond act or through the conversion of short-time obligations acquired under said act shall mature not later than June 15, 1947, and all other such obligations of foreign Governments shall mature not later than Oct. 15, 1936.

"Section 8. That the War Finance Corporation act is hereby amended by adding to Title I. thereof a new section to read as follows:

"'Section 21. That the corporation shall be empowered and authorized, in order to promote commerce with foreign nations through the extension of credits, to make advances upon such terms, not inconsistent with the provisions of this section, for periods not exceeding five years from the respective dates of such advances, to any person, firm, corporation, or association engaged in the business in the United States of exporting therefrom domestic raw materials, agricultural products, manufactured articles and other commodities to foreign countries, or to make advances to any bank, banker, or trust company conducting business in the United States which shall have made advances to any such person, firm, corporation, or association after this act shall have taken effect.

"'Such advances shall be limited in amount to not more than the market value of the goods to be exported at the port of shipment and at the time of shipment, (as estimated and determined by the corporation,) plus insurance and carrying or transportation charges to the foreign point of destination, if and to the extent that such insurance and carrying or transportation charges are payable in the United States to domestic insurers and carriers. Provided, that any such advances to a bank, banker, or trust company shall not exceed the amount remaining unpaid of the advances made by any such bank, banker, or trust company to any such person, firm, corporation, or association, and provided, further, that the aggregate of the advances made by the corporation under this section remaining unpaid shall never at any time exceed the sum of $1,000,000,000.

"'Notwithstanding the limitation of Section 1 of this act, the advances provided for by this section may be made until the expiration of one year after the termination of the war, the date of such termination to be fixed by proclamation of the President of the United States. All such advances shall be made upon the promissory note or notes of the borrower, secured in each instance by indorsement, guarantee, or otherwise, as the corporation sholl deem adequate. The corporation in its discretion may extend the time of repayment of any such advance through renewals, the substitution of new obligations, or otherwise, provided that the time for the repayment of any advance shall not be extended beyond five years from the date on which the same was originally made.'

"Section 9. That the last sentence but one of Section 15 of the War Finance Corporation Act be and is hereby amended to read as follows:

"'Beginning twelve months after the termination of the war, the date of such termination to be fixed by a proclamation of the President of the United States, the directors of the corporation shall proceed to liquidate its assets and to wind up its affairs, but the directors of the corporation, in their discretion, may, from time to time, prior to such date, sell and dispose of any securities or other property acquired by the corporation.'

"Section 10. That the short title of this act shall be 'Fifth Liberty Bond Act.'"

Business Basis, Bankers Say.

When the Secretary of the Treasury's summary of the legislation he is asking Congress to enact was read to prominent bankers over the telephone last night, they were not inclined to comment upon it for publication until after they had had an opportunity to read both Mr. Glass's letter to Claude Kitchin, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and the draft of the bill that accompanied the letter.

But the concensus of opinion seemed to be that Secretary Glass had asked for a great deal more than he expected to get and had definitely indicated that he favored the placing of future Government financing on more of a business basis than had been expected. One item of interest to the bankers was the request for the authorization of an issue of bonds and notes payable at a premium. This brought forth the opinion that the new bond issue probably would bear a high rate of interest.

Mr. Glass's request for the removal of the interest rate limitation in the case of bonds maturing not more than 10 years from the date of issue also attracted attention, and it was suggested that the ten-year stipulation might bear some relation to the life of the Victory Loan issue which probably will be offered in April. The request that authority be conferred upon the Secretary of the Treasury to determine the exemptions from taxation respecting new issues of bonds and notes was not so well received, but the accompanying request that authority be granted to him to enlarge the exemptions of existing Liberty bonds in the hands of subscribers for new bonds and notes found favor.

TWO JOBS IN ONE QUEERED COSTIGAN

Enright Reveals a Dual Capacity in Which the Inspector Was Undone.

DID WELL IN VICE SQUAD

But the Many Arrests He Made There Showed Him Lacking as District Inspector.

NO DOUBT ABOUT ARRESTS

Mr. Enright Retracts Previous Statements in His Hylan Letter —Avoids Answering Goff.

For the first time since he demoted Daniel E. Costigan from Inspector of the First Inspection District to be Captain of the Beach Street Station, Police Commissioner Enright explained yesterday how he reached his conclusion that Costigan's record was "rotten."

Costigan, besides being Inspector of the First District, was head of the Vice Squad, and as such made arrests in his own and other districts. As Inspector Costigan he made forty-one arrests in his district. As head of the Vice Squad he made 296 arrests in the same district. Thus Costigan of the Vice Squad proved Costigan of the First District to be "rotten"—that is, vice raider Costigan out-Costiganed Inspector Costigan.

In his letter to the Mayor last Friday Commissioner Enright asserted that while in command of the First Inspection District Costigan made 41 arrests for gambling while 316 arrests for the same offense were made by outside squads acting independently. Costigan's friends assert that he made 296 of these arrests.

"Isn't it true that of these 316 arrests that you say were made by outside squads acting independently, 296 of these arrests were made by Costigan as head of the Vice Squad in the First Inspection District and only 28 arrests were made by Inspector McDonald, head of Squad No. 2, in the First Inspection District?" the Commissioner was asked.

"I don't know. However, they were not made by Costigan as head of the First Inspection District. In any event, Costigan was not given the Vice Squad to work in his own district only."

"By that you mean that Costigan as head of the Vice Squad went into Inspector Costigan's district and made 296 arrests over Inspector Costigan's head. Is that so?"

"That's the way it looks."

Asked to make public figures regarding arrests made for gambling in other inspection districts, Commissioner Enright gave out the following figures:

Inspection District No.	Arrests.
3	60
6	23
7	6
8	0
9	2
10	4
11	63
12	127
14	118
15	39
17	30
18	37

"But did not Costigan participate as head of the Vice Squad in most of these arrests?"

"Yes."

Asked to give figures on arrests Costigan made as head of the Vice Squad in these districts, Mr. Enright gave the following:

Inspection District No.	Arrests.
3	23
7	4
8	0
9	0

"In other words, Costigan, as head of the Vice Sqad, was instrumental in making 155 arrests which were not credited to him. Is that correct?" asked one interviewer.

Mr. Enright made no reply.

"These arrests in the districts enumerated were made by Costigan as head of the Vice Squad and of the First Inspection District. Is that so?"

"Yes."

"Then you feel that Costigan as head of the Vice Squad and of the First Inspection District had no right to go into other inspectors' districts to make arrests?"

"Inspector Costigan should have made the arrests in Inspector Costigan's District."

"Do you think that as head of the Vice Squad Costigan had no right to make arrests in Inspector Costigan's district?"

"Inspector Costigan, like any other inspector held to accountability, should make arrests in his own district."

"In other words, if Costigan made arrests as head of the Vice Squad they were credited to the Vice Squad. If he made arrests as head of the First Inspection District they were credited to the Inspection District and not to Costigan. Is that correct?"

"Good afternoon," was Mr. Enright's reply.

It was revealed through further questioning of the Commissioner that Costigan spent a good deal of time cleaning up his own district before and during the time he was working in the others, but that in doing this he was working with the Vive Squad consisting of fifteen men and not with the three men allotted to him as Inspector of the district. The First District included all of the lower east side from Fourteenth Street down, a region said to have more large and small gambling houses and other illegal places than any other district in the city.

Mr. Enright was asked whether it was not a mere technicality that he did not give credit to Costigan as head of the Vice Squad for his share of the 316 arrests made in Inspector Costigan's district by "outside squads acting independently." He replied that it was not a technicality, but that it reflected discredit on the Inspector because the arrests were made by agencies other than those under Inspector Costigan as head of the inspection district.

Commissioner Enright retreated from the position he took last Saturday, when he declared that the claim made by Costigan's friends that the latter's men made more than 2,000 arrests last year was not true. He made public figures saying that Costigan's men made 1,400 arrests last year for disorderly conduct and 381 additional miscellaneous arrests, 1,781 in all. Of these 805 resulted in discharge of the defendants, he said.

The Commissioner declined to make a reply to the statements published yesterday in a copyrighted article in The Tribune quoting John W. Goff, Jr., who resigned on Saturday as Third Deputy Commissioner, as saying that Costigan was "on the toboggan from the moment Enright went in," and that there is "a combination of circumstances, including the Costigan affair, which are not for the best interest of the department."

An analysis of the vote shows that, had all the Senators who were paired been able to vote, the result would have been 63 to 33, which would have left the outcome just as it was without them—one short of the requisite two-thirds.

Stand of Southern Democrats.

Eleven Southern Democrats voted for the resolution, as against ten when it was voted upon in December. The new advocate was Senator Pollock of South Carolina. Senator Gay of Louisiana was a disappointment to the suffrage proponents. In a speech he told the Senate that, while he had worked to get woman suffrage through the Louisiana Legislature as a State measure, he was opposed to making it part of the Federal Constitution.

"I believe in the right of the States to decide this matter for themselves," explained Senator Gay. He denounced the militants for their attacks on President Wilson, saying they had hurt the suffrage cause.

Senator Ransdell, colleague of Senator Gay, voted with the suffrage supporters. Senator Trammell of Florida, upon whom the suffragists brought particular pressure, even to the point of bringing up a delegation of legislators from his State to urge his support of the resolution, and who received one of President Wilson's cablegrams, stood firmly against it. Senator Martin, the Democratic floor leader, was inflexible in his opposition, even though he was warned by Democratic colleagues supporting the resolution that its defeat might "dig a hole" for the Democratic Party.

The Southern Democrats based their opposition, as before, upon the argument that woman suffrage ought to be disposed of by the States. They feared giving the negro women the vote.

After the resolution had been voted down, Republican Senators began to forecast the attitude of the next Republican Senate regarding it. They calculated upon a gain of three votes in favor, and a loss of one, making a net gain of two; this, with the votes already secure, would give one more than the necessary two-thirds, if the entire Senate voted. The three Senators to enter the next Congress who are known to be suffrage advocates are Mr. Ball of Delaware, who succeeds Senator Saulsbury; Edge of New Jersey, succeeding Senator Baird, and Governor Walsh of Massachusetts, succeeding Senator Weeks. The loss will come with the vote of Mr. Dial of South Carolina, who succeeds Senator Pollock.

The galleries presented a display of Spring millinery fashions, as the Senate assembled. The ushers were careful to separate the militant suffragists, who yesterday burned President Wilson in effigy, from the less belligerent suffragists The anti-suffragettes were allotted a gallery by themselves.

Preceded by Brief Debate.

The suffrage resolution came up just after 1 o'clock, when Senator Jones asked that it be considered. No opposition was raised. Senator Williams of Mississippi offered an amendment restricting the vote to white women, but it was ruled out of order, as the resolution was up on third reading.

Senator Pollock explained why he would support the resolution.

"For a century and a half we have had the privilege of the vote for one-half of our people and slavery for the other half," he said. "The pending amendment does not in any way interfree with State rights. It will have no effect whatever on the race question. It would not mean negro supremacy in the South. The white women would hold control over the negro vote just as the white men do with the vote of the negro men."

"I will vote for the resolution because I believe in it," said Senator Calder of New York.

Senator Wadsworth of New York, whose wife is a member of the anti-suffragists, did not attempt to defend his vote against it.

Senator Frelinghuysen offered an amendment to the resolution, as he did before, to provide drastic naturalization of alien women.

"I favor woman suffrage when proper safeguards are thrown around it for worthy women," said the New Jersey Senator. "But we face the situation of having too many alien women marrying Americans simply to get the benefits of American citizenship, and this, with our lax immigration laws, becomes a menace."

The Senator's amendment was ruled out of order. He voted, notwithstanding, for the resolution.

The National American Woman's Suffrage Association in a statement denounced the opponents of suffrage. They placed the blame for the defeat of the resolution upon the Democrats.

FIVE DAYS IN JAIL FOR 25 MILITANTS

Mrs. Havemeyer Among Those Sentenced for Anti-Wilson Outbreak—Threaten Strike.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Twenty-five members of the National Woman's' Party, including Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer and three other women from New York, who participated in the demonstration in front of the White House yesterday afternoon, when President Wilson was burned in effigy, were arraigned before Judge Hardison in the District Police Court this morning and sentenced to five days each in jail. Another woman received a sentence of two days. All announced that they would go on hunger strikes.

In all there were thirty-nine women brought to the Police Court for a hearing on charges of building fires on Government property, standing on the coping around the White House, or attempting to make disorderly speeches. The New York women, besides Mrs. Havemeyer, were Miss Edith Aings, Mrs. W. D. Ascough, and Miss Louise Bryant, each of whom was sent to jail for five days; Miss Lucy Burns, who was released, and Miss Cora Week, Miss Amy Gungling, and Miss Palys Chevrier, who escaped without a hearing because the court decided to adjourn before they were actually called before the bar of justice.

Miss Sue White of Nashville, Tenn., one of the women who helped to shove the effigy of the President into the flames after several attempts had been thwarted by the police, got a five-day sentence. Nine women from Philadelphia received similar sentences. The others sentenced to jail came from various sections of the country.

The militants apparently were not perturbed by the action of the court and showed no regret for what they had done. Mrs. Havemeyer, in fact, stoutly defended their action.

O'LEARY GERMAN AID VICTORICA TESTIFIES

A FRIEND OF ROEDIGER

Witness Admits Addiction to Drugs —Nearing's Pacifist Pamphlets Introduced Against Him.

Marie K. de Victorica, also known as the Baroness von Kretschmann, who has been called Germany's premier woman spy in the United States by agents of the Department of Justice familiar with her activities, testified at yesterday's session of the trial of Jeremiah A. O'Leary before Federal Judge A. N. Hand. Under the interrogation of Assistant United States District Attorney James W. Osborne, she said that O'Leary had aided her in sending secret messages to Germany in connection with her activities here.

Victorica, who is confined in the internment camp on Ellis Island awaiting trial as a German plotter, was attired in expensive clothing. She wore a coat of sable with a muff to match, two cluster rings of diamonds and a ring set with a large emerald.

She testified that she came to the United States in January, 1917, as an agent of the Propaganda Division of the German Foreign Office, also on a special mission for the German Admiralty, the nature of which she did not particularize.

Victorica told of meeting O'Leary in an uptown restaurant in company with Carl Roediger, under indictment for treason in connection with German plotting against the United States. It was shortly afterward, Victorica declared, that O'Leary, Roediger, and herself met again and discussed the situation in this country.

"I told O'Leary," she testified, "that we needed somebody to go to the other side with a statement of the situation here in America. O'Leary said he couldn't promise, but maybe he could get some one."

Over the objection of Arthur O'Leary of counsel for his brother, Victorica swore that the defendant later suggested Jay Willard Robinson as a suitable messenger. O'Leary warned her, she added, that he would allow Robinson to go only on condition that there should be nothing against the United States in any message he might carry. O'Leary also insisted that she promise to take care of Robinson's mother should anything happen to him, the witness said. Robinson is awaiting trial for treason.

The instructions she gave Robinson in the presence of O'Leary, according to the witness, were to communicate with the Consul General of Germany in Amsterdam, Holland, that Schroeder (one of the names under which Roediger acted) needed men with chemical knowledge here to carry out his plans. She said she gave Robinson a written message also in which she warned the German authorities not to trust him with any work being carried on here.

Victorica declared that O'Leary urged her to give up an apartment she had taken at the Spencer Arms, in upper Broadway, and move to the Hotel Netherland as he believed a private apartment was dangerous for her. She did as he suggested, she said, because she knew she was being watched. After Robinson returned from his mission abroad, Victorica testified, she and O'Leary rode in an auto from Long Beach, where she was staying, to an uptown restaurant, where the three conferred together.

Under cross-examination, Victorica admitted being a drug addict, and told of taking treatment at Bellevue Hospital, the Florence Crittenton Home, and Waverley House, places where she had been confined since her arrest. She had been taking morphine for more than twenty years, she said, but in steadily decreasing quantities. She admitted that she had lied when she had told the doctors at Bellevue Hospital that she was born in Argentina.

"You would tell a lie to save your life?" asked Arthur O'Leary, after questioning her on her indictment and approaching trial.

"No, never," she replied, heatedly.

"No."

"Did you ever hear anybody say the authorities were anxious to get evidence of an Irish plot?" she was asked.

She said she had, though she was unable to recollect who had told her.

The witness was also examined at length by Colonel Thomas Felder, chief counsel for the defendant, who sought to show that because of her addiction to drugs her testimony was valueless. The trial will be continued today with Victorica on the stand.

Pacifist pamphlets, one entitled "The Menace of Militarism" and another "The Great Madness," written by Scott Nearing after the United States had entered the war, were introduced yesterday at Nearing's trial in the Federal Court of Judge Mayer. Nearing is charged with attempting to obstruct the draft.

In the examination of Isaac Sackin, Recording Secretary of the American Socialist Society, it was brought out that the Rand School was endowed largely through the efforts of George D. Herron, one of the Americans sent by President Wilson to confer with the Bolsheviki in Russia. Sackin and George N. Cohan, Chairman of the Committee on Publications of the society, were called by the prosecution to show connection between the defendant and the American Socialist Society. Cohan identified pacifist pamphlets written by Nearing some of which he said he had seen in manuscript form in the Rand School. The trial will be continued today.

SAYS McKAY WAS PROFANE.

Woman Testifies Against Deposed Deputy Probation Officer.

Testimony tending to show that George D. McKay, former Chief Deputy Probation officer, who was deposed by Chief City Magistrate McAdoo after investigation of charges of insubordination and misconduct brought against him last Fall by Chief Probation Officer Edward J. Cooley, was discourteous to women court employes was given yesterday at the hearing into the affair before Commissioner of Accounts David Hirschfield. The present inquiry was ordered by Mayor Hylan on McKay's complaint that he had not received a "square deal."

Five witnesses for Cooley were examined, one of whom, Miss Rose McQuade, of 2,486 Concord Street, the Bronx, testified that she had been a probation officer in the Domestic Relations Court for five years, and came under the supervision of McKay when she was assigned to do field work. She testified that it was McKay's habit to use profane and indecent language and tell coarse jokes in the presence of women probation officers. She said that McKay on one occasion found fault with her work and cursed her before witnesses.

"I never went into his office," she said, "but that I felt that I would rather go anywhere else."

Joseph L. Murphy of 265 East 181st Street, the Bronx, who was formerly a stenographer for Mr. Cooley said that in his opinion McKay showed no interest in the former's endeavor to make the probation department better. On one occasion, he said, when the subject of getting the Board of Estimate to appoint sixteen more probation officers was under discussion, McKay offered to bet him $100 that the measure would not be reported favorably. Henry G. Rosenthal, of 415 Avenue C, Brooklyn, also testified that he had noticed McKay's alleged general discourtesy. The hearing will be continued on Feb. 18.

HOUSE PRAISES LEAGUE.

Sends Message of Congratulation from Paris to Taft.

The League to Enforce Peace received a cable dispatch yesterday from Colonel E. M. House congratulating its President, William Howard Taft, on the success of the National Congress for a League of Nations. The message, which came from Paris and was addressed to William H. Short, the Secretary of the Congress, said:

> Please convey to Mr. Taft my heartiest congratulations and felicitations over the admirable work that is being done by the organization of which he is the head.

Colonel House's message has been forwarded to Mr. Taft at Chicago, where he is now acting as Chairman for the Great Lakes Congress for a League of Nations. This is the third in the series, the second having been held in Boston. Mr. Taft and other speakers will go on to seven other cities in the West and South where similar conventions will be held during the month.

BIG NAVY PLAN BLOCKED BY RULE

graph before the House, Mr. Padgett offered an amendment to appropriate $2,000,000 for the building program contemplated. This did not carry the limitation. Representative C. B. Miller of Minnesota amended this to increase the appropriation to $210,000,000. Before acting on these amendments the committee rose.

If the committee tomorrow brings in a rule declaring the objectionable paragraphs in order, there will be a prolonged fight over the acceptance of the special rule. Unless such a rule can be obtained it is believed, judged by the attitude of the House today, the building program will be defeated.

The clause limiting the three-year building program, which was placed in the bill at the request of President Wilson, causing the trouble today, reads:

"If at any time before the construction authorized by this act shall have been contracted for there shall have been established with the co-operation of the United States of America any tribunal or tribunals competent to secure peaceful determination of international disputes and which shall render unnecessary the maintenance of competitive armaments, then and in that case such naval expenditure as may be inconsistent with the engagements made by the establishment of said tribunal or tribunals may be suspended when so ordered by the President of the United States and no contracts for the construction of vessels herein authorized shall be entered into prior to Feb. 1, 1920."

Speeches made both before and after the successful fight by Mr. Mann showed that the House was unwilling to take the responsibility of authorizing an enlargement of the navy on the terms apparently dictated by the President's confidential cable dispatch, the exact text of which has never been revealed.

"Now is the time for us to trim this naval program," said Representative Johnson of Washington. "It is time that we stopped blindly voting for enormous appropriations without knowing what they are for. I am one of the members of the House who has read the telegram that Secretary Daniels sent to the President regarding this naval bill, and the reply of the President. Unfortunately the President's cablegram was couched in such terms that it cannot be made public, but the general tenor of it has been made public.

"The telegram of Secretary Daniels was nothing but a polite invitation for the President to help this bill through Congress, and the President's message an attempt to comply with that request It is time we put a stop to this kind of dictation."

"If we are going to punish the President," said Representative Emerson of Ohio, "we should not do it in the eyes of the world, but wait until we get him here where we can do it in domestic privacy."

"We are putting the cart before the horse," said Representative Wood of Indiana, "if we authorize an increase in the navy now. The navy program should be made to fit the peace program, and now we do not know what will be done over there. The one thing that the people of the country and of the world are interested in is the conclusion of peace and the greatest service that the President can perform for the world is to get down to brass tacks, and do the work that the Peace Conference has assembled to do."

Chairman Padgett again told the House that he had made public the substance of both messages exchanged between Secretary Daniels and the President on the naval program. He declined to divulge the actual text of these messages.

"Is the House asked to vote for a navy or for a threat?" asked Representative McCormick of Illinois during the discussion of this amendment.

"No threat is implied in any part of this bill," replied Mr. Padgett.

Quoting Colonel Roosevelt, Representative Osborne of California reminded the House of the late President's admonition, "Speak softly, but carry a big stick."

"That is a maxim worth following," said Mr. Osborne. "I am for a great American navy irrespective of the mistakes that the President may have made. I should have supported this bill if the President had said nothing about it."

Representative Mann, Republican leader, and Representative Madden of Illinois both charged the big navy men with an attempt to evade real legislative authorization for a greater navy by failing to appropriate for it.

"You are trying to hoodwink the American public," said Mr. Madden, "by authorizing a great navy without providing any money to build it. It is a deliberate attempt to deceive."

Representative Miller of Minnesota, Republican, urged that both Republicans and Democrats join in authorizing a new building program and in providing adequate funds to complete it.

"I have offered an amendment to appropriate $210,000,000, the estimated amount it will cost to build these ten battleships," said Mr. Miller, "and I am not bluffing about it. I have always believed in building a great navy. There is no nation that needs a great navy more than the United States. Everyone knows that with our present navy we cannot defend the Panama Canal, cannot defend our coast line, nor our interests in Alaska, the Philippines, and elsewhere. While we are about it, let us build the kind of navy that Theodore Roosevelt said we should build twenty years ago."

The committee has concluded consideration of the bill except the building program.

ELEVEN MORE QUIT BROOKLYN GREETERS

TO DISMISS PAID WORKERS

Delaney Says No Action Has Been Taken on Return of Contributions.

Lawrence Abraham and ten other Brooklynites resigned yesterday from the Brooklyn Victory Celebration Committee in protest againsnt the attempted domination by the sympathizers of William Randolph Hearst, a member of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to the Homecoming Troops. Mrs. William A. Prendergast, wife of the former Controller, and several others demanded the return of contributions sent to the committee before Nathan S. Jonas resigned as Chairman.

Some of the letters referred directly to Hearst and Mayor Hylan and others said that the "political situation" had caused them to desire to retire. Mr. Abraham, who is one of the members of the firm of Abraham & Straus, operating the department store in Brooklyn, said that he resigned because "of the political situation which has arisen, and which will tend to divert the original purpose for which the committee was created." Mrs. Prendergast said that she did not wish her money used by the present committee "born, as it has been, out of circumstances which I heartily condemn."

John J. Delaney, the new Chairman of the committee, said yesterday that no decision had been made on the demands for the return of money contributed to the fund for the permanent memorial, but it was intimated by other members of the Executive Committee that the money would not be returned. It is their attitude that the money was given for the memorial and that a new committee could carry out that purpose. As one of his changes in the management of the committee Chairman Delaney said that all paid workers of the committee would be dismissed and volunteers recruited to take their places. He asserted that about $10,000 of the $40,000 collected had been expended and added: "How could we return all this money, even if we thought it desirable?"

Mrs. Prendergast also wrote a letter to Mr. Jonas praising him for his opposition to efforts of the Hearst sympathizers to dictate the course of the committee. Others who wrote him letters of the same tenor yesterday were: R. J. Perrine, Corbett McCarthy, Samuel F. Thompson, L. J. Filer, and Frazier Curtis, an American who served with the French Army. Mrs. Prendergast wrote:

"I want you to know that you have my entire sympathy and approval in the course you have taken in refusing to permit the committee, so long as you were its Chairman, to become subservient to any personal or political interests.

In resigning his place on the committee Frank Harvey Field, the lawyer, wrote:

"I cannot remain on a committee which is dominated by Hearst. I have served on a draft board and had a hand in raising the army now in France. I also have a boy there who is soon coming home. In my opinion a committee dominated by Hearst is an insult to the boys and to their families.

The others who resigned were Caspar V. Gunther, Louis Berger, Abraham Sterzelbach, Edward E. H. Cerner, Walter Rothschild, John F. Dower, John Skelton, Isaac Meseritz, Flora M. Crawford, Mrs. August Dreyer, and Mrs. Helen G. Daley.

It was announced yesterday by the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops that vaudeville shows and boxing bouts would be held tomorrow night as part of the welcome to the 57th Artillery, formerly the 9th Coast Defense command, and the 59th, formerly the 13th Coast Defense command. The 57th is to be entertained in the 71st Regiment Armory, at Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, and the 59th at the 13th Regiment Armory, at Sumner and Jefferson Avenues, Brooklyn. Soldiers may obtain tickets at the committee headquarters at the Hall of Records.

In speaking of a complaint by an anonymous marine that the reception committees here were making complete plans to greet soldiers and sailors, but were neglecting marines, representatives of all the committees said that no such discrimination had been intended. It was pointed out by members of the Mayor's Committee that the marines have been named in every resolution of greeting, and their designation had been painted on every banner. Members of the Independent Citizens' Committee and the Brooklyn Victory Committee said the Marine Corps had been mentioned in all their resolutions and at all their meetings.

Anthracite Available

For all communities—For all purposes—In any quantity

By an order effective February 1, 1919, the U. S. Fuel Administrator permits the resumption of shipments of anthracite in any quantity, to any community and to any consumer, and suspends all regulations and restrictions on the price of hard coal. Coincident with the issuance of the order the Fuel Administrator gave to the press the following statement relative to the prices of anthracite which during the period of the war had been fixed by the Administration:

"By his Executive Order of August 23, 1917, the President adopted as maximum prices for anthracite coal, the schedule of prices which had been acquiesced in by the industry while under investigation by the Federal Trade Commission under the so-called 'Calder' resolution of the Senate. This involved one price for the railroad controlled coal companies, and a price of 75c higher for the individuals. With the exception of a reduction of sixty cents a ton in the prices for pea coal made October 1, 1917, and two adjustments to cover increases in miners' wages, the Fuel Administration allowed the prices fixed by the President to stand pending examination of costs such as were made in the case of bituminous coal.

"For the purpose of arriving at a fair increase in price to cover the increase in wages recommended by the War Labor Board last October, an examination was made to determine the costs of the various anthracite producing companies. The result of this examination showed that the general increases in the price of materials and labor had raised the cost of mining anthracite to such an extent that many of the companies were not receiving a fair return and that some producers of necessary coal were actually sustaining a loss on the sale of coal at the Government prices, in spite of the two increases allowed on account of advances to labor.

"At the time this situation was discovered every indication pointed to an early peace and it was deemed unwise to increase the maximum prices so near the time when, on account of the end of the war, price restrictions would in the natural course of events, be lifted entirely.

"The above statement made at this time, when price restrictions are about to be lifted, out of fairness to those companies who have patriotically kept up their production to war needs, even at a cost which resulted in many instances in a loss, not only by the individuals, but also by some of the railroad companies, so that the impression shall not exist that the Government prices of anthracite coal in existence at the time of the lifting of restrictions were prices which the Fuel Administration had fixed on the basis of cost to the operators.

"Had the Fuel Administration's active control over maximum prices on anthracite coal been continued, the cost examination above referred to shows that it would have been necessary, on the basis of the present wage scale, to raise these maximum prices possibly as much as 50 cents a ton above those last fixed by the Government, in order to prevent financial embarrassment and perhaps the closing of companies producing a substantial per cent. of the necessary anthracite output.

"Such a curtailment of production would eventually result in the demand exceeding the supply to such an extent as to increase the prices much higher than they would be if that supply were continued."

DEMPSEY IS SIGNED TO FIGHT WILLARD

STAGED IN PERRY HOUSE

Fighter and Promoter Affix Names in Weehawken—Challenger Is Confident.

In an out-of-the-way corner of the Weehawken, N. J., terminal of the West Shore Railroad Jack Dempsey, Salt Lake City heavyweight, yesterday signed articles to box Jess Willard, title holder, in a heavyweight championship bout to be promoted in July, probably on Independence Day, by Tex Rickard.

Under the terms of the contract the bout will be any distance up to forty rounds. Willard will receive $100,000 and one-third of the moving-picture rights, while Dempsey is guaranteed $27,500, with one-third of the moving-picture privileges.

Rickard, by mutual arrangement with Dempsey and Jack Kearns, the boxer's manager, agrees to deposit forthwith the sum of $10,000 in a bank to be decided upon, while Kearns and Dempsey will post $5,000 as a guarantee of good faith. Forty-eight hours before the time of the bout Rickard agrees to deposit the remaining $17,500, Dempsey's share of the purse. Dempsey, with Willard, must be on the scene of the bout six weeks before the date of the proposed contest to complete training for the match.

With the exception of the financial differences and an additional provision, the contract signed by Dempsey is similar to the one which Willard signed Jan. 24 at Chicago. The additional provision sets forth that if the match is promoted outside of North America Promoter Rickard agrees to defray the traveling expenses of the participants. This condition will shortly be inserted in the Willard contract.

Dempsey, like the champion, is prohibited from taking part in any boxing match between now and the time he enters the ring against Willard, at a time and place to be announced by Rickard sixty days prior to the date of the contest.

Waste No Time Signing.

The actual signing of the contract by Dempsey was dispatched with an absence of much of the glamor and ceremonies which have marked the closing of negotiations for important ring bouts in the past. The forthcoming match will make pugilistic history, in point of purse moneys, particularly, yet there was no flourishing of huge sums of money or popping of corks or any of the other attending features which have come almost to be regarded as customary with the conclusion of preliminary details in connection with important ring happenings.

When this had been completed, Promoter Rickard and his party decided to repair to New Jersey, for the purpose of formally signing the articles. This was decided expedient, so that there could be no question about the legality of the agreement.

Emerging from the Claridge, Rickard, Dempsey, Dorgan, and Kearns were met by a battery of movie operators, whose machines were all posed for the occasion. The quartet was instructed to stand against the hotel wall and "look businesslike." On both sides were hundreds of animated faces, while on the farther cubstone were lined additional hundreds, all eager to get a peek at the challenger for Willard's crown. After the pictures were taken the party climbed into a waiting taxi and was driven to the West Shore ferry.

On the contract signed appeared the names of four Jacks. They were Jack Dempsey, Jack Kearns, Jack (Ike) Dorgan, and Jack Skelley, the old-time featherweight boxer.

Dempsey Going on the Stage.

Dempsey, with Manager Kearns, left this city last night for Uniontown, Penn., where the challenger is scheduled to open today with a theatrical company. This engagement will run for six weeks. Promoter Rickard will remain in New York until Friday, when he plans to journey to Texas for a two weeks' visit to inspect his oil holdings there.

Rickard was enthusiastic over the easy manner in which the details were concluded. Not a hitch arose at any time during the afternoon. He paid a tribute to the business methods of both Kearns and Dempsey when the articles were signed. Promoter Rickard has not yet made up his mind where he will promote the match. He is considering several offers from various parts of the country, and will make no definite announcement on the location for the bout until all these offers have been investigated.

Latest offers which Promoter Rickard has under consideration come from Fred Dyer, Australian welterweight boxer, and James Dougherty, Pennsylvania promoter. Dyer, who is boxing instructor at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., made a proposal to have the bout held in a huge stadium at the Illinois camp. This stadium can seat 40,000 spectators, according to Dyer, and the officials of the camp are favorable to the scheme to conduct the proposed bout there. Dougherty, who promoted the Benny Leonard-Johnny Kilbane six-round bout in Philadelphia last July, wants Promoter Rickard to entertain a proposition to conduct the bout at Eddystone, Penn., where twenty-round bouts are permitted.

Rickard yesterday delegated Dyer to confer with army and navy officials at Washington on the proposal to have an army-navy championship heavyweight bout precede the Willard-Dempsey contest.

HARVARD CREW MAY DEFEND HENLEY CUP

Cambridge Oarsmen Likely to be Represented in Challenge Race on Thames.

A movement has been started to send a Harvard crew to England in July to defend the Grand Challenge Cup at the Henley regatta. The suggestion has been put before the Harvard authorities by the Harvard Alumni Bulletin in its latest issue. The second Harvard crew, coached by Robert Herrick and stroked by Charles Lund, won the cup at Henley in 1914, and since that year there has been no race.

The Harvard Bulletin, in discussing the probability of entering a Harvard crew in July, says: "Many rowing men believe that it would be good sportsmanship to have Harvard represented in the regatta by an eight made up either of undergraduates or of recent graduates, and that the entry of such a crew would tend to strengthen the friendship of England and the United States.

"It is taken for granted that Yale and Harvard will resume their boat races at New London. The rowing men in each college apparently desire to renew their annual contests on the course which has been used, with two interruptions, for about forty years. Harvard rowed at Poughkeepsie in 1896 and 1897, and because of the war there was no race in 1917. In spite of these two breaks, the picturesque races at New London have become almost as important rowing events in this country as the contest on the other side of the ocean between Oxford and Cambridge and the regattas at Henley on the Thames."

If Harvard decides to defend the cup this year, it is doubtful if the crew which races at New London will be available, although the New London race this year will probably be held earlier than usual. This would not give the crew a chance to go across in time to hold any practice after arriving there. It is very likely that a crew of undergraduates will not be chosen, because of the curtailment of sports at Cambridge this year.

There is a drawback to a crew of graduates because most of the promising oarsmen are members of the Union Boat Club of Boston. Lund, who stroked the Harvard second crew, when it won the cup five years ago, is now stroke of the Union crew. This crew has entered the American Henley at Philadelphia this year and will make every effort to win. The Union crew also expects to go to the English Henley in 1920. Bill Haines, who coached the Harvard crews, will also coach the Union Boat Club. If Harvard did choose to send a crew of graduates to defend the cup, their chances of winning would be far better than the under-graduate crew which will be developed there in the Spring.

The discussion of the race by Harvard oarsmen on this side will undoubtedly bring about a definite announcement about this year's Henley regatta. Guy Nickalls, the English oarsman who coached the Yale crews for several seasons, in discussing a regatta this year, writes as follows:

"As the standard of oarsmanship is unlikely to be high, it is not thought the Challenge Cups will be offered for competition or that the standard medals and cups will be given as prizes. A year or more must elapse before we can hope to bring the rowing at Henley regatta up to anything approaching either the quantity or quality of 1912, 1913, or 1914."

Henley regatta was inaugurated in 1839, and was carried on without a break until 1914. In this last race, all the crews were eliminated in the preliminaries except two American crews, the Union Boat Club and the Harvard second eight. The latter crew won the Grand Challenge Cup by defeating Union, and the trophy has been held there by Harvard since that time.

Princton Hockey Team Loses.

Princeton's hockey team, which is scheduled to play Yale on Saturday night, was defeated last night by the Brooklyn Hockey Club skaters in a game at Brooklyn Ice Palace by a score of 2 goals to 1. The Brooklyn team's tallies were made by Fred B. Mohle and Frank Farah, Brooklyn high school players. Mohle registered the initial goal late in the opening period, while Farah's count came early in the second period.

ROVERS WIN POLO MATCH.

Kinney and Blackwell Star in Defeat of Squadron A Trio.

Standing of the Teams.

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
White Owls	2	0	1000
Meadow Larks	1	0	1000
Fox Hunters	1	1	.500
Rovers	1	1	.500
Eagles	0	1	.000
Squadron A	0	2	.000

The Rovers polo trio whitewashed the Squadron A poloists last night in the Phillips Cup tournament at Durland's Riding Academy by the score of 19½ goals to 9. The nine goals showing in the total for the Squadron A players represented a handicap which the Rovers conceded their rivals.

Archie Kinney and Dr. H. B. Blackwell did the bulk of the work for the victorious team. The defense of the soldiers was weak. The handicap they received enabled the Squadron A trio to end the first period in the lead by a score of 9 to 8. Kinney scored three goals and Dr. Blackwell five. In the second half Kinney accounted for seven goals while Dr. Blackwell added four more to his total. Another goal was registered by Grannis. In this period Dr. Blackwell committed a foul and he was penalized one-half point.

The lineup:

Baxter of the Oakland Country Club both turning in cards of 75, which they will play off later in the week. Van Buren was winner of the medal in the Lakewood tourney, two weeks ago, in 77. Alfred Morrell was off his game, taking an 81.

The field, numbering 135, was one of the largest that ever started here. Five flights qualified. The 82s drew for the first flight. It took an 86 to get into the second, and it was necessary to break 90 for the third.

J. N. Van Buren, Sherwood, 35, 40—75; W. J. Baxter, Oakland Country, 36, 39—75; A. J. Mendez, Siwanoy, 32, 45—77; Andrew Carnegie 2d, Myopia, 36, 43—79; H. C. Clarke, Myopia, 36, 43—79; G. W. Palmer, Miami, 38, 41—79; Charles E. Van Vleck, Jr., Montclair, 39, 41—80; W. R. Simons, New York, 37, 43—80; A. S. Ridley, Englewood, 39, 41—80; Alfred Morrell, Hackensack, 41, 40—81; Quintin Feitner, South Shore Field, 36, 45—81; G. W. Bowes, London, 40, 41—80; C. Grady, New York, 37, 44—81; A. H. Poehler, Minneapolis, 37, 44—81; Russell Colt, New York, 38, 44—82.

M'GRAW TO SETTLE HAL CHASE CLAIM

Manager John J. McGraw of the Giants returned from Cincinnati yesterday after an unsuccessful hunt for Hal Chase. That the temperamental first baseman will soon be in the Giants' fold, however, seems certain, as it is understood that President Herrmann of Cincinnati has given the New York manager authority to bring about a settlement of Chase's suit against the Reds. McGraw and Chase will get together today and it is believed that the first baseman's claim of something like $1,600 in back salary will be adjusted.

Chase maintains that, when he was suspended last August by Manager Christy Mathewson, three weeks' salary was due him which he has never received. Chase says that the club probably held back the pay because at the time many of the players were jumping to the shipyards. The first baseman argues that this holding back of salary in his case was unnecessary because he was over the draft age at the time.

When Manager McGraw got to Cincinnati he was informed by Herrmann that the deal for the first baseman could not be consummated until Chase's suit had been either withdrawn or settled. As Chase lives in the Bronx, McGraw was empowered by Herrmann to see the first baseman and fix up their differences. It is not expected that McGraw will have any trouble in coming to an understanding with Hal, because the first baseman is anxious to play with the Giants, and means to refute all suspicions about his indifferent playing by his work with the McGraw team this Summer.

With Chase, Doyle, Fletcher, and Zimmerman cavorting around the infield, the Giants should make a noise in the National League this year. Even with Slim Sallee absent, the pitching staff looks like the best McGraw has had for several seasons. The best news that McGraw has received in some time comes from Ferdie Schupp, the Giants' southpaw, who is spending the Winter at his home in Louisville. Schupp says that the rheumatic condition in his pitching arm which made his wing useless last season has entirely disappeared, and he expects that it will be able to pitch as well as ever.

Secretary Foster yesterday sent Dick Hemingway, the Giants' utility infielder, who was sent to the Phillies last season, to the Indianapolis Club.

Two more members of the Yankees joined the fold yesterday. The signed contract of Ping Bodie arrived, so the weighty left fielder will again decorate the outer garden. Muddy Ruel, who is expected to relieve Truck Hannah of much of the catching duty next Summer, has also signed his contract.

President John A. Heydler of the National League is in Washington, where he is maknig an effort to locate the several players who are in the service on the other side. It is expected that most of these players will be back within the next month.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 10.—A baseball squad of more than 150 reported this afternoon to Coach Billy Lush, who will handle that sport after having concluded a successful basket ball season. Only one regular player and one change pitcher of last year have left the squad. The prospect of the renewal of the West Point contest has livened up the whole squad.

Joie Ray in Millrose Games.

Joie Ray, the sturdy little runner of the Illinois A. C., has entered the games of the Millrose A. A. to be held in Madison Square Garden Feb. 25. Ray will compete in the Rodman Wanamaker special one and one-half mile run. This will be Ray's third competition in this race. If he is successful he will become permanent owner of the silver cup.

AMERICA WILL SEND TEAM.

Conference May Determine Place for Next Olympic Games.

"America stands ready to send a representative athletic team to the next Olympic Games, regardless of the time or place which may be designated." This was the answer of prominent Amateur Athletic Union officials to the query of the Swedish Athletic Association made through United States Minister Morris at Stockholm recently.

Sweden, however, is not the only nation which desires to hold the games, and it is probable that a conference of the International Olympic Games Committee will be necessary in the near future to pass upon this phase of the situation, especially if the meet is to be staged in 1920, as appears probable.

Many nice letters reach us in the daily course of business, but now and again one specially hits our fancy.

Here, for example, is a note addressed to the Manager of our Warren St. Store, telling about a letter of introduction which in a nutshell says all we could say and more!

"In my hurry to get my train yesterday I forgot to tell you that I have given a letter of introduction to my friend, Mr. B——, who has taken a great fancy to that Scotch tweed suit you sent me a few weeks ago. He has always been to a custom tailor and was much surprised that I bought this ready made; wants to come in and see you; also surprised at the cost, $42. Mr. B—— is a fine fellow and I think you should make a good customer of him. I know you will take good care of him when he presents his letter of introduction."

These cheery words are especially appreciated because the writer is not only a successful merchant, but a good judge of values, and the sort of friend who, should occasion require, never hesitates to tell us of our faults, for our own good as he puts it, as indeed we hope you all will when things go wrong.

A REYNOLDS LEADS OLD MASTERS' SALE

Van Gelder's "David and Bathsheba" Fetches $4,000, and Murillo's "San Fernando" $3,500.

Eighty-one pictures of English, Dutch, and other old masters, sold by executors and trustees of different estates and for a number of private owners, at the Plaza last evening, under the auspices of the American Art Association, brought $48,840. Sir Joshua Reynolds's "Portrait of Anthony Chamier" brought the highest price, going to Lewis & Simmons for $7,000. To the same buyers went Aert Van Gelder's "David and Bathsheba," which brought the second highest price of the sale, $4,000. "San Fernando," by Murillo, which brought the third highest price of the sale, $3,500, went to A. Reiman.

A large and attractive portrait, "Miss Broughton Holding a Mask," by Francis Cotes, sold for a private collector, went to Mrs. George Leary for $1,000, the gross returns to go to the Red Cross. This was purchased by the owner as a gift for her son, who was not able to use it in his house. The seller offered the net returns to the Red Cross and the American Art Association made the contribution of the selling cost.

'LE CHEMINEAU' SUNG AGAIN

Leroux's Fine Lyric Drama Splendidly Given at the Lexington.

Leroux's "Le Chemineau," possibly the finest French lyric drama to reach this public in the last decade, was performed for the second time last evening at the Lexington before a distinguished audience recalling the old Manhattan days. The public had evidently found in the Chicago company's latest production something akin to the poetic moods of "Pelleas," the musical realism of "Louise."

The singing actors engaged gave a superb account of themselves, the final interview of the dying Baklanoff and the wanderer, Maguenat, holding the assembly till near midnight. Yvonne Gall showed again a new power as actress, and the minor rôles were handled with the art of the Paris stage by Claessens and Huberdeau, Dua and Sharlow, Nicolay and Defrere. Conductor Hasselmans received an ovation.

Leginska Recital Postponed.

Ethel Leginska of the leonine mane and brilliant pianism did not play her recital at Aeolian Hall as announced yesterday afternoon. This young artiste had played on Sunday afternoon in Brooklyn in the Academy of Music with the Philharmonic Society under the baton of Josef Stransky, thereby replacing Yolanda Mero, and as the concerto was Rubinstein's D minor, it is not difficult to imagine that she gave all that was in her artistic self. Result: recital postponed till March 30.

DRAMA

James Bointon Blake	Norman Trevor
Yama	T. Tamamoto
William Bainbridge	Eric Snowden
Valerie Vincent	Christabel Hunter
Edward Dubois	Charles Esdale
Mona Tonella	Merle Maddern
John Paige	Charles A. Stevenson

Colonel Botts	Wright Kramer

The heroines in romantic comedy of the South "after the war" have a curious way of seeming neither very graceful nor very lovable. To the cold, Northern view, at least, they combine provincial awkwardness of mind with intense aristocratic pride—a forbidding and a fearsome combination. But in the beauty of the old Southern homes and in the amiability of the old colored people one believes with a full heart. The one really convincing and delightful figure in the little new play at the Comedy was Toby, the old family servant, and the one performance that scored unmistakably with the audience was that of George Marion, who played him.

Toby is much more than the conventional retainer who remains faithful in poverty and ruin. Mr. Foote has seen him with a fresh eye, given several new and diverting turns to his character, and woven him very skillfully into the spirit of the comedy, even into its romance. In one scene, in order to account for the disappearance of the family wine cellar, (which has been sold to pay bills,) he professes to have drunk it, first involving himself in a network of sacrificial lies and then extricating himself from it in a manner worthy of Hopkinson Smith. There are excellent passages of comedy with the young hero's Japanese servant, whom he alternately bullies and fears, which defy description.

And then there is that matter of his bow—a rite with which he most graciously and amusingly signalizes the triumph of the young northern lover, welcoming him into the family. In a word, Toby is priceless. To the eye of the professional Southerner, Mr. Marion's performance may seem somewhat lacking in unction and in accuracy of local color; but in all other respects it is notably skillful, subtle and humorous, a genuine little masterpiece.

Far less is to be said of the play as a whole. It is very thin, somewhat slow in movement, and lacking in romantic interest. The hero is a young New York novelist of "genius" who has lost his soul in fast living and best sellers and who finds regeneration and inspiration in Virginia. It is a part easily within the scope of Norman Trevor, who invests it with all possible grace and charm; but it is essentially pastiche, affording no real opportunity and how, when and why Mr. Trevor falls in love with that Virginia belle will forever remain a mystery!

The heroine, alas, is one of those fatuous, twisted, and ingrowing young Southern ladies who have been so frequently and so convincingly portrayed that one is forced, however reluctantly, to believe that they are no mere myth. Only last week we saw her sister in the spirit in the young heroine of "Mis' Nelly of N'Orleans." Doris Rankin embodies her in a manner quite acceptable to the eye—even investing her with a rare and tenuous beauty; but, unfortunately, instead of palliating her fits of pride and unlovely anger Miss Rankin accentuates them.

The "Ole Mis'," Mrs. Vardaman, is a far more persuasive character, and is acted with much sympathy and delicacy by Alice Augarde Butler. The comrades of Mr. Trevor's Bohemian revels in Webster Hall (in the first act) are presented with much vigor, if with little raiment. Marie Maddern excels in the way she "takes on," and Christabel Hunter in the garments she takes off.

"THE NET" HAS SUSPENSE.

Lily Lenox	Claire Whitney
Albert Page	Alfred Shirley
The Man	Charles Millward
Allayne	Kathlene MacDonnell
Billy Norman	Graham Lucas
Nurse	Lucy Sheldon
Inspector Blake	Walter Horton
Lizzie	Cicely Barcham
Dr. Morris	Charles Dalton
Sir Henry Drake	Ben Johnson
Martin	Elbert Johns

"The Net," the first play by Maravene Thompson, the novelist, is an interesting but rather slow-paced melodrama of the murder mystery type. The audience witnesses the murder and is accordingly not required to speculate as to the identity of the guilty man, but is requested instead to focus its speculative powers upon a mysterious intruder to whose door the guilt is falsely laid. The latter, being a victim of amnesia at the moment, is unable to clear himself, and the wife of the murderer, who witnesses the crime, feels her lips sealed by the fact that she cannot, for the sake of her child, fasten the taint of murderer upon its father. And so the titular net binds her.

The strength of this net—that is, the necessity of the wife's continued silence—is likely to be variously felt by succeeding audiences. The dying man has whispered the name of his murderer with his last breath, and the fleeing husband forces his identity upon the amnesia victim, but even when the latter comes to claim his rightful place as husband the wife remains silent. It is, of course, a situation which must eventually "out," and in the circumstances the wife's silence becomes a trifle forced. Not even the sight of a golden-haired youngster was proof positive that the wife was in the right. The husband is a scalawag, and the wife has long ceased to love him, but still the silence continues.

Audiences which do not feel this weakness too acutely are likely to derive a good deal of genuine entertainment from the play. There is mystery aplenty in the amnesia victim and his elusive identity, and Mrs. Thompson has contrived to juggle these factors sufficiently well to impart the necessary note of suspense to the proceedings. Aside from the amnesia victim, also, the audience is interested in observing the effect of the various revelations upon the other characters, and between this pair of pursuits all but the most exacting can contrive to keep themselves busy.

The best performance of the evening is given by Charles Millward in the rôle of the amnesia victim. He grades skillfully the successive steps and conditions, and makes the scene of the recovery of memory the most moving in the play. Kathlene MacDonell plays the harassed wife sufficiently well, and with commendable repression in a rôle which would call for at least five handkerchiefs in the hands of many an actress. Charles Dalton as a doctor who looks every inch a villain, is, nevertheless, a stanch friend of the hero, and other leading parts are in the hands of Francis Byrne, Byron Beasley, and Ben Johnson.

HEMPEL SINGS FAREWELL.

Frieda Hempel took her leave of the Metropolitan last evening in the quaint "Crispino e la Comare," singing a Patti rôle and one announced at the rival shop next Monday for Galli-Curci. The Monday subscribers broke their customary reserve to give Mme. Hempel a special tribute at the close of her seventh season here, and she was called back after the "Carnival of Venice" variations for an encore, adding the "Last Rose of Summer."

Mr. Scotti, Miss Braslau, Messrs. Chalmers, de Segurola, and others appeared, and Mr. Papi conducted. After the opera the ballet danced for the second time Stravinsky's "Petrushka," with Bolm, Galli, and Bonfiglio, conducted by Monteux.

Your chances to escape "Acid-Mouth" are only 1 in 20 according to dental authorities. But twice-yearly visits to your dentist and the twice-daily use of Pebeco Tooth Paste should check this condition.

PROGRESS WITH THE LEAGUE.

In outlining "the progress that had been made" with plans for the League of Nations, M. FERDINAND LARNAUDE of the French Commission communicated to the correspondents at Paris on Saturday morning four articles of the proposed organization. In respect to two of these articles we beg leave to make a considerable reservation of doubt. They can hardly have been accepted by the Conference in the form given to them by M. LARNAUDE in his statement.

No. 4 of these articles, as outlined by M. LARNAUDE, is as follows:

> There is to be an international military force, consisting of an army as well as a navy. Each nation is to maintain its part of this army within its own borders, subject to call by the executive body of the League to serve wherever needed.

This point has been subject to more dispute than any other in the plan of the League of Nations. The objections to the article will be readily understood if we apply its terms to our own case. It would be required of the United States that it maintain an army of American soldiers always subject to call for war service by the League of Nations, an exterior body. Under our Constitution we can make war only when Congress declares it. Under this article we should be required to make war when the League of Nations declared it for us; we should have to give a general pledge to engage in war at any time when the League issued the call for troops to punish a State breaking the covenant.

It has been understood that in the interchange of views at Paris this objection has been looked upon as fatal to any proposal of an agreement making the use of force compulsory upon all the members of the League. In the English plan the first resource against a quarrelsome nation is nonintercourse, refusal to trade or to have any relations with the offending country. Force is contemplated as an ultimate resort, but emphasis is put upon the constraint of the "boycott," which might even take the form of a blockade. If military force is to be used, it is obvious that participation in the measure must be voluntary, at least in the case of the United States, where the consent of Congress is requisite.

To redress an international wrong, to punish a flagrant violation of the pledge to the League, and to extinguish at the very beginning a flame of war that threatened to spread, it might be safe to assume that the assent of Congress would always be given. This naturally leads to the suggestion that armed force could be made up of volunteer troops. Congress might give permission to the League or to the injured nation to recruit in this country soldiers for the required service. To an appeal made in such a case there can be no doubt that volunteers would respond in sufficient numbers. In that way the quota of the United States would be quickly furnished, the burden and the cost of maintaining an army for service abroad would be escaped, and the constitutional obstacle would be removed.

Again, M. LARNAUDE's third article revives in an objectionable form one of the controverted points which we had supposed was laid aside almost at the beginning of the discussion. It is as follows:

> There is to be an international parliament, sitting once a year, with delegates from all the member nations, to consider world legislation.

A parliament is a body that makes laws. Laws of the British Parliament receive the sanction of the sovereign as a matter of course. Our Congress is not less supreme, for it may always override the Executive veto. We may be very sure that the Council at Paris is not going to destroy the League of Nations before it has been established by attempting to set up a super-parliament, a paramount legislative body, vested with power to make laws for all the nations. M. LARNAUDE says, to be sure, that this body "is to consider world legislation," but "parliament" is not the word. The League may establish a Conference, like that at The Hague, or like the Conference from which the Declaration of London issued, but that is a very different thing from a parliament. The codes, articles, or amendments of international law proposed by the Congress would necessarily be subject to ratification by the Powers represented. They might be accepted, rejected, amended, or modified by reservations of the individual States. A commission is not a parliament.

UNGRACIOUS WORDS.

Nothing but the tolerance of Mr. WILLIAM H. ANDERSON can save the Rev. Dr. CHARLES A. EATON from trial for Majestätsbeleidigung. Dr. EATON said that "thirty years ago we were "ruled by money-bags; today we are "ruled by windbags." Now Mr. ANDERSON, whatever differences of view separate him from many of his fellow-citizens, can certainly not be classed as a windbag; his achievements are evidence to the contrary. That he rules the country, however, or at least New York State, he himself admits. His statement issued yesterday established his sovereignty: "The "Anti-Saloon League will not, and "presumably the Commissioner of "Excise, whom the league proposes "to make responsible for law enforcement, will not undertake to disturb "such small amounts of liquor as individuals may have for private consumption."

There you have it. Not the people of New York, but the Anti-Saloon League, will make the Commissioner of Excise responsible for this and that. The Anti-Saloon League is graciously pleased not to invade the home, just yet. A prudent decision; it must not be said that the little finger of ANDERSON shall be heavier than the loins of Barleycorn. But there is a menace in a later sentence: "After these major issues are disposed of the smaller matters, if they "remain, will have due attention."

Cheer up, Mr. ANDERSON. The amount which the foresighted and provident can afford to lay in at present prices is not so great that there is much likelihood of any of it remaining long after July 1.

OLE HANSON AND THE UNDESIRABLES.

Fifty-four Bolsheviki are on their way from the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic, doomed to deportation. Among them are alien convicts, stars of the I. W. W., a whole gang of alien agitators who have been kind enough to use the United States as a recruiting ground for labor troubles without cause, for violence, murder, anarchy, all the happinesses of the Bolshevist State. As these missionaries from Russia and Finland and way stations pass through a country unworthy of them, deported under the Immigration Act passed by a Congress which has no claims on their respect, not being a collection of Soviets; as this band of foreign troublemakers leaves the country, for the country's good, it is pleasant and profitable to recall that the useful activity of the United States Immigration Service which sends this pack of propagandists back to whatever nation is unfortunate enough to receive them coincides with that great movement of Americanism which has just made itself quietly and irresistibly felt in Seattle and has endeared to every American the name of Mayor OLE HANSON.

At the urging of foreign agitators seeking to introduce here the amene and merciful methods that have made Russia so peaceful and prosperous, a general strike of 45,000 union men, in sympathy with 25,000 shipyard workers, was devised in Seattle. Every arrangement was made for the overthrow of the constituted authorities and the setting up of the volunteers of violence. That was the moment when OLE HANSON swam into the ken of millions of Americans, who rejoiced in him as the living proof that Americanism, that respect for law, is not dead. "Any man who attempts to "take over Government functions "here will be shot on sight." "The "seat of City Government is, still at "the City Hall." Mayor HANSON issued a proclamation that life and property would be protected, that business would go on as usual, that municipal street cars, light and power plants, water, and so on would be run. He organized 1,000 extra police, provided with rifles and shotguns. He "told them to shoot on sight any one "causing disorder. We got ready for "business. We had already had "trouble in two instances heretofore "and had completely whipped the "Bolsheviki. They knew we meant "business and they started no "trouble."

Many Mayors have talked. Mayor HANSON acted. The revolution failed. As OLE HANSON says: "It never got "to first base and it never will if the "men in control of affairs will tell "all traitors and anarchists that death "will be their portion if they start "anything. Law and order are supreme in our city." The great Bolshevist strike has struck out. The fifty-four Bolsheviki who are soon to be exposed to seasickness and their own reflections are but a collateral "side" issue of the great Seattle strike. The cardinal, triumphant, and American thing about it is that a man in official place, a man of known, long, and generous sympathy with all legitimate aims of labor, a man who has brought himself up by his own efforts to wealth and power, was strong enough and brave enough to stand up against the insolent alien efforts to reproduce here the horrible disorders that have ruined Russia. Unconsciously and instinctively OLE HANSON defended and represented the inbred, undying, and ineradicable American spirit of ordered freedom. All over the country, as all over the world, the insidious destructive intrigue of the agents of universal disaster is at work. There are demagogues that pander to it. There are fools that toy with it. There are cowards that yield to it. In one splendid moment OLE HANSON, a man two or three days ago quite unknown to a world that is but too familiar with officials infinitely his inferiors in self-respect, in courage, and in that essential and unyielding Americanism without which no American will go far or long in politics, has made himself known and beloved through the United States. In his case, as in that of GROVER CLEVELAND, the path of courage is the path of glory.

DEMOBILIZATION NEAR HOME.

Economically the War Department's practice of returning soldiers to civil life near ports of debarkation, when their homes are elsewhere, sometimes far distant, is wrong, and it may prove a detriment to men released from service. Many of them soon spend their pay, and with it goes their mileage, which should be used for transportation to the places from which they were drafted or where they enlisted. At a time when thousands of unskilled laborers are being dropped from Government work and are themselves seeking employment, without finding it in many cases, ports of debarkation can do little or nothing for the soldier looking for a job. In a letter addressed to Secretary BAKER Mr. WILLIAM FELLOWES MORGAN, President of the Merchants' Association, says:

> This method of discharge (at or near home ports) results in arbitrarily creating a surplus of labor in the areas in which those cities are located, so that the power to absorb labor in these communities has more than reached the saturation point.

Such is the case in this city. Thousands of soldiers without funds are walking the streets and seeking employment. They believe that they can obtain higher wages in New York than they could expect in the interior, and they are loath to go home and confess failure. Moreover, the conditions of life in a great city are attractive to them. The consequence is that thousands of soldiers without prospects are added to an already considerable army of the unemployed. Upon the ordinary youngster, reacting from the tension of military duty and the excitement of service in France, the moral effect is not good. The condition created is not well either for him or for overcrowded New York with its serious labor problem. Idleness and disillusion make a soil fertile, as Mr. MORGAN observes, "for the reception of radical and anarchistic "theories."

The Merchants' Association has sent to Congress and to the Secretary of War a resolution providing that demobilization be turned over to the Selective Draft Boards throughout the country, in order that soldiers may be paid and discharged in the home neighborhoods. This is so sensible a thing to do that the wonder is the War Department needs the advice. The Government, which took millions of men from their work and organized them into armies, owes them something more than pay and mileage when they walk down the gangplank of a transport. It should not leave them to their own devices and let them shift for themselves. A great many of the soldiers are neither worldly wise nor prudent, and their experience of life is very limited.

The Government should make arrangements to set them down in their home towns, where friends would help them to obtain employment. Every community regards its own soldiers as heroes, and the desire to restore them to their old places is particularly strong in the smaller towns.

WHERE ARE THOSE DOCUMENTS?

However much HUGO HAASE's attack on the Majority Socialist Government of Germany may be inspired by considerations of German internal politics, and however he may exaggerate in his account of HINDENBURG's army, (which can hardly be so terribly formidable by this time,) he makes a reference to one thing which the allied world will do well to remember. SCHEIDEMANN, he says, dares not expel the HOHENZOLLERNS because he is afraid they will reveal to a Socialist nation the secret relations which SCHEIDEMANN had with the Imperial Government during the war.

So far as concerns SCHEIDEMANN, this may very well be true; the leader of "his Imperial and Royal Majesty's loyal socialism" was certainly during a good part of the war the left hand of a power whose right hand was striking on the battlefield, and disclosure of his relations with the Foreign Office of the old unregenerate days would be edifying both at home and abroad. But HAASE's remark serves as a reminder that these are not the only revelations that are waiting to be made. Where are the German official documents dealing with the outbreak of the war—not the carefully expurgated White Book, but the real documents—above all, the correspondence between Berlin and Vienna in July, 1914? Without doubt, some of them have been destroyed; even if the last Imperial Governments did not take elementary precautions, it is hardly likely that Dr. SOLF let any grass grow under his feet during his tenure of the Foreign Office in the transition period. But undoubtedly some of them are left, and we have the best of evidence that no authentic publication is likely to come from the present German Socialist Government.

This matter was brought up at the very beginning of the Socialist conference at Berne last week, when ALBERT THOMAS started the trouble by proposing an inquiry to establish the responsibility of the Governments that started the war and of the Socialist leaders "who had made themselves the accomplices of these Governments." This last phrase was the fatal one; for the German Socialists had their solution all ready. It was familiar enough. Blame for the war was to be shuffled off on the imperial scapegoat now fled to the wilderness of Amerongen; not a word was to be said about the Socialists who stood by and were consenting, who voted for the war credits, and who smiled approval when the All-Highest told his people that henceforth he knew no parties, only Germans.

THOMAS's resolution provoked a huge debate with no decisive ending; the question of responsibility was put aside; the German Socialists said that KARL KAUTSKY had been charged with investigation into the responsibility for the war, but they made it very clear that he would not be allowed to tell anything inconvenient. This inquiry must depend on similar inquiries into their own governmental archives by Socialists of the allied countries, and the Germans adjudged this question in advance by announcing that the chief cause of the war was the imperialistic and capitalistic organization of all Europe. Opinions in conflict with this view were inadmissible.

There was no doubt good reason for this; a Majority Socialist majority might not have been returned to the Constituent Assembly if the German people had known all about the origin of the war and the relation of Socialist leaders to the Government. But the German leaders of today may find eventually that it would pay them to let the truth be known. Only one German, KURT EISNER, has shown any real willingness to find out how the war was begun; until the others are willing the rest of the world may have its doubts as to how far Germany can be trusted.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Premier Defends His People.

M. CLEMENCEAU has deemed it necessary, or at any rate judicious, to add to the official denial already made by the French Government his personal assurance that the Americans have not had to pay "trench rent" or rent for the ground where their dead are buried. He knows that lies, once well started, go far and are hard to overtake. The origin of those particular stories is as yet unknown, but there is warrant for the suspicion that they are a part of the effort making in various quarters to create ill-will in American minds against the Allies by any convenient method that malicious ingenuity can devise.

As for the tales about comparisons adverse to the French made by American soldiers stationed in Germany, the Premier contented himself with saying that he did not believe American judgments could be so superficial or so unjust. His confidence is highly complimentary, and one must wish, rather than hope, that it has been in all cases deserved.

His defense of his own countrymen from the current charges of extortion was in effect what the lawyers call "in confession and avoidance." Had he known all that is known here—and been less courteous than he is—M. CLEMENCEAU might have said that it was not in France that the American soldier was first the victim of more or less ruthless profiteering on the part of "the natives." He chose to explain the overcharging of our soldiers in France as the result of the "spoiling" of French tradesmen and innkeepers by the lavish expenditures of our tourists in years past. That theory serves as well as another to excuse a human peculiarity everywhere manifested in some degree.

An Untimely Display of Sorrow.

A report that seems to be lamentably well confirmed is to the effect that when New York offers its official welcome to the returning soldiers they are to march through two blocks of Fifth Avenue where every building has been heavily draped in funereal black and purple. This, it is said, will be "The Court of the Dead," or "The Court of Sacred Memories."

Of course nobody wants to forget, and nobody does forget, that not all of the men who went across the sea have come back to march in triumphal procession, but thus to intrude sorrow in a day devoted to rejoicing is—well, call it the strangest of taste, and probably about the worst. That the returning soldiers will both dislike and resent such a manifestation of grief on such an occasion is more than probable—it is certain.

Whoever has any influence with our remarkable municipal administration should exert it to the end that this lugubrious plan may be abandoned.

Two Wrongs Worse Than One.

To the War Department's original mistake in regard to service chevrons—that of making obligatory the wearing of a white stripe for each six months of home service—there has now been added, in intention, at least, the much greater mistake of taking away from the men who have served abroad the right, hitherto accorded and exercised, of wearing the blue or gold stripes indicative of that fact.

In theory, of course, and to some degree in reality, there is an element of injustice in any mark that establishes a distinction, sure to be regarded by some civilians, and to be felt by some soldiers, as invidious, between men presumably of equal loyalty and courage, and differing only in that to one group of them there came an opportunity of which another group were deprived by the fortunes of war. The members of both groups obeyed the orders received from their superiors, as every soldier must, and those who remained at home—in the great majority of cases much against their will and to their bitter disappointment—are fully warranted in claiming that they did their full duty and are deserving of honor and respect. That opportunity to go overseas did not come to them was their misfortune, not their fault, but naturally they did not care to have that misfortune advertised.

Their protests seemingly went unheeded by the departmental officials, but it was only seeming, evidently, for now those same officials propose to remove all visible distinctions of service. That is going to the opposite extreme, and it remedies one evil by creating another much more serious.

Decorations Have Real Value.

It is easy enough to smile at army men for putting the high value they do on bits of colored cloth on a sleeve or bits of metal pinned on a coat. So to value them, however, is a human tendency so nearly universal that it is entirely normal, and it is a "weakness" of which those whom it amuses would certainly be guilty if they had a chance. But it is not a weakness; it is a variant of the idealizing and symbolizing faculty that plays a part so fine and high in life, and it needs defending no more than does reverence for a national flag. As to the injustice of distinguishing the man favored by luck from him who was not favored, that, too, is and always has been such common practice that there must be an essential rightness in it.

There is nothing derogatory to him whose chance for heroism or a particular form of service has not come, when he to whom that chance has come and has been well utilized gets a badge of honor for all to see. He may be no better than his undecorated brother, but he has done something which the latter has not yet done, and that does count.

The soldiers on foreign service were by no means all on the firing line, and the blue or gold stripe in itself does not say that they were. It merely tells an indubitable truth and it creates a grievance no more than does the fact that not every soldier who took part in the actual fighting won a medal or a cross. That, also, was a matter of opportunity—of opportunity that did not come to all.

REDUCING ARMAMENTS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Among the many topics to be considered by the Peace Conference that of the reduction of armaments is surely one of the most important. While it is ardently desired, one has also the utmost sympathy with those nations of Europe which feel they must protect themselves against possible future treachery of near-by States.

The reduction of armaments would require, as I understand, an agreement by which the different nations would pledge themselves to reduce (more especially) their armies and their navies. It is customary to hear this spoken of as requiring with each nation separate agreements, one for the army and one for the navy. But why treat these as two separate questions? Why not one combined army-navy-armament-reduction agreement for all nations?

This would mean that each nation (the quota of reduction having been agreed upon and assigned) would be free to make her army and navy reduction in such proportions as she herself might decide. A previously agreed upon general schedule would, of course, be necessary, in which would be stated the relative values, as fighting forces, of, let us say, warships and army corps—so many fighting ships being considered equal to so many fighting men, &c. The practical outcome of some such plan might be (would it not?) that a nation like England might prefer to make her reduction-of-armament quota in the form of a larger navy and a smaller army; while France, on the contrary, might prefer a larger army and a smaller navy; other nations, ourselves included, as they might deem best for their own protection. Would not this be just to all? L. L. S.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I be permitted, by drawing attention to the somewhat more familiar case of "depositary" and "depository" to illustrate and support the discrimination between "mandatary" and "mandatory" made by Professor Munroe Smith in your issue of this morning? The distinction rests in the main on the difference in value of mediaeval Latin adjectives (whether or not becoming also substantives) ending in arius or orius. The dictionary I have nearest at hand says correctly (one is always glad when the dictionary happens to be right): "In the best usage, 'depositary' denotes a person with whom, and 'depository' a place in which, anything is deposited for safe keeping." The analogy between the two pairs of words, "mandatary-mandatory" and "depositary-depository," is not complete, but such analogies seldom are complete. The point of interest is that deviation in such word-pairs is not freakish, but rests generally on good grounds. Thus, "stationery" is applied to goods sold by a stationer, (one who keeps a stand,) while "stationary" derives from mediaeval Latin "stationarius."

A SWITCH IN TIME.

There's still too much too-muchness,
Assertive such-as-suchness,
Complacent over-Dutchness
In German thought and act:
Both root and branch need thinning,
Bismarckian disciplining—
They will have won in fact!

They must be taught the blunder
Of legalizing plunder,
And should be taught it under
The victims whom they robbed.
What is there harsh or spiteful
In yielding to the rightful
The taming of the frightful
Who struck them when they sobbed?

Why should we give a button
It's only fair a glutton
Should tighten up his belt.
Have done with mush and twaddle:
No conscience-stricken model
This shark of Lys and Scheldt!

OPPOSES COMPLETE BAN ON PROPAGANDA

Council on Foreign Relations Says Some Economic Advertising Should Be Permitted.

PROPOSES OVERSIGHT HERE

Letter to Senate Committee Suggests That Foreign News Bureaus Submit Books for Audit.

Declaring that certain members of Congress were awaiting the end of the Senate inquiry into propaganda before introducing a bill which would make it illegal for foreign Governments to circulate legitimate propaganda or "economic advertising" in this country, Lindsay Russell, Chairman of the Council on Foreign Relations, yesterday gave out copies of a protest sent to Senator Lee S. Overman, Chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee. Mr. Russell also pointed out the dangers which he thought would result from prohibiting "good propaganda." This is the letter to Senator Overman:

The Council on Foreign Relations is in full accord with legislative action aimed to make impossible the sowing of secret and insidious propaganda in the United States. Nothing too stringent can be done to avert any repetition of the underground propaganda of Germany. On the other hand any action by Congress which makes illegal the maintenance in America of foreign bureaus of information such as the bureaus conducted by Great Britain and other allied nations during the war, would be a step in the wrong direction.

It is the opinion of the Council on Foreign Relations, however, that any prohibition against the establishment in this country of recognized foreign bureaus of information tends to encourage and aid, rather than to suppress the evil propaganda against which Congressional action is now aimed. If foreign Governments and foreign peoples maintain responsible bureaus of information whose reputations must be built upon the truth of their output, and whose expenditures may be subjected to the visé and approval of the State Department or other competent authority, not only will the cause of international friendship be served by better understanding in America of foreign nations, foreign peoples and their aims, but the existence of an outlet of honest and open expression of foreign nations will tend to make unnecessary and unwise the use of secret and surreptitious propaganda.

The Council on Foreign Relations, speaking after investigation and with knowledge, approves the work of several of the foreign bureaus of information established in the United States during the war. To forbid their continuance under the belief that prohibition of truth and honest expression is necessary to suppress lies and propaganda, would be an offense to good sense and to the courtesies we owe to other nations and their peoples and to the principle that it is desirable to have for the use of our own people good sources of foreign information and good services in international understanding.

RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD,
MARK O. PRENTISS.

"It is desirable that Congress regulate, rather than attempt to eliminate, propaganda of foreign Governments in the United States," said Mr. Russell, "because propaganda in its best sense is nothing more than national advertising. To have other nations with whom we are on friendly terms, and with whom we are doing business, advertise themselves in the United States, is helpful from an economic as well as an educational standpoint.

"Its economic value is that it encourages travel; it encourages commerce; it makes a market for securities of foreign countries which, in turn, constitutes the basis of foreign trade. In an educational sense it may be said that the tendency of international intercourse is between peoples rather than between Governments. Individuals intermingle and communicate internationally more freely than ever before, but more significant is the organized intercourse among peoples through the church, trade organizations, labor organizations, educational organizations, commercial bodies, social organizations, and mediums such as the Pan-American Bureau, the Japan Society, the Italy-America Society, and the Pilgrims' Society.

"This tendency toward increased intercourse results in increased knowledge, and knowledge is the basis of better understanding. It is important that any instrumentality which increases our knowledge of foreign countries should be welcomed by our Government for the benefit of better international relations. Who is better able to interpret France and England than those countries themselves? Why not regulate that interpretation? Any country desiring to carry on a legitimate campaign of education in the United States should have the permission of the Department of State, which, in turn, should know about the money to be expended and who is to administer the funds."

RESUME CATHEDRAL WORK.

Nave of St. John the Divine to be a Memorial to New York Soldiers.

After a halt of four years in the building of the nave of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, plans have been accepted by the Trustees and the work will be resumed in a short time. Ralph Adams Cram, consulting architect since 1911, presented his drawings yesterday to the Ways and Means Committee of the Diocesan Auxiliary of the Cathedral at the home of Mrs. Orme Wilson, 3 East Sixty-fourth Street, and also showed views of high Gothic spires which he plans to erect on the west front of the cathedral, but which have not as yet been accepted by the Trustees.

"The nave is to be a memorial to the soldiers of New York who have given their lives on the battlefields of France and also to those who have served their country in the conflict," Mr. Cram said. "Not only will it be a memorial, but also a peace offering.

"The central span of the nave will be fifty feet in width and the columns will be the tallest ever provided for any building in the world. The four immense bays at the sides of the nave will be memorials of four great battles of the war. These were Verdun, which represents heroic fortitude; Soissons, self-sacrifice; Rheims, martyrdom, and Noyon, courage. The chapels will have immense windows of glass stained with figures of saints representing the virtues for which they are designated.

"After the memorial nave is built, we can then resume work on the west front with its Gothic towers and finally erect the other smaller buildings."

Pre-war estimates on the construction of the nave as planned by Mr. Cram amounted to $3,000,000, but the price now will be considerably higher. The exact date upon which the work will start will probably be decided at the meeting of the Trustees of the cathedral on Feb. 25.

VISCOUNT GREY NOW BLIND.

Former Foreign Secretary Loses Entire Use of Eyes.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The eye trouble with which Viscount Grey, former Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has been afflicted for years has now culminated in total blindness, says The Daily Mail today.

Abel Pann's Paintings and Drawings in Pratt Institute Gallery.

In the Pratt Institute Art Gallery, Brooklyn, until Feb. 15, is a collection of paintings and drawings by Abel Pann, a Russian, who struggled for his art education against great odds, worked in Paris under Bouguereau and Toudouz, and later in Palestine making drawings for a pictorial edition of the Bible. He was in Palestine at the outbreak of the war, and his studies illustrating the terrible condition of the Jews during the war are included in the exhibition and form its strongest feature.

Although the Bible pictures are interesting from the originality of their point of view, Mr. Pann is at his best in showing reality, and reality at its worst. There is no sentimental sauce to his account of the devastated countries of Poland and Lithuania, and the dreadful sufferings of the Jewish refugees, the fear and horror of the maidens and the profound despair and misery of the old people.

He refrains from urging his palette to extremes in the effort to communicate emotion, depending upon the slender resources of black and white, heightened by an occasional touch of colored chalk, in his most moving subjects. These dusky little drawings convey his message. In depicting the Eastern landscape he is more dramatic in his color schemes, and this no doubt is due to the intensity of the atmospheric effects. He says in a published description of the place: "In Palestine nature is magnified. The blue of the heavens is too blue, the rays of the moon are too silvery. There the shadows are deep and gloomy and the light is blinding in its brilliancy. When it rains the drops are large. The thunders are more deafening, the lightnings more blinding, everything is exaggerated." This exaggeration of the natural aspects of a scene is puzzling to an artist, and Mr. Pann has not always escaped the tendency to empty these intensities of their significance; but his work is often finely imaginative as well as true to outer facts.

For Better Industrial Design.

The National Dry Goods Association will be entertained by the Art Alliance of America in its galleries at 10 East Forty-seventh Street on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 13, from 8 to 10 o'clock. The object of the reception is to show the dry goods firms how much they can be benefited by coming in contact with the artistic products of the country.

The Art Alliance for the last three years has been carrying on a propaganda for better merchandise designed in America and made in America by Americans. It has held contests for textiles, for containers, advertising, toys, &c. The result is that its membership includes a great many clever people, who design and make beautiful objects—not wholesalers—just clever people who have small studios and workshops all over the country.

The special exhibit just opened includes original designs for textiles, and the materials actually made therefrom; scarfs, portieres, and gowns decorated by the processes of batik, tied-and-dyed and block printing; a completely furnished living room; original sketches for advertising and the prints therefrom; and, in addition, there is a gift shop with many attractive handmade objects. The exhibition offers an opportunity for members of the Dry Goods Association to see the important part that art plays in most types of merchandise.

BIGGEST BLOCKADE CASE.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—What the British Attorney General describes as "the most expensive, sustained and carefully organized effort to supply the Central Empires with foodstuffs yet exposed" came up in the Prize Court today. The foodstuffs are valued at $1,415,000 and were contained in shipments covering a period of eighteen months.

Fourteen ships were engaged in the attempt. Two of these vessels were of American register, four Norwegian, four Swedish, and four Danish.

The Crown Attorney suggested that although the names of different persons appeared as shippers, all the consignments were in fact made by K. & E. Neumond of New York and Frankfort, acting for the German Government.

He charged that the cargoes shipped on the steamers Amerigo and Henrik were intended for capture by the Germans, while the cargoes on the other boats were to be forwarded to Germany through Denmark.

The Crown Attorney stated that earlier in the war and prior to the present case the Neumonds had been held in the Prize Court to have acted as agents of the German Government. He charged that in the present case the Neumonds had put other names than their own as shippers on the bills of lading. This, the attorney declared, amounted to the fabrication of false papers. He asserted that an elaborate code was used in connection with the transaction.

Karl Neumond, one of the members of the firm of K. & E. Neumond of Frankfort, came to this country just before or soon after the beginning of the war, in 1914, and opened at 25 Broad Street a New York branch of the German house. The firm and its American representative first came to public attention in July, 1916, after the publication of the names of American firms with German connections blacklisted by the British. Neumond denounced the action of the British Government, but took little part in the violent efforts made at the time to get President Wilson to intercede in behalf of the American firms.

Soon after this country entered the war Neumond was interned on Ellis Island as a dangerous enemy alien. At that time the Federal authorities announced that he had participated in shipping millions of dollars' worth of American foodstuffs to Germany via neutral countries. It was also understood at the time that Neumond was instrumental in loading ships with foodstuffs which were eventually "captured" by German raiders, though details of this part of his enterprise were never made public.

Neumond was sent to Fort Oglethorpe in July, 1917, and his offices were closed. He appealed to friends in all parts of the country to obtain his release, but, so far as is known, his efforts have not thus far been successful.

PROCLAIM THE VALOR OF SECOND DIVISION

HELD IMPORTANT POSTS

Marines who are now with the American Army of Occupation have sent to this country copies of the general order issued to the 2d Division on Nov. 11 by Major Gen. John E. Le Jeune of the Marine Corps. In recounting the history of the division at the front he said:

"At the end of May the enemy broke through the allied lines on a wide front west of Rheims and reached the Marne near Château-Thierry. The safety of Paris and of the allied army itself was at stake. It stopped his advance, it drove him back, and it demonstrated for all time that the American is second to none in valor, in endurance, and in unyielding determination to conquer.

"Again, on July 18, during the last great enemy offensive, the 2d Division, after a night march of unparalleled difficulty, struck near Soissons the flank of the enemy's salient, penetrated his lines, and brought his offensive to a standstill. This was the beginning of the allied offensive, which has increased unceasingly and untiringly until today.

"On Sept. 12-15 the American Army fought its first battle in France under American leadership. To the 2d Division was assigned the most difficult and the most important task, the capture of Thiaucourt and the Pauluy-Xammes ridge. It reached its second day's objective on the first day, drove off the enemy's counterattacks, and clinched the victory.

"In the Champagne district, Oct. 2 to 10, the division fought beside the Fourth French Army. On Oct. 3 it seized Blanc Mont Ridge, the keystone of the arch of the main German position, advanced beyond the ridge and, both flanks unsupported, it held all its gains with the utmost tenacity, inflicting tremendous losses on the enemy. This victory freed Rheims and forced the entire German Army between this city and the Argonne Forest to retreat to the Aisne, a distance of about thirty kilometers.

"During the latter part of October the division was ordered to join the First American Army for the great attack of Nov. 1. It led the advance. It drove through the enemy's fortified lines to a depth of over nine kilometers, seized the heights of Bayonville and destroyed the enemy division on the front. On Nov. 3 it advanced to Fosse, and attacked and captured Vaux. At night it pressed forward through the forest of Belval by a single road and occupied the ridge near Beaumont. On the night of the 4th it again attacked and advanced its lines to the Meuse. Finally on the night of the 10th it forced its way across the Meuse and seized a commanding position on the eastern bank.

"This superb division of fighting men is unsurpassed in valor and skill, in endurance, in determination to conquer, and in service to the Allies. In this great struggle many of our comrades have made the supreme sacrifice for our country, but their heroic spirit dwells in the hearts of the officers and men of the 2d Division."

The units in the division were the 9th and 23d Infantry Regiments, the 5th and 6th Marines, the 12th, 15th, and 17th Field Artillery Regiments, the 2d Trench Mortar Battery, 2d Regiment of Engineers, 1st Field Signal Battalion, 2d Division Headquarters Troops, the 4th and 5th Machine Gun Battalions, and the 6th Machine Gun Battalion of the Marine Corps.

WAY CLEAR FOR TAX BILL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The War Revenue bill, which was held up temporarily today by the debate on woman suffrage in the Senate, will be brought up in that body tomorrow by Senator Simmons of the Finance Committee.

A vote probably will be taken either late tomorrow afternoon or Wednesday, the time of final action being dependent upon the number of Senators who ask to be heard. It is generally conceded that the bill, which was approved by the House on Saturday by a vote of 310 to 11, will be adopted in the Senate by a large majority.

Senator Lodge presented petitions today signed by 10,000 persons protesting against Section 904 of the excise title, and other Senators announced that protests were coming to them in every mail. This is the section dealing with taxes on articles of clothing and other semi-luxuries which will be made the subject of a joint resolution calling for its repeal after the bill has been adopted by the Senate. There has been an agreement between Senate and House leaders which practically assures the approval of such a joint resolution.

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, a member of the conference committee which reported the bill, and who will probably become Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee when the Republicans come into power after March 4, prepared a statement today in which he reviewed some of the more important provisions of the measure, gave expression to criticism and predicted important changes which he believes must be made by the next Congress. For one thing, he said that he felt the Republican Congress must readjust the taxation on insurance.

"It is sufficient to say that the bill is very far from perfect and the taxes are too high, particularly on individual incomes" said Mr. Penrose. "The taxes, however, come down considerably next year. One thing must be kept in mind, that no taxation system can be devised in the United States or any other country which can keep pace with the reckless expenditures which have become the fashion during the war.

"From now on rigid economy, retrenchment, and regulation of expenditures must prevail or no system of taxation will be adequate and the country will drift into bankruptcy.

"Important changes were made by the conferees in the provisions affecting the computation of net income. The Senate bill authorized the taxpayer to deduct a loss sustained in one year from the net income of the preceding or succeeding year, this provision applying to losses sustained in any taxable year beginning after Dec. 31, 1916. This beneficial provision, designed to allow business concerns to do what they have been allowed to do in Great Britain for many decades, i. e., average their income for three years, thus offsetting losses against gains—was restricted by the conferees to recognition of net losses sustained.

"Some of the best features of the Senate bill had to be sacrificed in the inevitable compromises which accompany a mixed settlement of this kind. The Senate changed the estate tax to an inheritance tax, thus making the tax dependent upon the size of the legacy or inheritance and not upon the size of the entire estate. This real reform has been lost, and the bill returns to the existing estate tax with some reduction in the rates.

"There is a little comfort in the thought that the worse the form of the Federal tax the sooner in all probability will this source of revenue be given back to the estates to which it properly belongs.

"Worst of all, in many respects, was the retention of the House provision relating to the taxation of insurance companies. They are uncertain, unscientific, and more productive of litigation than of revenue.

"The Senate offered a plan of insurance taxation that was equitable, definite, and simple. Moreover, the Senate plan would have produced far more revenue than the provisions of existing law, which are in substance repeated in the House bill. However, the future will give a Republican Congress the chance to place the taxation of insurance companies upon a sound and scientific basis."

NEW MOTOR TRUCKS ON EXHIBITION HERE

BIG CROWDS SEE MODELS

War Experience Reflected in Popularity of Heavy Machines and Worm Drive.

New York's Motor Truck Show was opened in a thoroughly successful manner last night in Madison Square Garden and the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory. It is the first time that a commercial car exhibit has ever been held here, and it started the second week of the big Automobile Show. While there was no question as to the sustained public interest in passenger cars, there was, on the part of the Show Committee, considerable curiosity to see just how a purely business motor vehicle exhibit would take with the New York public. That question was answered by an attendance very much larger than would have been accepted as satisfactory, and, what was of more importance, a great majority of the visitors showed that they were keenly alive to the necessity of highway transportation.

Several belated exhibitors made it imperative to open the exhibition hall in the Garden. More than sixty different makes of trucks are displayed in both buildings, about half a dozen makes of farm tractors, and several trailers. Each make of truck shows several models, bringing the total number of vehicles in both buildings to more than 200, ranging all the way from the lightest half-ton delivery wagon to powerful seven-ton trucks for heavy hauling. Dealers and truck makers agreed that it was the most comprehensive exhibit ever made of the development of the American motor car industry into the commercial field. The show is an object lesson of the present success and future possibilities of highway transportation, whether looked at from the efficient city delivery system, from the rural motor express, or the carrying of freight for quick delivery over the roads for long distances.

The Maxwell display of one-ton light delivery wagons accentuates this phase of long-distance motor hauling in the exhibit of the original truck which made the transcontinental record for a fully equipped commercial car of seventeen and one-half days from San Francisco to New York last Summer. The wheels and lower part of the body are still liberally besmeared with the original Western dust and dirt.

Dodges Show Half-ton Truck.

The Dodge Brothers half-ton commercial car is another popular type of the lighter class. Three different bodies are shown, one being specially designed for use by large department stores. The Oldsmobile one-ton car is a newcomer, having been brought out this season. It is shown with a neat express body. The Reo one-ton models are shown with several body types, including an ambulance, a Fire Department wagon equipped with hook and ladder appliances, an express delivery, and two omnibuses, one with a closed body having wide windows on the sides.

Among the heavier trucks, the Packard shows a new six-ton horizontal-hoist body, designed especially for the use of contractors in the New York territory. The chassis has a wheel base of thirteen feet. The steel convertible body has a capacity of four cubic yards. Steel towing hooks in front and a trailer drawbar are added conveniences. The cab is inclosed, and the driver's seat will accommodate three men. An electric starter may be installed as special equipment. Other Packard models are a well-finished five-ton chassis of the five to five and one-half ton truck, a three-ton truck with a stake-side body, and one of the two to two and one-half ton models.

The two models of the United States trucks, two and a half and five tons respectively, have their radiators painted in the patriotic red, white, and blue colors to add distinction to the name. The Giant trucks, whose name suggests power and efficiency, are shown in several models, from two to three and a half tons, including a fine chassis of the latter size. The valuable feature of the Giants is that by a patented device they are enabled to operate with the greatest efficiency on low-grade fuels, including not only the low-grade gasoline, but with kerosene, and many of them in successful use are operated entirely by kerosene.

Another newcomer in the New York exhibition field is the Day-Elder truck, which is made in large sizes. A chassis of the six-ton model is shown and also one of the same type equipped with a capacious contractor's dump body, which may be raised and lowered by a hoist. The Day-Elders are also made in one, two, and three ton models. Among the tractors, of which more were made last year for farm use than in any previous season, are the new Fordson, in the Armory, which was the centre of a curious crowd during the evening; the Maxim, and the E-B farm tractor equipped with three large plow blades.

Four cylinders are the universal truck motor power. There is a tendency to make the engines somewhat larger than formerly in relation to the load capacity. More models than formerly carry their gear boxes amidships and the gearsets of the four speed types are gaining in number on the larger vehicles. Less than 9 per cent. of the new models are driven by side chains, the worm drive being well in advance, thus reversing their respective positions in popular use five years ago. There is also a considerable increase in the number of chassis models equipped with internal gear, while the bevel and the double-reduction types are fewer in number.

In load capacity, next to the small light delivery wagons, the three and one-half-ton truck appears the most popular. The demand of the United States and the Allied Governments influenced the large increase in the three-and-one-half-ton trucks. There are seven times as many manufacturers of this type as was the case in the year before the war. The popularity of the one-and-one-half-ton type is also seen in the fact that that size is now being produced in twenty-four models, which were not on the market last year.

In connection with the truck show the members of the Automotive Electric Association, composed of manufacturers of electric equipment for automobiles, held the first session of its semi-annual Winter meeting yesterday at the Hotel Astor, and the annual dinner will be held tonight at the Astor. The metropolitan section of the Society of Automotive Engineers held a dinner last night at the Automobile Club of America. C. T. Morris, who was associated in the design of the army transport Class B truck, and Captain Lord of the Motor Transport Corps were among the speakers.

On the eve of his seventy-second birthday, Thomas A. Edison was the guest at a luncheon given in the Robert Treat Hotel in Newark yesterday by the men with whom he was associated in inventing and experimenting thirty-five years ago. After renewing old acquaintances he left with Mrs. Edison and their son, Theodore, for a six weeks' vacation on his plantation at Fort Myer, Fla., his first vacation since America entered the war.

The Edison Pioneers, embracing men who are now prominent in science and manufacturing, arranged the reception to Mr. Edison as a reunion and birthday testimonial. Some of those present had not seen him in thirty years. As the members filed up to shake hands with their old associate, one remarked that the inventor "was growing old."

T. Commerford Martin, Executive Secretary of the National Electric Light Association, showed the inventor a souvenir he had kept since 1870. It was a frame containing a photograph of Edison and his first phonograph. Mr. Martin also exhibited the data on an experiment begun in 1870 and never completed. One of the exhibits was a sheet of paper with the inscription "Thomas A. Edison, Aug. 30, 1870," written on it in raised characters. An explanation above the name said: "Written with an ink that raised the paper and intended for use of the blind." Mr. Edison said he did not finish the experiment because he was "too busy with other things."

Each of the fifty guests handed Mr. Edison an envelope. Knowing Mr. Edison's aversion to public speaking because he cannot hear perfectly, the committee wrote the members to bring written messages to give to the inventor. A letter of congratulation was received by Mr. Edison from the New York Electrical Society, which expressed the wish that "he may live to be as old as his great-grandfather." Mr. Edison said that his great-grandfather lived to be 104.

"Edison has laid the foundations for many great industries. In some cases he has put in the cornerstone, and in several instances he has put the key to the arch. It has been estimated that there are a thousand million dollars invested in the industries which he has either created or for which he has laid part of the foundation; and a million employes are in these industries.

"Mr. Edison's friends are, of course, very much interested in what he has done, but we can state that he has been actively employed in a great many different directions and as we all know these employments must have meant a multiplicity of wonderful ideas and enormous amount of work and great results. One of the greatest achievements of the war by the United States Navy was the transporting to Europe, without loss, of a great army of men. That this was done practically without loss required many intense activities, many improvements, and great inventive skill."

Arkel	Marcel Millet
Genevieve	Valentine Tessier
Pelleas	Jean Sarment
Goland	Robert Bogaert
Melisande	Suzanne Bing
Yniold	Pascal
Un Medicin	Henri Dhurtal
Le Portier	Romain Bouquet
Les Servantes	Luciene Bogaert. Renee Bouquet. Jeannine Bresages. Jane Lory.

The French company of Director Jacques Copeau, minus, among other sadly missed elements, the brilliant and versatile acting of Charles Dullin, whose departure from the company has been announced, gave a performance of Maeterlinck's "Pelléas et Mélisande" at the Théâtre du Vieux Colombier last night. To those familiar with the poetic beauty and pathos of Maeterlinck's sombre yet delicate tragedy, the performance last night was distinctly disappointing.

The stage-setting, in the first place, was conspicuous by its absence; persons lost themselves in dark and tangled forests about which they declaimed their lines—but there was not a tree, except an occasional curtain fold, in sight; they stared through non-existent mists, and staggered blindly through the stifling atmosphere of black subterranean dungeon passages non-existent to the eye and consisting of precisely the same corner of the stage-setting as had served a few moments earlier as a bright sunlit pool in the castle park. The little French theatre has done infinitely better heretofore in the matter of mise-en-scène. It has never done worse.

Suzanne Bing, as Mélisande, did not help restore the lost illusion. The wondrous long golden tresses with which Maeterlinck's beautiful "little mother" is adorned, and to which Pelléas so ardently pours out his addresses of love, were last night a most glaring assortment of brilliant white yarn, of which, yellow in the moonlight, luxurious hanks fell tangled and tumbling down over the castle window-sill and over the enamored lover beneath, amid general and very disconcerting laughter in the audience. Mlle. Bing's expression, too, was rather unpleasantly querulous when she spoke, and her portrayal too dead when she was silent. One regretted that the pretty Renée Bouquet and the skillful Lucienne Bogaert were relegated to the rôles of scrubwomen in the play. Jean Sarment's rendition of the part of Pelléas was likewise too monotonous. Robert Bogaert gave a strong and effective portrayal of the part of Golaud, and Marcel Millet a passable performance of Arkel, the ancient King of Allemonde, whose gentle wisdom, however, was made to suffer by a certain Polonius-like long-windedness. By odds the most winning acting of the evening was furnished by the little child that appeared under the name of Pascal, as Yniold, the son of Golaud and stepson of Mélisande, and whose excellent performance of the part was generously applauded.

HOSPITAL REJECTS PLAN FOR A MERGER

WANT ENTITY PRESERVED

After a protracted meeting of members of the Association of the Lenox Hill Hospital, Seventy-seventh Street and Park Avenue, held last evening in the Krackowizer Hall of the dispensary, the proposal to merge the institution with Columbia University was beaten by a heavy majority. That which brought about the defeat of the proposal was the appeal to keep intact that which was known in New York for many years as the German Hospital.

The question of the merger had been under discussion for some time. It had been proposed by Columbia and the Board of Trustees of the hospital heartily approved of it. The hospital's Association of Physicians and Surgeons, of which Dr. George W. Jacoby is the President, disapproved of the merger by a considerable majority. The chief objection to the plan of merger was that it gave to Columbia eleven trustees and to the hospital only ten.

The meeting last night was presided over by Fritz Achelis, President of the Board of Trustees. From the very minute of calling the meeting to order, it was evident that there were many opponents of the proposal present. After the Secretary had announced the nominations for the Board of Trustees to fill the places of those whose terms expired yesterday, Mr. Achelis offered the suggestion that the question of merger be referred to a committee of nine, three from the membership of the association, three from the Board of Trustees and three from the staff of the hospital's physicians and surgeons.

Charles Miehling, a member of the association, moved as an amendment—the Chairman's suggestion came to be regarded as a motion—that the proposal be disapproved and the trustees be instructed to break off all pending negotiations. The question being fairly before the house, the debate started. Bernard Ridder, one of the trustees, spoke for the appointment of the committee and deferring action.

"There are some here," said Mr. Ridder, "who are showing splendid, but unusual enthusiasm, for the institution we all love. If this proposal has done nothing else, it has aroused the members of the association to take the trouble to have at least one meeting in many years fairly well attended. If the enthusiasm of the opponents of the plan is a real enthusiasm, it will be still vigorous a month from now. If it won't last a month, then it is not worth much to the hospital."

Dr. A. Jacobi spoke in favor of the amendment, and so did Dr. Meyer of the hospital staff. Dr. George W. Jacoby said that somebody had given out misinformation. At the meeting of the Trustees and physicians held on Jan. 22, he said, those present understood that the merger had been completed. It was apparent now that such was not the case, and he was glad to know it. Dr. F. Krug said that what was needed most in the Lenox Hill Hospital was not a merger, but new blood.

"Why," said Dr. Krug, "there hasn't been an independently elected Board of Trustees of this institution in fifteen years. Let's have one, at least, that represents something besides themselves. They tell us that we will have some fine things when Columbia gobbles us up, as she has tried to gobble up other hospitals and failed. They say we are in debt and can't meet our running expenses. But Columbia needs $600,000, and yet she promises us new buildings and pretty much new everything else. Drop this plan and the doctors who have stood by the hospital for years will see to it that the needed money is raised."

The treasurer called attention to the fact that there had been annual deficits for several years, the deficit for 1918 being $46,740, and he added that it was because of the financial condition of the institution that the trustees favored the merger. The amendment was put and carried.

MILITARY SENTENCES WILL BE REDUCED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Revision of sentences imposed by general courts-martial for offenses committed during the war is to be made by a board of officers constituted in the office of the Judge Advocate General of the Army. Secretary Baker announced today that the result would be "a substantial reduction of the sentences in nearly all cases save those of the gravest character, or where aggravated circumstances exist."

The exact number of military prisoners held since the beginning of hostilities affected was not made known, but Mr. Baker recently informed the Senate that 22,000 trials by general courts-martial had been held since the beginning of hostilities. Approximately 350,000 other cases were heard, but as the charges were not of a serious nature the trials were by special or summary courts.

HYLAN AT PALM BEACH.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 10.—Mayor John F. Hylan of New York arrived at noon to begin his usual Winter vacation, which he said would last from two to three weeks. He is accompanied by his wife and daughter. He accepted an invitation awaiting him here from E. G. Sewell, President of the Miami Chamber of Commerce, to judge boat races in the annual regatta there Saturday. The other judges will be Henry Watterson, ex-Governor Capper of Kansas, ex-Governor Durban of Indiana, Carl G. Fisher of Minneapolis, John H. Hanan, and Samuel Untermyer of New York.

Talking about public matters, the Mayor said the biggest question for the people is the control of the trusts that deal in necessities, milk, ice, coal, beef, and transportation. Of the milk controversy in New York he said: "If it hadn't been settled the way it was there would probably have been some indictments." He added that the whole country was now in the grasp of the meat trust.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The strength which the industrial stock list as a whole showed yesterday was not promoted by news developments, and thus was emphasized again the highly professional character of the market. The upturn of some of the steel stocks, particularly United States Steel common, the shipping issues, the copper stocks, and equipment shares, was considered in the main the result of short covering after traders found the undertone of prices of a character which forestalled a continuation of last week's decline. The comparative ease with which prices have moved forward after periods of pressure for some days past has strengthened the belief in trading quarters that a substantial short interest exists. Whenever short sales have brought into light a firm substructure, it has required comparatively little buying to cause recoveries of a point or more among the favorite speculative stocks in the course of the day. The Liberty bond market again lost ground, the Fourth 4¼s reaching a new low level at 93.90. Before the close a fair recovery occurred, but the quality of dealings all the way along was of a sort to discourage dealers in Government issues, who had expected a month ago to find some improvement before the middle of February. Bonds of the Fourth issue stood on a 4⅞ per cent. income basis, a fact which brought forth predictions that the next loan might have to be issued at 5 per cent. unless special provisions were made for increasing the investment attraction outside of the interest rate.

The Steel Corporation's monthly report on bookings showed a decrease of close to 695,000 tons in January. In the two months ended Jan. 31 advance orders have declined more than 1,400,000 tons, which reflects with considerable force the shrinkage of new business since the armistice was signed and war work began to taper off sharply. The fact that unfilled orders at the end of last month were the smallest reported for more than three years was worth considering against the background of the corporation's largely increased facilities in this period. The corporation's mills are still fairly busy, considerably more so in fact than many competing plants, but it is understood that much of the output is going to replace depleted stocks in warehouses which have no province in reflecting the actual state of current buying. How long this production will continue is problematical, but it hardly seems reasonable to expect the corporation to lay by stocks on a large scale at current high costs and with the price outlook uncertain. It is to be noted, however, that quotations in major lines have not been readjusted downward since the December reduction was announced.

The latest statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany, issued as of Jan. 31, shows that circulation is still increasing. During the week of that date the expansion was more than $63,500,000, while the total of notes outstanding was expanded by less than $340,000,000 during January. Gold holdings declined about $420,000 in the week. Russian bonds on the local market fell back rather suddenly yesterday when speculators decided that the early expectations of conferences with Bolshevist leaders in connection with the peace terms had been perhaps too enthusiastic. The call money market by moving up to a 6 per cent. basis in the afternoon probably reflected preparations for the offering of $600,000,000 of new Treasury certificates.

To Close Bond Transfer Books.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday that the transfer books of the Third Liberty Loan will close at the end of business Saturday, Feb. 15, and will reopen at the opening of business on Monday, March 17. During this period no transfers of registered bonds or exchanges of registered and coupon bonds of this sort will be permitted.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Mexico for Discussion Tonight.

Conditions in Mexico are the subject of animated discussion and debate whenever men get together who have knowledge of things south of the border. There promises to be much said on Mexico at a dinner tonight at the Hotel Astor of the Council on Foreign Relations, as some of the members are vitally interested in business in that country.

Liberty 4¼s Near 5 Per Cent. Basis.

The fourth 4¼ per cent. Liberty Loan bonds around 93.90 yield almost 5 per cent. The entire group receded yesterday and their future movements will draw closer attention in banking circles than heretofore because of the relationship between the existing market and the forthcoming Victory Liberty bonds.

* * *

Tobacco Stocks Up.

Tobacco Products' advance of something more than 3 points was accompanied by rumors that the annual report for 1918, which is expected to be made public shortly, will show approximately $17 a share earned on the common stock before deducting the war taxes. In the previous year the earnings before taxes amounted to $9.32, and as taxes in 1917 were not especially heavy, and as they are not expected to be as heavy this year as the taxes of some other corporations will be, the Street found little difficulty in making a "bull argument" out of the rumors of $17 for 1918. American Tobacco, which has been attracting some attention of late, was also strong yesterday.

* * *

Stock Exchange Commissions.

The Governing Committee of the New York Stock Exchange is expected to take some action on the very troublesome question of commissions at the meeting this week, which will be held on Thursday owing to the holiday on Wednesday. A member of the committee yesterday expressed the opinion that nothing definite would be done at this meeting. The proposed advance in rates, he thought, was warranted in view of the increased cost of operation, but he felt that against this would be the question of business policy. To retain present schedules, he believes, will be best for the Exchange in the long run.

Marine Preferred.

International Mercantile Marine preferred, after going off about 1⅛ points early in the day, shifted about and by 3 o'clock had not only recovered all of its loss, but had scored a net gain of nearly 2½ points on the day. Accompanying this performance there was vague talk of how something very good would eventuate to the shareholders if only the United States Government would withdraw its bid for the company's British ships and allow the disposal of them in the open market. Just why this should be so, with ocean freights coming down alarmingly—for the ship owners—is not easily explained, and, in all probability, a truer reason for the advance in the stock quotation would be that a top-heavy short interest had decided the time ripe for covering, said covering being for purely technical reasons.

* * *

Mexican Bonds Down.

There may or may not be coincidence in the fact that while Rafaelo Nieto, unofficial financial missionary from Mexico, was conferring with local bankers anent the rehabilitation of Mexican finances, Mexican 5 per cent. bonds due 1945 changed hands on the Stock Exchange at 61, or 9 points below the last previous sale of this issue, which took place on Jan. 13.

Shipping Uncertainties.

While exporters and importers have welcomed the recent reduction in shipping rates announced by the United States Shipping Board as a removal of restrictions which had caused them a great deal of inconvenience and in many instances substantial loss, criticism is becoming more widespread from day to day that the rate reductions in some trade channels have not been of particular benefit, as there have been too few Shipping Board vessels available for use in those channels, and privately controlled tonnage has been held at a prohibitive rate. It is asserted in some quarters that shippers find it more profitable to send consignments by way of England because the rate asked by private shipowners who are operating vessels in a direct French service is so high. The private rate to French ports is reported at $55 a ton, while the British tonnage quotation to the United Kingdom is $20. To transfer to France from England costs about $10 a ton more, and the advantage of the roundabout shipment is obvious. The private rate, however, is reported to be softening considerably, with some space rumored as available at as low at $40 a ton.

Another Copper Dividend Cut.

The announcement yesterday by the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation of the regular $1 quarterly dividend payable March 1 and the passing of the payment of 25 cents a share, which has been declared coincidentally with the regular $1 payment in each quarter since December, 1917, came as a surprise. The Directors were not due to meet for dividend action until Wednesday, but the meeting was moved forward because of the holiday on that date. No official announcement was made in connection with the passing of the extra dividend, but the action was attributed in authoritative quarters to a desire to conserve the company's cash because of the existing uncertainty regarding the future for copper.

An Oil Rush.

Attention was called to the information received in the financial district yesterday that the Texas & Pacific Railway was having a hard job to transport all of the material booked for shipment over its lines to the Ranger Oil fields in Texas, and the crowded condition of the carrier was compared with the old-time gold stampedes and mining rushes. It was said that between 800 and 1,000 cars of materials billed to the Ranger field were on the railroad's tracks east of the town of Ranger each day. This surplus the company is able to distribute only gradually, and material for the construction of storage tanks is given preference over everything else.

Utility Buys Spokane Company.

The Washington Water Power Company of Spokane, Wash., has bought the Spokane Heat, Light, and Power Company, according to advices received in Wall Street yesterday. It is understood that the deal was put through on a small cash payment, the creditors and security holders of the light and power company, which has been in the hands of a receiver for several months, agreeing to take an issue of $1,400,000 twenty-year unsecured debentures of the purchasing company, which will bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent. for the first six years, 4 per cent. for the next seven years, and 5 per cent. for the remaining seven years. It is also understood that the Washington Water Power Company will continue the operation of the heating company's steam distributing plant and will operate the acquired property as a subsidiary. The Washington Public Service Commission has approved electric lighting and power rate increases in Spokane recently and it is expected that revenues will improve because of this.

PLAN FOR BELGIAN CREDIT.

Syndicate of Banks to Accept $50,000,000 Trade Bills.

The $50 000 000 credit to Belgium, to be granted by a syndicate of New York bankers, including the Guaranty Trust Company, the National City Bank, the National Bank of Commerce, and J. P. Morgan & Co., is about completed, with only a few details yet to be arranged. The plan, it is understood, calls for the selling of goods by American merchants and manufacturers to Belgian merchants and manufacturers. The American merchants will draw on the Belgian consumers of American goods, these bills will be accepted by a syndicate of Belgian banks, and, in turn, by the American syndicate managers.

The American syndicate managers will form a syndicate of large banks throughout this country. This syndicate, it is believed, will purchase the acceptances at a rate said to be 6½ per cent. The syndicate managers, under this plan are expected to receive a commission of one-half of 1 per cent. thus making the accommodation cost Belgium 7 per cent.

GARRETSON FAVORS PLUMB'S RAIL PLAN

CALLS YEAR'S TEST UNFAIR

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—A. B. Garretson, President of the Order of Railway Conductors, appeared today before Senate Interstate Commerce Committee to support, in behalf of the four brotherhoods and the fourteen railway unions, the plan presented last week to the committee by Glenn E. Plumb, who would have the Government own the railways, but have them operated by a private corporation composed of railway employes.

Garretson told the committee that he was the only actual advocate of Government ownership in general among the four brotherhood heads, but that the other three had become convinced thtt, in the matter of the rairoads, Government ownership was the best solution of the rail problem. The other three brotherhood heads, W. G. Lee of the trainmen, Warren S. Stone of the engineers, and Timothy Shea of the firemen, like Mr. Garretson, indorse the Plumb plan.

"Stone, Lee, and Shea believe in private ownership as a general thing," the witness told the committee. "But they believe that Government ownership of the railways is the best thing."

"What took place during the year of the railroads under Federal control that induced railroad men to change their minds and favor Government ownership of railroads?" Senator Townsend of Michigan asked Mr. Garretson.

He had just told the committee that "efficiency never had any test," under Government control because of the troubled war conditions.

"The wonder is," he said, "not that the railroad operation failed in many directions, but that it did as well as it did."

In the course of his testimony Mr. Garretson emphasized more than once that, while he stood for the principles of the Plumb plan, he would not say he indorsed all its details. He also made the point that he spoke only for himself in giving opinions, "for," said he, "during the discussion here before the committee things may come out that we have never talked about among the railway men."

Senator Underwood asked if Mr. Garretson considered that in case of a return to the private ownership of railroads a budget system should be adopted.

"Yes," replied Mr. Garretson, "and if it is in the power of man to do it, a plan to equalize and aid the weaker roads should be devised."

A considerable part of the witness's time on the stand was devoted to answering questions touching on the financial status of the roads.

"It might excite derision if it was said that a walking delegate had studied the high finance of the roads," said Mr. Garretson. "But I have."

When he was asked his views upon passing laws beforehand, in case the roads were sent back to the private owners in twenty-one months, the Brotherhood President said:

"I don't believe there is a man in the country who would dare advocating turning back the railroads untrammeled."

Mr. Garretson will testify again tomorrow. Today, Charles E. Cottrell of the Southeastern Traffic League, protested to the committee against what he termed "the arbitrary power" of the Director General in revising rates.

CANCEL BUSINESS MEETING.

Conference Called for Mr. Kahn's Home Postponed.

A meeting of prominent bankers and business men which was scheduled for today at the home of Otto H. Kahn to consider certain matters of public interest, has been postponed indefinitely. The invitations were recalled by Mr. Kahn yesterday for reasons which were not made known. The meeting was to have been a continuation of conferences which began in Chicago several weeks ago having as their primary purpose the preparation of ways and means to present the position of business, banking, and industry to the public during the current period of readjustment.

Reports from the Western cities that men representing capital were uniting to combat the spread of Bolshevism in this country were said by local bankers to be inadequate in describing the purposes in mind. Bankers who were to have attended the meeting at Mr. Kahn's house asserted that the idea in view was not only to undertake an educational campaign against Bolshevist theories, but also to bring leading representatives of business and industrial employers into greater prominence than they have been in the past in the conduct of public matters covering a wide field.

COTTON MAKES A NEW LOW.

Recovers from 5 to 25 Points in Late Trading.

The new week began with little encouragement for bulls in the cotton market. The opening was steady enough, with first prices up 15 to 25 points from Saturday's closing, and there was some moderate buying in the first few minutes. Then the usual liquidation of old long accounts, the expected selling from the South and no support worthy of the name from any source developed and the market turned downward. The ring sold freely and houses with foreign connections also were sellers.

By midday the market was distinctly weak and shortly after noon prices stood at the lowest yet recorded for the near months. May sold at 19.80c and July was at 19.30c, while among the far months, October, the most active, sold off to 18.40c. These prices were the extremes for the day, as it turned out, for following the fall into new low ground, the market rallied sharply and before the close all of the losses had been recovered and net gains of 5 to 25 points had been scored.

In the afternoon rally, most of which was crowded into the last hour, there was wholesale covering of shorts and some pretty good speculative buying by Wall Street houses, as well as some trade buying. Foreigners did not take much, if any, in the rally, which was purely a domestic affair.

Nothing in the news could account for the late turn of the market. The early weakness was explained by a general bearishness and by the reduction of prices in many lines of cotton goods. The latter, specifically, coupled with no considerable improvement in the labor situation, may be said to have forced the new low records. The late buying, it was generally felt, was due to technical conditions within the market, and for this reason it was not especially comforting to the bulls.

RAILROAD MEN SEE END OF M'ADOO PLAN

EXPECT $500,000,000 GRANT

Believe Administration Will Allow Wage Increase of $75,000,000 to Workers.

Members of the Standing Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, who attended the meeting in Washington last Friday, said yesterday that little will probably be done in the way of legislation looking to a clarifying of the railroad situation before late Fall of this year. At that time, they believe, the President will either call a special session of Congress to consider the question of railroad legislation or the problem will go in its entirety to the new Congress.

In the interim, it is understood that the plans of the Association of Railway Executives call for an assumption by the association of more of the duties which are now distributed among a large number of independent organizations in the railway world. It was learned yesterday that the Standing Committee went into the functions of many of these committees and organizations thoroughly, and that one of the developments of the near future may be the taking over of the duties of the Railway Presidents' Conference Committee on valuation. It is also expected that the functions of the Committee on Railway Mail Pay will be taken over by the Executives' Association, as probably also will the work of accounting officers and engineers of the different railway companies and organizations.

It is confidently expected by railroad men who have been in Washington recently that former Director General of Railroads McAdoo's plan for an extension of the period of Federal control over a five-year period instead of the twenty-one months provided by the present law, will not be adopted by Congress. At the same time they believe that Director General Hines will get only $500,000,000 of the $750,000,000 he has requested from Congress, and it is the consensus of opinion that there will be scarcely any improvements to the railroad properties as a result.

It is believed that the railroad labor unions, which are now pressing the Railroad Administration for still further wage increases, involving an added expenditure by the carriers of the country amounting to between $75,000,000 and $90,000,000, will be successful.

STEEL ORDERS FALL OFF.

Corporation's Unfilled Bookings the Smallest Since October, 1915.

The United States Steel Corporation's unfilled orders declined 694,884 tons in January. The total on Jan. 31 was 6,684,268 tons, the smallest since Oct. 31, 1915, when 6,165,000 tons were reported. The decline of advance business in December and January together was more than 1,400,000 tons, a shrinkage which the industry considers as emphasizing the slackening of commercial purchases of steel after the armistice was signed.

The current bookings compare with 12,183,083 tons on April 30, 1917, the maximum total reported by the corporation; with 11,474,054 tons on Jan. 31, 1917, and 9,477,853 tons on Jan. 31 last year. From Jan. 31, 1917, to the end of August that year orders on hand did not fall below 10,400,000 tons at any time and were not below 8,000,000 tons last year in any month except December.

While new orders have fallen away rapidly since Dec. 1 last the corporation's mills have been working above 75 per cent. of capacity, with some around 85 per cent., according to estimates heard in the trade. The output has been partly for customers who have specified against contracts placed prior to the absorption of production by the Government and also for the corporation's warehouses. It is estimated that between 25 and 30 per cent. of current production is going into stocks which were greatly depleted during the period when war demands were requiring almost all the mill outturn.

CAN EARNINGS DECLINE.

The report of the Continental Can Company for the year ended with Dec. 31, 1918, shows a surplus after taxes and depreciation amounting to $2,199,044, which was equal after the deduction of preferred dividends to $13.86 a share earned on the $13,500,000 outstanding common stock. This compared with $29.36 earned on the same stock in the preceding year.

Net earnings of the company for the year were $3,728,269, which compared with $4,531,369 in 1917. After the payment of dividends on both the preferred and common stock and the deduction of $165,000 for the redemption of preferred stock, the surplus for the year was $897,018, which compared with $2,321,402 in the preceding year. This added to the previous surplus made the total surplus for the year $6,123,258, which after the deduction of a 35 per cent. stock dividend on the common was reduced to $2,623,258, which compared with a surplus of $5,226,240 in 1917.

Fidelity Trust Company, Philadelphia, Trustee

The following information regarding these Notes is summarized from a letter signed by Thomas N. McCarter, Esq., President of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, copy of which may be had on request:

Public Service Corporation of New Jersey owns all but 47 shares of all stock of Public Service Gas Company, Public Service Electric Company, and Public Service Railway Company.

These subsidiaries operate all the gas, electric, and street railway properties in the larger cities and more populous sections of New Jersey—excepting the shore resorts, the gas service in Elizabeth and the street railway in Trenton.

The territory has a population exceeding 2,500,000, and the combined gross earnings now exceed Fifty Million Dollars annually.

These Notes will be a direct obligation of the Corporation, secured by pledge of $14,000,000 of its General Mortgage Sinking Fund 5% Bonds due October 1, 1959, and $5,000,000 Capital Stock of Public Service Electric Company. These securities are valued at over 125% of the principal amount of these Notes.

The Total Combined Income for the year 1918 (after providing for all fixed charges of subsidiary companies and after liberal maintenance expenditures but before reservations for depreciation and amortization) was $9,043,417, which exceeds two and three-tenths times the annual interest requirements on all funded debt of the Corporation, including interest on these Notes. The gas and electric properties have contributed approximately 80% of such Total Combined Income in the past five years.

These Notes will be followed by $10,000,000 new 8% Cumulative Preferred Stock about to be offered to the Corporation's stockholders for cash at par and of which the sale of over $6,000,000 has already been assured, and by the outstanding $30,000,000 Common Stock all issued for cash at par.

The proceeds of these Notes and new Preferred Stock will pay off maturing notes, discharge floating debt, provide additional working capital and diminish materially the annual interest charges.

We are advised that at the meeting held February 10, 1919, the Stockholders have authorized this issue.

All legal matters in connection with the issue of these Notes will be passed upon by Messrs. Stetson, Jennings & Russell, and by R. V. Lindabury, Esq. The accounts have been audited annually by Messrs. Niles & Niles, of New York, Certified Public Accountants.

At 98½ and Interest to Yield over 7.55%

The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to award a smaller amount than applied for. Discount at the rate of 7% per annum on the principal amount of Notes will be allowed from date of payment to March 1, 1919. Temporary Receipts of Drexel & Company, of Philadelphia, will be delivered, exchangeable for definitive Notes when, as and if received from the Corporation.

DISCUSSES MEXICAN LOAN WITH MORGANS

PLANS TO REFUND DEBT

Representative from Southern Republic Seeks Capital for Development.

Rafaelo Nieto, Mexican financial expert, who is in the United States for the purpose of attempting to rehabilitate the finances of his country, had a long conference with representatives of J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday. Following the conference neither Mr. Nieto nor members of the banking firm would make any official statement, but it was reported that nothing definite had been accomplished.

Mr. Nieto, it is understood, is anxious to work out some plan whereby the Mexican national debt may be refunded and new capital secured for the internal development of the southern republic. The national debt, translated into dollars, is equal to approximately $375,000,000, and bankers who have studied the subject doubt if the Mexican income, after deducting the cost of government, would be sufficient to pay interest on this sum and allow a balance for new money. Under the circumstances, American bankers hesitate to undertake any new financing in the interest of Mexico unless they are assured that some sort of guarantee will be forthcoming. This, it is understood, has been explained to Mr. Nieto, who, it may be said, is not empowered to bind Mexico to any definite agreement, even if one were possible of consummation at the present time.

A plan for refunding Mexico, and for supplying capital for new development work, has tentatively been prepared, but all interests concerned insist that nothing definite can be said. However, it became known yesterday that this plan calls for the refunding of the Mexican debt into a comprehensive issue of bonds of one description; the issuance of new bonds for capital with which to develop some of the natural resources of Mexico; the pledging of the national customs revenue as security for the whole debt, and the administration of the customs revenue by a joint commission or international board of representatives of the United States and Mexico.

F. FRANKFURTER RESIGNS.

Quits His Post as Chairman of the War Labor Policies Board.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Felix Frankfurter today announced his resignation as assistant to the Secretary of Labor and Chairman of the War Labor Policies Board. The board will go out of existence within a few weeks, since its activities have come to an end with the close of the war.

George L. Bell, who came from the State Immigration and Housing Commission of California to be the executive officer of the board, will go to New York to become the impartial Chairman of a permanent board of arbitration which is being organized to handle disputes in the clothing industry.

Mr. Frankfurter, formerly a Professor in the Harvard Law School, has not announced his future plans.

The War Labor Policies Board was charged with the task of co-ordinating the activities of the various Government departments concerned with industrial relations during the war.

BELGIUM ASKS ALLIED LOAN.

Wants to Buy Raw Materials to Solve Unemployment Problem.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Lack of raw material is the principle cause of unemployment in Belgium, according to Belgian official advices today, and to obviate this situation the Government has asked the allied powers for a credit with which to purchase materials and products of prime necessity.

Workmen and manufacturers were reported to be anxious to start production immediately so as to be able to face the enormous increase in the cost of living which Premier Delacroix said was five or si xtimes greater than before the war.

FORECAST EMBARGO EFFECT

Exports from the United States to Great Britain of the fifty articles recently named in the British prohibition order were less than 1 per cent. of the total American exports and one-half of 1 per cent. of British imports in the years immediately preceding the war, according to a compilation made by the National City Bank from the official records of both countries. This reads in part:

"The most important of the prohibited articles, as measured by the value of our exports thereof to Great Britain, are apparently photographic apparatus, metal-working machinery, sewing machines, soap, and apparel. Of photographic apparatus exported from the United States (including motion picture films and other sensitized materials) the average in the three fiscal years preceding the war was about $6,600,000 per annum. Of sewing machines and parts our own figures of exports to Great Britain show an annual average of $2,592,000."

Pickering, Director of the Harvard College Observatory, are given to Harvard by Professor Pickering's will, which was filed for probate here today. The residue of the estate, after several private bequests are paid, also is to go to Harvard. No indication of the value of the estate is given.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

EGGS.—Receipts, 8,582 cases. Stock arriving Saturday afternoon cleaned up better than was generally expected. Arrivals are light as posted, but do not include all of the express receipts, of which there are said to be large quantities at the receiving stations. These are slow of delivery, and the stock available for the early trading was no more than urgently needed at fully sustained prices. The tone of the market is sensitive, and any deliveries beyond the immediate ability to sell would undoubtedly weaken the position. Nearby white eggs are in light receipt, and strictly fancy qualities are cleaning up quite promptly at fully sustained prices. Under grades irregular. Anticipate the New Revenue Law

THE taxes which your business must pay on the 1918 turn-over have been materially changed by the Law shortly to be enacted.

We can help you simplify the work which will have to be done to meet the requirements of the law. Taxpayers will be particularly interested in the new rules governing inventories, losses, amortization and invested capital.

You can begin immediately to compile the data requisite for your return if you are informed as to the most important changes that have been made.

It is particularly important for firms and corporations to be able to compute their 1918 tax at once in order that they may make out their balance sheets as of the close of their last fiscal year. The 1918 tax will be payable over the entire year and in most cases will constitute a very important item in the balance sheet. We have issued a pamphlet designed to help business houses in the preparation of data for their returns. We shall be glad to give you a copy.

This applies only to income from business

ACCEPTS HOUSE REDUCTIONS

Senate Passes War Appropriation Bill Eliminating $15,000,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The House bill providing for a reduction of $15,000,000,000 in war appropriations and contract authorizations, and making deficiency appropriations of $295,000,000, was passed today by the Senate without a record vote. It now goes to conference.

With the exception of approximately $11,000,000, the total appropriations carried in the bill are for the army and navy. The measure repeals appropriations for the War and Navy Departments amounting to $7,179,156,900 and cancels authorizations of $8,221,029,200, which officials of the two departments have said would not be needed.

The Senate in its brief discussion of the bill paid scant attention to the appropriations and savings, most of the debate centering on the House provision for a gratuity of $7,500 to the widow of the late Representative Meeker of Missouri.

An amendment by Senator Robinson of Arkansas to give the children of Mr. Meeker by a former marriage the gratuity, was adopted, but later the Senate reversed its action after Senator Spence of Missouri asserted that the Missouri Representative had left $33,000 life insurance, $20,000 of which was for his four minor children.

Senator Underwood of Alabama, supporting the House action in giving the amount to the widow, who was married to Mr. Meeker a few hours before he died, told the Senate that in his opinion no member of Congress had died more heroically. Mr. Meeker, he said, contracted Spanish influenza while caring for soldiers sick with that disease in cantonments near St. Louis.

OPEN DRIVE FOR CLOTHING.

The Serbian Aid Fund yesterday began its two weeks' drive for 500 tons of clothing to be sent to Serbia for the soldiers who have been discharged from prison camps and of civilians impoverished by the war. It is not required that articles should be new, any in good condition being acceptable.

"We must collect more than thirty-three tons of clothing every day during the two weeks if we are to reach our goal of 500 tons," said Mrs. Kingsbury Curtis, Chairman of the committee. "We are appealing for men's clothing especially, because the repatriated army and prisoners of war are clad in rags and often in paper. Children's clothing also is badly needed, but those made of delicate fabrics are not worth the shipping space. Good shoes, warm shawls, shirts, wraps, and dresses are all in great demand, because many Serbs surely will die of exhaustion and tuberculosis unless warm clothing is provided in time to save them."

The drive headquarters is at 338 Madison Avenue and is open from 9:30 A. M. to 5 P. M. every day.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday closed strong and active. An aggressive demand for securities in the final hour made for a substantial general advance and the closing prices were about the highest for the session. The one weak spot in the list was American Can, which showed a net loss of 2 points. Speculative interest centred in the industrials. Railroad issues were neglected, but closed firm.

Marseilles

THIS popular seaport of France and second city of that splendid republic has overcome the disadvantages of its original arid surrounding by intensive irrigation and cultivation. Its population in 1911 was 551,000. Marseilles is noted for its flour milling, oil crushing and soap making industries. It is the world's greatest oil crushing centre. In studying the requirements of foreign markets, American manufacturers should note that Marseilles is a most convenient distributing centre for the Mediterranean trade, and particularly the French colonial trade.

The declared value of exports from Marseilles to this country during 1915 was $5,065,552, as against $6,142,050 in 1914. Total commerce in 1913 amounted to $755,372,000, of which $389,639,000 were imports and $365,733,000 exports.

BURLESON EXPLAINS NEW PHONE RATES

Long-Distance Schedule Is Designed to Standardize the Service Throughout Country.

CHARGES ARE TENTATIVE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Postmaster General Burleson has written a letter to Representative Dudley Doolittle of Kansas in explanation of the plan by which the Post Office Department fixed the new toll rates for long-distance telephones, and in which Mr. Burleson says that the new rates are tentative and can be reduced "as fast as conditions warrant." The letter, which was in reply to inquiries made by Mr. Doolittle, reads in part:

"The purpose of the new schedule of telephone toll rates is to standardize the long-distance service throughout the country and to establish uniform charges. The toll service is not local in character, and, unlike exchange service, is largely conducted over the lines of more than one company and across State boundaries.

"In preparing the new toll rates, the telegraph and telephone administration has endeavored to introduce additional forms of service required by the public, to establish conditions with respect to the long-distance business which will result in economies of operation, to make substantial reductions in rates where they were excessive, and to increase the charges for certain kinds of service where rates were inadequate. For example, the distinction between calls for a particular person and those for any person at a particular station was established for the whole country.

"This distinction is based on sound engineering principles. Messages handled by the person-to-person method require more labor on the part of the telephone operators than those handled by the station-to-station method. The former also tie up lines, which in the case of many long-distance calls represent a heavy investment in copper wire and other equipment, for a longer period of time. Heretofore the telephone caller who was satisfied to reach any party at a particular station often contributed toward the extra cost of serving the particular person long-distance talker. Hereafter the charges in such cases will be better proportioned to the cost of service and to its value to the user.

"Similar considerations justify the new report charges. The information reported to the telephone user, who pays the report charge, may not always be of value to him; but it has been obtained at considerable expense. It is fairer to charge the expense against the party who originated the call, than against other completely innocent parties. Moreover, in many cases, regrettably, reports from stations that the particular person called for was not available, have been made a medium of conveying important information. Thus the parties were enabled to evade payment and gross fraud was successfully perpetrated upon the company. From every standpoint it seems desirable to make a reasonable charge for this class of service.

"Charges for particular person service under the new schedule, unlike those for station-to-station service, are generally higher than the former rates. But it ought not to be forgotten that many users of this class of service formerly escaped a portion of the charge that should have been made, if other users had not been helping to meet the cost. Moreover, the Government took over the telephones in a period of advancing rates. Already in 1918, during the period preceding Government operation, several of the telephone companies had secured the approval of the State Public Service Commissions, having jurisdiction over their lines, to substantial rate increases. Many had applied for permission to make increases. Others would shortly have been compelled to seek authority for similar increases, if the Government had not come to their relief.

"The Postmaster General is required, under the terms of the resolution authorizing Government control of the wire systems, to pay a just and reasonable compensation to each of the companies whose lines have been taken over. This is an imperative obligation. Any adjustment of rates should, therefore, be on such a basis as to guarantee sufficient revenue to meet these requirements. The policy of the Postmaster General is to make the rates for service as low as possible, keeping in view the operating cost and the obligation of compensation to the companies.

"The standardized rates are not only based on the requirement of revenues to meet definite obligations, but also are designed to bring about a more equitable distribution of charges with respect to the kind of service required by the subscriber. By reducing night rates to from one-quarter to one-half the standard day rates an extraordinarily cheap service is provided for those to whom economy is the prime consideration. Those who demand the best service will, on account of improvements in operation which the new schedule makes possible, receive a better service than ever before. In short, the new toll service is the most economical and efficient that the present-day science of telephony can provide. If the telephone users will study their own needs and all the conditions pertaining to their toll calls, they will be able to benefit greatly by the new schedule.

"The new rates are tentative. They can be reduced as fast as conditions will warrant. The whole subject of the relation between toll rates and local exchange rates is under investigation. The Postmaster General is in a position to make readjustments between the rates for the different kinds of service with a single eye to the good of the whole body of telephone users throughout the country. He does not intend to collect tolls which are higher than is necessary to maintain a satisfactory standard of service; and he will not permit the quality of the service to suffer on account of insufficient revenue."

DRY GOODS RETAILERS MEET

Convention Here to Discuss Conditions Caused by the War.

The representatives of 2,000 retail dry goods stores, representing the trade in cities from coast to coast, will meet today in the Hotel Pennsylvania, at the eighth annual convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, to discuss after-the-war business.

As a preliminary to the actual convention the Board of Directors met yesterday and discussed plans for the expansion of the association. In view of conditions caused by the war, it is felt that wide reforms in business are necessary and that the organization must be broadened, developed, and strengthened. The association will invite all State retail dry goods bodies to affiliate themselves with the national association.

The value of a national association will be the subject of an address this morning, and other items on the program are a reply to the President's opening address by M. F. Loughlin and the reading of the report of the Secretary-Treasurer, Lew Hahn. The afternoon program will include a report by the War Service Committee, presentation of plans for extending the association, and the election of Directors.

Tonight there will be a smoker on the roof garden, at which Alfred B. Koch of Lasalle & Koch of Toledo will preside. The speakers and their subjects will be: "The Self-Service Idea in Retailing," by John Mench of the Duffy-Powers Company, Rochester, and "The Tendency to Guarantee Prices," by S. H. Dichett, editor of the Dry Goods Economist. These papers will be followed by a discussion of many trade subjects, among them "Shall Economies in Retailing Brought About by the War Be Continued?" "Has Any Merchant Charged Interest on Accounts Outstanding More Than Thirty Days, and With What Results?" "How Should Buyers Govern Their Buying This Year?" "Why Are We Faced With a Minimum Wage, Without Educational Requirements?" and "How Can We Eliminate Early Season Reductions in Ready-to-Wear?"

Buying in Small Lots.

Present conditions among the manufacturers of men's shirts are, from all accounts, still rather unsettled. In some instances the smaller manufacturers, in order to unload their stocks, have reduced the prices from 10 to 15 per cent. In the retail trade many of the buyers are just taking enough merchandise to last for thirty days, and then duplicate their orders. Others, it is said, who have a sufficient quantity on hand, will not look at the lines even after the prices have been reduced.

Features of a Model Hat.

A new model hat is made of highly lacquered straw and is of a large semi-mushroom shape. It is made in the straight conventional brim or slightly dented on four sides. The facing of ciré ribbon is slightly shirred and does not meet the edge of the brim. Faille taffeta ribbon can also be used for the facing. Ciré ribbon bands this model finished with a tied bow at the back. Cherries, silk flowers and fruits, or a little novelty trim lend a finish. The hats are shown in all dark shades.

Women's Neckwear Going Well.

Both manufacturers and buyers are agreed that the sale of women's neckwear this season will be great. At present pleatings and rufflings are having an unusually large sale, and a good season on these lines is assured. The sample lines in a number of the establishments have been enlarged, and are offered in many color combinations and novelty effects. Such colors as rose, navy, brown, green, and tea color are combined together, and with white are shown in many attractive combinations.

⁂

Sale of Philippine Underwear.

The sale of Philippine underwear has been increasing at such a rate that in some cases it is almost impossible to make immediate deliveries. The amount of these garments sold by one of the local houses during the last week represents a total of nearly $25,000. In the line of nightgowns the best sellers are those fashioned with new applique embroidery effects that retail for $3.95 each. Although the price of these garments is much higher than the muslin lines, firms selling both find that many buyers are more favorably disposed to the Philippine garments.

BUSINESS WORLD

Orders for Lace Curtains.

Reports received in the lace curtain trade are to the effect that in some sections of the country buying has increased to a great extent. Out-of-town buyers who have been in the market have placed some very liberal orders for immediate delivery, especially in the filet lines, which appear to be more in demand. There are still a number of retailers who are holding off for lower prices, and are only placing orders for their present needs. Opinions seem to differ as to the local trade. Some find business slow, while others report some very good sales.

Beaded Handbags Very Popular.

The demand for ladies' beaded handbags is increasing to such an extent that some of the makers are finding it difficult to turn them out fast enough. Bags of this kind are meeting with as much favor in Europe as they are in this country. An order was received yesterday from a retail store in England that amounted to $650. Miniature miser bags that retail for $25 apiece and porcupine bags made of silk and trimmed with beads that sell for $45 each are very popular in the high-class specialty shops and department stores.

Gray Goods More Active.

A little more activity than has been the case recently marked the local gray goods market yesterday. Sales were reported aggregating over a million yards, and the bulk of them was from first hands. It is supposed that the buyers waited as long as they could and only came into the market when this was absolutely necessary in order to meet their requirements. The goods taken were for this and next month's delivery. In printcloths 39-inch 68-72s fetched 10½ cents, and 38½-inch 64-60s, 60-48s, and 64-56s went at 8¾, 8, and 8½ cents, respectively. In sheetings, 36-inch five-yard goods sold at 9¼ and 48-square four-yard goods at 11½ cents. Sales also were reported of twills, sateens, and organdies at the low levels prevailing.

Large Trade in Rosaries.

Even rosaries follow the trend of the time in fancy glass beads and are to be found in all colors, including bright red. There are bright greens, blues, ruby, and amethyst, with pale shades, and they range in price at retail from 25 cents to as many dollars. The rosary trade is a bigger one than might be supposed from the permanence of the religious symbol. There is a large annual output, and one big bead house has an entire factory devoted to their manufacture. January is the month when the largest orders come in to be in readiness for Easter. The biggest output of rosaries known in this country was shortly after America entered the war, when it was impossible to fill orders from the big ecclesiastical goods houses and individual churches from all over the country. Rosaries for the boys going abroad were not confined to the black or sombre beads, many of them being in the gayer colors.

Warren W. Weseman was duly adjudicated bankrupt on February 7, 1919. The first meeting of creditors will be held at my office, No. 68 William Street, City of New York, on February 21, 1919, at 10 A. M. Creditors may prove claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may come before said meeting.

PETER B. OLNEY,

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Bing & Bing yesterday added to their recently acquired holdings in the old shopping district in the neighborhood of Twenty-third Street and Sixth Avenue by the purchase of another loft building at 54 to 62 West Twenty-first Street, ninety-eight feet east of Sixth Avenue.

The building, which is a twelve-story structure built in 1910, by Henry Corn, was held at $650,000, and returns an annual rent of $70,000. It was bought from Henry Edelmuth, who purchased the property earlier in the day from Frederick Brown, through Harry B. Cutner, who also made the resale.

The new holding of Bing & Bing is in close proximity to the two lofts which they purchased last week from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, one at 15 and 17 West Twenty-first Street and the other at 37 to 45 West Twentieth Street.

Machinery Company Buys Forty-fourth Street Property.

As a site for a modern commercial structure, a Western machinery concern has purchased for about $6,000 a front foot the property at 6 and 8 East Forty-fourth Street. The deal involves about $300,000.

On the property, which has a frontage of fifty feet and a depth of 100 feet, are two private dwellings, No. 6 being sold by the Sarah V. Day estate and No. 8 by the Mary P. Moore estate. For taxation purposes the city assesses the property at $240,000.

Last week the property of the Racquet and Tennis Club at 23 to 31 West Forty-third Street and extending through to 24 and 26 West Forty-fourth Street was purchased by James T. Lee for about $800,000. An eighteen-story structure similar to the Berkeley Arcade in Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Streets, completed about two years ago by Mr. Lee, is to be erected on the site.

Financial arrangements to the extent of $2,300,000 have been made with S. W. Straus & Co., covering an issue of serial bonds for that amount.

Another Sale in Coffee District.

Another important sale in the coffee district, which has recently shown great activity, occurred yesterday when R. Alexander Schonbrunn, trading as S. A. Schonbrunn & Co. and Sasco Coffee Co., bought the five-story and basement loft building, on plot 24 by 97, at 83 Front Street, from Charles A. O'Donohue, representing Lillian B. O'Donohue.

Mr. Schonbrunn has been lessee of the property, held at $45,000, for fifteen years. Charles F. Noyes made the sale and Samuel S. Koenig of Koenig, Sittenfield & Aranow represented the buyer as attorney.

Purchase in New Fur Trade Centre.

In the new fur trade centre, just south of the Pennsylvania Station, the three-story building owned by the Coca Cola Company, at 320 to 322 West Twenty-seventh Street, was sold to a fur concern whose identity was not disclosed. The property, comprising a plot 44 by 98.9 between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, was valued at $90,000.

The buyers also secured from the Coca Cola Company the adjoining three-story dwelling for $10,500.

The combined properties, forming a plot 66 by 98.9, it is said, will be improved with a fur storage building.

Bank Sells Property on Central Park West.

The Union Dime Savings Bank sold Elberon Hall, a nine-story fireproof apartment house, on plot 55.6 by 100, at 385 to 389 Central Park West, 25 feet south of Ninety-ninth Street, to an investor. The property was held at $175,000, and returns an annual rental of about $20,000. I. B. Wakeman made the sale.

First Sale Since 1785.

The five-story building at 180 South Street, near Roosevelt Street, on plot 23 by 71.8, was sold by Elizabeth F. Harper to Leonardo Mormando through William H. Whiting & Co. This is the first sale of the property since 1785.

Emma Brickenstein sold the five-story new-law apartment, on plot 22.6 by 100, at 115 East 127th Street, to a client of O'Reilly & Dahn.

Activities in Heights Section.

Charles Kimmelman purchased for cash for investment the two five-story new-law apartment houses at 700 to 720 West 172d Street, occupying the block front on the south side of the street between Fort Washington and Haven Avenues. The Fort Washington Avenue house measures 40 by 220 and the Haven Avenue building 60 by 169. The two apartments, held at a total of $330,000, were purchased by the Nason Realty Company (Max N. Natanson) two weeks ago from the Longlight Service Corporation. William S. Baker was the broker in the transaction.

The Golden Rod, a six-story elevator apartment on plot 75 by 100 at 508 West 178th Street, was sold to the Levitan Corporation of Manhattan by W. F. Schroeder of Jersey City. The property, which is between Amsterdam Avenue and Audubon Avenue, is arranged for thirty-five families, rents for $15,000, and was held at $115,000. Burton, Thompson & Co. were the brokers in the deal, which was a cash one.

Last of Thirteen Apartments Sold.

The five-story apartment house, on plot 50 by 150, at 25 and 27 Vermilyea Avenue, between Dyckman and Academy Streets, housing thirty families, who pay a yearly rental of $12,000, was sold to a client of Joseph G. Abramson, attorney, by 25 Vermilyea Avenue, Inc., (Fred F. French, President.)

The building is the last of thirteen apartment houses which Mr. French has completed in the Dyckman section in the past two years, all of which have been sold through Byrne & Bowman with B. Clifford Roberts representing Mr. French as attorney.

Brown Resells Bronx Holdings.

Frederick Brown resold the two five-story apartment houses on plot 75 by 100 at 2,635 and 2,639 Sedgwick Avenue, near Kingsbridge Road, held at $72,000, with an annual rental of $10,000 to a client of McLernon Brothers and George E. & Charles Buckbee. Mr. Brown also resold to William S. Byrnes through A. D. Phelps & Damiane the northeast corner of Brown Place and 134th Street, a two-story house, on a plot 50 by 100, which he bought a few days ago from the United States Trust Company.

Charles Siegel Levy sold the five-story apartment house at 1,086 Southern Boulevard, on a plot 43 by 100, near Westchester Avenue, to Samuel Weiser, through Alexander C. Campbell.

William S. Dempsey, President of the William S. Dempsey Realty Company, purchased from the Solow Construction Company the block front on the east side of St. Nicholas Avenue, corner 139th Street, running through to Edgecombe Avenue, known as Finley Manor, a six-story elevator apartment house, which rents for $35,000, and held at $250,000. The brokers were the John P. Peel Company and Edward J. Crawford.

W. Ellenbohn sold the three-story two-family brick house at 1,507 Bryant Avenue, to Mary Lassman for occupancy. Gertrude Brett sold the three-story detached two-family frame house at 1,820 Trafalgar Place to Sager & Goldstein for investment. Nicholas Lopard was the broker in both deals.

Brooklyn.

The six-story forty-three family elevator apartment house at 1,236 and 1,238 Pacific Street was sold by Leonard N. Taft to Edward Neelen. As part payment Mr. Taft takes a hotel on Seventh Avenue, Asbury Park, N. J., an eight family apartment house in the Bronx, and two houses and thirty lots at Lyndhurst, N. J. The property involved in the deal, which was made by the City and Suburban Realty Company, has a total valuation of $250,000.

Sales in Queens County.

The Woodhaven National Bank sold to I. Wohl a plot 96 by 175 on the east side of Clinton Avenue, north of Fulton Street, Woodhaven. The consideration was $12,500.

Staten Island.

The Grand Concourse Realty Company, M. Kaufman, President, has purchased for improvement a plot 40 by 75 at 42 Fifth Avenue, West Brighton, S. I., from Morris Quasha. A. Blumenthal negotiated the sale.

Riverdale Estate Purchased by Theatre Owner.

Maurice A. Shea, owner of a number of theatres throughout the country, purchased the brick residence built several years ago at Riverdale by the Delafield estate for a Mr. Schullinger. The house contains fourteen rooms, five baths, and a garage, and was held at $54,000. George Howe negotiated the sale.

Recent Buyers.

The Commercial Improvement Corporation of Madison Avenue, Inc., is the buyer of the former Jesup residence property at the southeast corner of Madison Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street. The corporation was formed at Albany Saturday, with W. H. Keogh, J. W. Blohm and H. C. Taylor as Directors and a capital of $10,000. The property was recently sold by the Barstun Realty Company.

The Coastwise Warehouse, Inc., is the buyer of the group of buildings at the northwest corner of Broadway and Sixty-seventh Street, fronting 84.9 feet on Broadway and 131.8 feet on Sixty-seventh Street, reported sold last July by Jacob Hirsh and others through Maurice Wertheim. The property was transferred subject to a mortgage for $259,500. The warehouse company has also taken title to two other properties, the eight-story building at 466-470 Washington Street and the three lots at the southwest corner of Townsend Avenue and 174th Street.

Realty Notes.

The Harlem Property Owners' Association will hold a meeting Thursday evening at 147 East 125th Street.

The New York Building Managers' Association will hold a meeting and dinner at the Park Avenue Hotel this evening.

The 434 East Thirteenth Street Corporation has been formed at Albany with a capital of $5,000, and S. Wacht, Jr., D. B. Kaminsky and L. D. Workin as Directors, to take over the property at that location. It is a six-story tenement with stores on a plot 46.6 by 103.3, title to which is held by Noah S. Shelfer.

ORDER STRIKE HERE IN BUILDING TRADES

WILL AFFECT FIFTY CITIES

The sympathetic strike of all building trade unionists engaged on contracts of members of the Building Trades Employers' Association in aid of the striking carpenters will begin today, declared William L. Hutcheson, President of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and Alternate Chairman of the War Labor Board, after a meeting of the International Presidents of the unions involved, at the Hotel Continental yesterday.

It was impossible to estimate the number of men who eventually would be affected by the strike order, said Mr. Hutcheson. An estimate of 300,000, made yesterday afternoon, he considered too high. Ronald Taylor, President of the Building Trades Employers' Association, could make no exact estimate, he said. Comparatively few men were employed in the basic trades in New York, Mr. Taylor added, but what would happen on out-of-town contracts he could not say.

The general strike order on association work will automatically throw out of work masons, plasterers, bricklayers, hoisting engineers, elevator constructors, soft stone cutters, tile layers, marble setters, and carpenters. This was agreed upon at the meeting of the basic trade union leaders yesterday, the first order being issued by Frank Seeley of Philadelphia, President of the Elevator Constructors' Union, who called out all his men working on association contracts.

For the builders Ronald Taylor issued a statement in which he explained the reasons why the Building Trades Employers' Association declined to refer the whole matter to the War Labor Board, a suggestion advanced by Mr. Hutcheson on Sunday.

"The agreement between the Employers' Association and the Carpenters' District Council, which expired on Dec. 31, 1918," said Mr. Taylor, "provided that 'both parties to this agreement adopt as a basis of settlement the Joint Arbitration Plan.'

"The Joint Arbitration Plan is a document the principles of which the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Carpenters' Union are pledged to uphold. The Joint Arbitration Plan provides for the adjustment of all disputes by conferences and arbitration. It also provides that there shall be no strikes or lockouts. The Building Trades Employers' Association on Dec. 13 revoked the lockout order of Dec. 9.

Sees Outside Board Unnecessary.

"When the carpenters call off their strike and return to work, any grievance that they may have can then be adjusted by the method provided for in the old agreement, which was approved by the International Union. It is, therefore, unnecessary to call in an outside arbitration board.

"The proposition of Mr. Hutcheson is simply an evasion of the issue. He knows that the Building Trades Employers' Association has for fifteen years supported and maintained the Joint Arbitration Plan. This plan has been supported also by the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Board of Business Agents."

The association has contracts in fifty cities of the United States, and not in 112, as was previously stated, and only two of these outside contracts are on Government work, said Mr. Taylor. One is a job on the United States Quartermaster's Stores at New Orleans, from which no complaints have been heard, and the other a contract for the United States Shipping Board at Mobile, Ala. The only Government work now being done in New York City by members of the association is the fulfillment of the contract on the United States army base at Second Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, Brooklyn. No bricklayers or hoisting engineers are employed on this job, said Mr. Taylor, and therefore that contract, as far as these two trades are concerned, is not affected by the lockout, which actually went into effect on Monday morning, though declared on Saturday at noon.

It was learned yesterday that orders had been received from the War Department that work on this contract proceed normally. About 100 non-union carpenters were employed for this work yesterday and dock builders would be hired, it was learned. The circumstances were explained by Major Perine, who added that no pickets had appeared yesterday.

Army Issues Statement.

"The carpenters back in November made a demand for an increase in wages," said a statement issued by the army authorities. "This demand was thoroughly investigated by the War Department, and the decision reached that the prevailing rate of pay in New York for carpenters was $5.50 per day. After this decision was made the carpenters struck the job and have remained on strike since. The dock builders also went on strike about the same time.

"All portions of the army base not affected by the carpenters and dock builders have proceeded, but the time has come when it is necessary to resume work with carpenters and dock builders in order to bring about the completion of the entire project. The Government, therefore, reached the decision last week to start up all portions of the work, and have instructed the contractors accordingly.

"Workmen are being employed today at the base to complete all carpenter work and dock building, in order to bring about the prompt completion of the entire project."

The dock builders, it was said, were offered an increase from $5 a day to $5.80, but failed to return to work. Work which should have been turned over completed to the Government on Jan. 1 was still unfinished as a result of the strike, it was learned. This includes a large warehouse at Dock 4.

Although Mr. Hutcheson promised on Saturday 500 discharged soldier-carpenters would picket the Brooklyn job in uniform yesterday none appeared. A special guard of soldiers was thrown around the base, but no disturbances were reported. It was said that if the threat of the union was carried out and pickets in the uniform of the United States appeared, they would be ordered by the army authorities to turn in their uniforms.

CONTINUE GARMENT STRIKE.

Union Official Says 23,000 Workers Are in Idleness.

The fourth week of the garment workers' strike begins today, with no apparent change in the situation. About twelve thousand members of the Garment Workers' Union have returned to their employment with firms independent of the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association, against which the strike is being waged, but 23,000 remain idle, according to Benjamin Schleslinger, President of the union.

The workers, Mr. Schleslinger said, were prepared to carry on their fight indefinitely, or until the forty-four-hour week had been granted by manufacturers throughout the industry.

FIND MISSING BOY FATHER LEFT ADRIFT

Claude Hanley, 6 years old, brother of three-year-old Harry Samuels Hanley, who was found on Thursday night at Fulton Street and Broadway, shortly after his stepmother had left him there, was recovered last night. In the rooms of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, at 473 Jersey Avenue, Jersey City, Claude, chubby from three meals a day and chipper and cheerful, paused between bites of ginger cake long enough to say to the police, "I'm him." According to Claude's story, within half an hour after his father had left him on the night of Jan. 25 he managed to get across the Cortlandt Street Ferry, start to cry as he came out of the ferryhouse, "and a police brought me here, where I had something to eat."

The officials of the society said they had experienced great difficulty in getting any information from the boy, because, like his brother, he suffers from a severe impediment of speech. Yesterday, however, they said, a newspaper containing a picture of his brother was shown to him and, recognizing it, the identification followed.

Captain Robert Griffith of the Bayonne police went to the Hanley home at 717 Hudson Boulevard, Bayonne, yesterday and questioned Frederick Hanley, the father, and Mrs. Mabel Hanley, the stepmother. According to Griffith they both admitted abandoning the boys, and said they did so because they "ate too much" for the family purse and because they never had displayed much affection for the stepmother.

Captain Griffith said that Frederick Hanley took Claude to this city on Jan. 25, and when they came to a dark part of Liberty Street took to his heels, leaving the lad bewildered in the street. Captain Griffith said that Mrs. Hanley described the casting adrift of the younger boy on last Thursday by saying that she went up Fulton Street until she saw two policemen standing at Broadway, when she ran away from the little chap. She said that she thought the policemen would take care of Harry, according to Griffith.

The Bayonne police announced that the Hanleys would be brought before Recorder William J. Tain in Bayonne on Thursday morning for examination. Action against the parents will also be started in this county, according to District Attorney Swann, who said yesterday that B. T. Pizzaro, Assistant Superintendent of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, had conferred with him. Mr. Swann added that Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith and Assistant District Attorney Moses Ryttenberg would present the case against the Hanleys to the Grand Jury. The charge, according to Mr. Swann, probably would be abandonment.

The Boys Know

EXPOSURE to all kinds of weather and dampness was the duty of the boys on land and sea. The result was, in many cases, rheumatic aches, sore and stiff muscles, sprains and strains, chilblains and neuralgia.

Those who have once tried it, and know, rely on Sloan's Liniment to promote relief in time of such bodily stress.

"We have been in the thick of the fray here for now over two years, out in the summer shine and the winter storms, and have many times been persuaded by one of our Sappers to try Sloan's Liniment when Rheumatics, Muscular Pains, Neuralgia and several more complaints attacked us. We thought therefore we should like to place on record and acquaint you with the fact that Sloan's Liniment has never yet failed to give us relief and eventually cure us of the attacks. We are never now without a bottle of Sloan's."

(Signed)—Sappers Hy. Harker, A. S. Wells, S. A. Sams, A. Pinnell, J. Shaw, G. W. Spencer, S. J. Charman, S. Mingo, G. Hartwell, E. Collins, A. Bailey, C. Brown, F. A. Crooks, A. Taylor—all of the 119th R. T., Royal Engineers, British Expeditionary Force, France.

Could there be better evidence of the merit of Sloan's Liniment, or stronger proof that it gives relief from the pains of rheumatism, sprains, sore, stiff muscles, and the after-effects of exposure to bad weather and hard work? Do not suffer with these aches and pains! Use Sloan's Liniment and get comforting relief. Clean, safe, effective, soothing. The largest bottle for greatest economy.

13 Dollars—13 Cents

When Swift & Company paid, say,—13 dollars per hundredweight for live beef cattle last year, their profit was only 13 cents! In other words, if we had paid $13.13, we would have made no profit.

Or, if we had received a quarter of a cent per pound less for dressed beef we would have made no profit.

This is bringing the producer and the consumer pretty close together—which should be the object of any industry turning raw material into a useful form.

This remarkable showing is due to enormous volume, perfected facilities (packing plants strategically located, branch houses, refrigerator cars, etc.), and an army of men and women chosen and trained to do their special work.

This, and many other points of interest, are found in the Swift & Company Year Book for 1919, just published which is brought out for the public as well as for the 25,000 Swift & Company shareholders.

The Year Book also represents the packer's side of the Federal Trade Commission investigation, upon which Congress is asked to base action against the industry.

Would you like one? Merely mail your name and address to the Chicago office and the book will come to you.
